It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

- + Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.
- + Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.
- + Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.
- + Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

STATE OF NEW YORK

ANNUAL REPORT

OF

THE ADJUTANT GENERAL

For the year 1919

BRIGADIER GENERAL CHARLES W. BERRY
The Adjutant General

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE ADJUTANT-GENERAL OF THE STATE

THE ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S OFFICE,

ALBANY, December 31, 1919

To the Governor:

SIR.—The following report is submitted in compliance with Section 17 of the Military Law.

GENERAL REMARKS

During the War with Germany, there was organized in the State in compliance with the provisions of the State Constitution and in order that troops might be available for the protection of life and property a military force known as the New York Guard. This force took the place of the New York National Guard which was drafted into the service of the United States on August 5, 1917, and thereby discharged from the militia. The New York Guard rendered valuable service in guarding public utilities, preserving order and in many other ways. Its members are entitled to the highest commendation for the patriotic manner in which they performed the important duties thrust upon them in time of war. It was necessarily composed, however, largely of men who were not eligible for active service. At the close of the war its membership consisted almost entirely of those not subject to the Selective Service Law — boys under the age of 18 years, men over the age of 45, men whose business or family relations were such that their presence was required in their home communities and men with physical defects which barred them from active service but which were not sufficient to prevent them from performing duty in the New York Guard at their home stations. Many of these men joined for the emergency only and were anxious to leave the service as soon as the armistice was signed. At no time was the New York Guard properly armed, uniformed and equipped.

On January 1, 1919, this force consisted of about twenty-two thousand officers and men. Some of the organizations were efficient but a majority of them, by reason of lack of proper equipment and training and because of the reasons stated above, could not be relied upon for active service. It is doubtful if 5000 men could have been placed on active duty in an emergency at that time.

It was apparent that when I assumed office on January 13th that prompt action should be taken to reorganize the New York Guard and to supply the reorganized force with arms, uniforms and equipment. Accordingly, on January 30th, a committee consisting of the following officers was appointed to make recommendations as to the military policy of the State, viz.: Commodore Robert P. Forshaw, Naval Reserve; Brigadier-General George R. Dyer, 1st Brigade, N. Y. G.; Brigadier-General Cornelius Vanderbilt, Reserve; Brigadier-General Louis L. Babcock, 4th Brigade, N. Y. G.; Brigadier-General F. DeForest Kemp, 3d Brigade, N. Y. G.; Brigadier-General James Robb, 2d Brigade, N. Y. G.; Brigadier-General Daniel Appleton, Retired; Brigadier-General Louis W. Stotesbury, Reserve; Brigadier-General John Foote, Reserve; Brigadier-General James W. Lester, Reserve; Brigadier-General George C. Fox, Retired; Colonel Charles E. Walsh, 10th Infantry, N. Y. G.; Colonel Frederick W. Baldwin, 14th Infantry, N. Y. G.; Colonel Lyman P. Hubbell, 65th Infantry, N. Y. G.; Colonel George W. Burleigh, 9th Coast Defense Command, N. Y. G.; Colonel Walter J. Carlin, 2d Field Artillery, N. Y. G.; Lieutenant-Colonel Frank S. Sidway, 74th Infantry, N. Y. G.; Lieutenant-Colonel James Eben, 71st Infantry, N. Y. G.; Lieutenant-Colonel John McGaffin, Reserve; Major Alfred Wendt, Squadron A, Cavalry, N. Y. G.; Colonel William H. Chapin, National Guard Reserve; Colonel William W. Ladd, Retired; Major Daniel W. Burr, Retired; Major Frank J. Foley, National Guard Reserve; Commodore Louis M. Josephthal, Naval Militia.

In his message to the Legislature of 1919, the Governor had referred to the problem of the reinstatement of former members of the National Guard in the State Militia and had promised that he would make the subject the matter of a special message later in its session. This question was also referred to the committee for recommendation as to the action to be taken to secure the return to the State service of the officers and men then in the service of the United States but who were expected shortly to be mustered out of such service.

The committee met at the 71st Regiment Armory, New York City, on February 4, 1919, and on February 8, 1919, made the following report to the Governor:

HEADQUARTERS, TENTH INFANTRY, NEW YORK GUARD, STATE ARMORY.

195 WASHINGTON AVENUE.

ALBANY, N. Y., February 8, 1919.

To the Governor of the State of New York:

SIR.—The Committee appointed by you under S. O. 25, A. G. O. to make recommendations as to the military policy of the State, having carefully considered all the factors entering into the question, respectfully recommend:

1. That the Adjutant-General of the State immediately order each unit commander to take all necessary steps for the reorganization of his command so that it will attain the standard required by the National Defense Act of 1916.

2. That when a unit reports that it is reorganized according to the required standard, and ready for inspection, The Adjutant-General of the State shall immediately take such steps as may be necessary to obtain arms and equipment for that organization from the Federal Government.

3. That where a unit as a company, battalion, or regiment, occupies an armory the commanding officer thereof shall make such arrangements as may be possible to have units returning from Federal service march to their respective armories with such escort, ceremony and welcome as may be proper for the occasion, and that as soon as possible thereafter he confer with the officers of the returning organization and make such mutual arrangements as may be possible to secure their return to the military service.

4. That where two or more officers of the same grade are available for a single position, the matter shall be referred to the Division Commander who will adjust it, if possible, in such manner that the best interests of the State may be conserved and both officers be utilized in some capacity, an officer with actual combat experience in the late war having the preference. When such adjustment cannot be made satisfactorily in the manner indicated above, or should either party disagree with ruling of the Division Commander, the matter should be referred to the Governor for final decision.

Respectfully submitted:

C. VANDERBILT,
Chairman.

CHARLES E. WALSH,
Secretary.

This report having been approved by the Governor, on February 10th General Orders No. 5 was issued by this office directing each unit commander, under proper supervision and control of his immediate superiors, to commence at once the reorganization of his command to conform to the requirements of the War Department for National Guard troops, as follows:

- (a) By eliminating men not physically qualified.
- (b) By eliminating men not within the prescribed age limits.
- (c) By eliminating men not willing or able to serve under the conditions required of National Guard troops.
- (d) By obtaining, by a vigorous and tactful local recruiting campaign, as members of his command, as many as possible of the former officers and men of the U. S. Army and also by obtaining as members of his command such citizens and former members of the State forces as meet the requirements prescribed by the War Department.

The order also instructed each officer in charge and control of an armory to make arrangements to have returning National Guard units from his locality march to the armory with such escort, ceremony and welcome as might be proper for the occasion and required such officer to confer with the commanding officers of the returning organizations and make such mutual arrangements as might be possible to secure the return to the military service of the State of officers and men of their commands. In cases where such arrangements would provide two officers of the same grade for one position, the matter was to be decided by the officer authorized by law to make nominations for the position concerned who would adjust the difficulty in such manner that the best interests of the State would be conserved and both officers utilized in some capacity. Other things being equal, the officer who had had actual combat experience in the World War was to be given the preference. Where an adjustment satisfactory to all concerned could not be reached, the matter was to be referred, through the channel, to the Governor for decision.

On February 12, 1919, the War Department was notified that the State was organizing a military force to conform in all respects to the requirements of the Federal Government for National Guard troops and was requested to designate the particular units to be maintained in the State in accordance with the provisions of Section 60 of the Act of Congress of June 3, 1916, and on February 17, 1920, a reply was received from the Militia Bureau, War Department, in which it was stated that a schedule of organizations was being prepared and that as soon as the appropriation bill then before Congress became a law, units would be designated to be organized in the State. This letter from the Militia Bureau further stated that the Bureau would appreciate any suggestions which this office cared to make concerning the units which the State of New York contemplated organizing. In reply this office advised the Militia Bureau, under date of February 20, 1919, that the State desired to organize National Guard troops to represent the units from the State which lost their identity as New York National Guard organizations by draft into Federal service and would be willing to organize such additional units as might be required of it by the War Department — such as a Tank Corps, Aero Squadron, etc. The Militia Bureau was also informed that the State desired to obtain the services of the officers and men who had served in the Army of the United States during the War with Germany and that to induce these men to join the National Guard the Act of Congress of June 3, 1916, should be amended by changing the period of enlistment from six years (3 years in active service and 3 years in the reserve) to one year.

On April 12, 1919, the Militia Bureau advised this office that, in order to provide a limited number of units of National Guard available for the maintenance of law and order, there had been allotted to the State four regiments of infantry, one squadron (four troops) of cavalry, and one coast defense command of twelve companies. On July 3, 1919, authority was requested of the Militia Bureau to federalize the entire New York Guard which request was disapproved. On July 15, 1919, this office requested permission to organize one battalion of Signal Corps troops; one regiment of Engineers; one regiment and one squadron of Cavalry; one regiment of Field Artillery; thirty-six companies of Coast Artillery organized into three Coast Defense Commands; four Field Hospitals; four Ambulance Companies; fifteen regiments and one battalion of Infantry, and the necessary brigade and division headquarters, troops and trains. This request was refused on July 18, 1919, but meanwhile and on July 16, 1919, the Militia Bureau allotted to the State four regiments of Infantry; one squadron of Cavalry; one regiment of Field Artillery; one regiment of Engineers; one battalion of Signal Corps; one Engineer Train; one Sanitary Train, complete, and twelve companies of Coast Artillery which allotment included the units previously authorized under date of April 12, 1919.

On November 29, 1919, the Militia Bureau authorized the organization of the following units which authorization included the units previously allotted to the State on April 12 and July 16, 1916, viz.:

- One Infantry Division, complete, consisting of
- 1 Division Headquarters,
 - 2 Brigade Headquarters, Infantry,
 - 1 Brigade Headquarters, Field Artillery,
 - 4 Regiments, Infantry,
 - 3 Regiments, Field Artillery, (2-75 mm.; 1-155 mm.),
 - 1 Regiment, Engineers,
 - 1 Battalion, Signal Corps,
 - 3 Separate Battalions, Infantry (To be converted into Machine Gun Battalions or other tactical units when such organizations are authorized for the Regular Army),
 - 1 Regiment, Cavalry,
 - 1 Engineer Train (Headquarters and Supply Sections only),
 - 1 Train Headquarters and Military Police,
 - 1 Headquarters, Field Hospital Train,
 - 1 Headquarters, Ambulance Train,
 - 4 Field Hospitals (motorized),
 - 4 Ambulance Companies (motorized),
 - 1 Ammunition Train (motorized),
 - 1 Supply Train (motorized),
- also the following additional units:
- 1 Brigade Headquarters, Infantry,
 - 2 Regiments, Infantry,
 - 1 Battalion, Engineers Mtd. (for Cavalry Division),
 - 1 Separate Battalion, Infantry, (To be converted into Machine Gun Battalion or other tactical unit when such organizations are authorized for the Regular Army),
 - 36 Companies, Coast Artillery.

The New York Guard on November 29, 1919, the date of the last allotment of troops to the State, consisted of:

- 1 Division Headquarters,
- 4 Brigade Headquarters, Infantry,
- 14 Regiments, Infantry,
- 3 Regiments, Field Artillery,
- 1 Regiment, Engineers,
- 1 Battalion, Signal Corps,
- 1 Regiment, Cavalry,
- 1 Engineer Train (Hdqs. and Supply Sections only),
- 1 Sanitary Train Headquarters, (authorized Oct. 30, 1919),
- 4 Field Hospitals,
- 3 Ambulance Companies,
- 3 Coast Defense Commands, consisting of 36 companies,
- 1 Squadron, Cavalry,
- 1 Machine Gun Battalion.

The following organizations of the New York Guard are in excess of the allotment:

- 1 Brigade Headquarters, Infantry,
- 8 Regiments, Infantry,
- 1 Squadron, Cavalry,
- 1 Machine Gun Battalion.

The State has had allotted to it the following organizations which are not now in existence:

- 1 Brigade Headquarters, Field Artillery,
- 4 Separate Battalions, Infantry, (To be converted into Machine Gun Battalions or other tactical units when such organizations are authorized for the Regular Army),
- 1 Battalion, Engineers, Mtd. (for Cavalry Division),
- 1 Train Headquarters and Military Police,
- 1 Ambulance Company,
- 1 Ammunition Train (motorized),
- 1 Supply Train (motorized).

Unless additional troops are allotted to the State, it will be necessary to disband or reorganize the surplus organizations in order to meet the requirements of the War Department. This will mean the elimination, under their present designations at least, of organizations which have served the Country with honor in the Civil and Spanish-American Wars and in the War with Germany.

FEDERAL RECOGNITION

Under the allotments of troops to the State by the War Department, the following organizations have been designated for Federal recognition:

2d Infantry, Troy, N. Y., with units at Troy, Schenectady, Cohoes, Saranac Lake, Plattsburg, Gloversville, Amsterdam, Whitehall, Glens Falls, Saratoga and Hoosick Falls.

3d Infantry, Syracuse, N. Y., with units at Syracuse, Auburn, Rochester, Geneva, Clyde, Oswego, Canandaigua, Newark, Pulaski, Medina, Brockport, Ogdensburg, Massena, Malone, Chateaugay and Watertown.

7th Infantry, New York City.

23d Infantry, Brooklyn, N. Y.

69th Infantry, New York City.

71st Infantry, New York City.

1st Field Artillery, New York City, with batteries in New York City, Syracuse and Binghamton.

2d Field Artillery, Brooklyn, with batteries in New York City and Brooklyn.

65th Field Artillery, Buffalo, N. Y.

22d Engineers, New York City.

1st Battalion, Signal Corps, New York City, with units in New York City and Brooklyn.

1st Cavalry, Brooklyn, N. Y., with units in Brooklyn, Buffalo, Albany, Syracuse, West New Brighton, Utica, Rochester and Geneseo.

New York Engineer Train, New York City.
 1st Field Hospital, New York City.
 2d Field Hospital, Albany, N. Y.
 3d Field Hospital, Brooklyn, N. Y.
 4th Field Hospital, Buffalo, N. Y.
 2d Ambulance Company, New York City.
 4th Ambulance Company, Syracuse, N. Y.
 8th Coast Defense Command (12 Companies), New York City.
 9th Coast Defense Command (12 Companies), New York City.
 13th Coast Defense Command (12 Companies), Brooklyn, N. Y.

When the first allotment of troops was made to the State, the period of enlistment in the National Guard was six years (3 years in active service and 3 years in the reserve). Many young men who would otherwise have joined the National Guard were unwilling to enlist for such a long period and accordingly on July 11, 1919, Congress amended the law so that now one-third of the enlistments are made for one year and the remaining two-thirds for three years without any service in the reserve. In addition the law now provides that persons who have served as enlisted men in the Army of the United States or in the Organized Militia subsequent to April 6, 1917, and who have been honorably discharged may within six months after such discharge or within six months of the passage of the law enlist for one year and may re-enlist for like periods.

The following units have been recognized by the War Department to date and it is expected that the remaining units designated for Federal recognition will be inspected and accepted by the War Department during the coming year:

The New York Guard did not conform in all respects as to organization, designation and location of units with the National Guard whose place it took. In some cases in order to distinguish them from their predecessors organizations were given new designations. The special arms of the service were attached to the brigades in whose territory they were located instead of being attached to Division Headquarters where they normally belonged. Companies had been organized in cities and villages where no armory facilities existed and where the population was not sufficient to maintain organizations in time of peace. These companies were formed for the emergency only and their members, in most cases, were anxious to disband as it was realized that the organizations could not be permanently maintained for the reasons stated above. The work of reorganization to conform to conditions which existed in the National Guard prior to the war and the work of disbandment of units formed for the emergency only is well under way. The following changes have been made during the past year:

(a) On February 3, 1919, Co. L, 23d Infantry, was transferred from Cedarhurst, N. Y., to Brooklyn.

(b) On May 22, 1919, Squadrons B, C, and D, Cavalry, N. Y. G., were reorganized and constituted a regiment of Cavalry, to be attached to Division Headquarters, and to be known and designated as the 1st Regiment, Cavalry, New York Guard.

The letter designation and location of the troops were announced as follows:

Old Designation	Station	New Designation
Troop A, Squadron C.....	Brooklyn.....	Troop A, 1st Cavalry
Troop B, Squadron D.....	Albany.....	Troop B, 1st Cavalry
Troop C, Squadron C.....	Brooklyn.....	Troop C, 1st Cavalry
Troop D, Squadron B.....	Syracuse.....	Troop D, 1st Cavalry
Troop E, Squadron C.....	Brooklyn.....	Troop E, 1st Cavalry
Troop F, Squadron C.....	West Brighton.....	Troop F, 1st Cavalry
Troop G, Squadron D.....	Utica.....	Troop G, 1st Cavalry
Troop H, Squadron B.....	Rochester.....	Troop H, 1st Cavalry
Troop I, Squadron B.....	Buffalo.....	Troop I, 1st Cavalry
Troop K, Squadron C.....	Huntington.....	Troop K, 1st Cavalry
Troop B, Squadron C.....	Brooklyn.....	Troop L, 1st Cavalry
Troop M, Squadron B.....	Ashantee, Avon....	Troop M, 1st Cavalry

The Commanding Officer of the regiment was authorized to organize a headquarters troop, a supply troop, and a machine gun troop with station at Brooklyn, as a part of his command.

On June 13, 1919, the designation of Troop C was changed to Troop L and the designation of Troop L was changed to Troop C.

(c) On May 23, 1919, the Motor Machine Gun Battery, 1st Field Artillery, was detached from that regiment, reorganized and attached to Division Headquarters as the 1st Motor Machine Gun Company, New York Guard.

(d) On May 29, 1919, the station of the 11th Company, 13th Coast Artillery Corps was changed from Far Rockaway to Brooklyn.

(e) On June 28, 1919, in order to establish Battery A, 1st Field Artillery at Syracuse, the station formerly occupied by the National Guard battery bearing that designation, Battery A, located in New York City was disbanded and Co. S, 3d Infantry, located at Syracuse was detached from that regiment and reorganized as Battery A, 1st Field Artillery, N. Y. G.

(f) On June 28, 1919, Co. T, 3d Infantry, N. Y. G., Syracuse, was detached from that regiment and reorganized as the 4th Ambulance Co., N. Y. G., attached to Division Headquarters with station at Syracuse, that being the station of the former National Guard Ambulance Company bearing that designation.

(g) On June 30, 1919, the following organizations were detached from the brigades indicated and attached to Division Headquarters:

Detached from 1st Brigade.

1st Battalion, Signal Corps;
Squadron A, Cavalry;
1st Field Artillery;
1st Field Hospital;
3d Ambulance Company.

Detached from 2d Brigade.

2d Field Artillery;
3d Field Hospital.

Detached from 3d Brigade.

2d Field Hospital.

Detached from 4th Brigade.

2d Ambulance Company.

(h) On July 14, 1919, Battery C, 1st Field Artillery, stationed at New York City, was disbanded and authority was granted to organize a new Battery C, at Binghamton, that being the station of the former National Guard battery bearing that designation.

(i) On July 31, 1919, the Supply Co., 10th Infantry, Oneida, N. Y., was redesignated as Co. H, 10th Infantry, N. Y. G., and on the same date authority was granted for the organization at Albany, N. Y., of a new Supply Company for the regiment.

(j) On August 1, 1919, the 1st, 2d, 3d, 65th and 74th Regiments of Infantry were reorganized and the 5th Battalion, Infantry, disbanded, as follows:

1ST INFANTRY

This regiment was reorganized by disbanding Co. F, Poughkeepsie, by redesignating certain companies, by authorizing the formation of a new company, and by transferring to it four companies of the 8th Coast Artillery Corps. The regiment as reorganized consisted of the following units, viz.:

RETURN OF MAJOR-GENERAL O'RYAN

Major-General John F. O'Ryan having returned from overseas and having been discharged as Commanding General, 27th Division, U. S. A., was, on March 31, 1919, placed in command of the New York Guard and directed to continue the reorganization of the State military forces as outlined in the report and recommendations of the committee on reorganization referred to in this report. Practically all of the officers who were on the Division Staff at the time that it entered Federal service resumed their former positions in the State service soon after General O'Ryan assumed command.

NATIONAL GUARD ENLISTMENTS

On December 29, 1919, New York Guard enlistments were discontinued and, under authority from the War Department, instructions were issued to make all future enlistments in the National Guard both for New York Guard and National Guard organizations. Men serving under National Guard enlistments in the New York Guard will be given credit in the National Guard for time so served as soon as the organizations of which they are members receive Federal recognition.

INSPECTION AND INVENTORY OF PROPERTY

In order to ascertain the condition of property in the possession of organizations and to secure an accurate inventory thereof, the Commanding General, Division, was instructed on October 9, 1919, to detail the necessary officers for that purpose. Owing to the confusion incident to mobilization in 1916 and 1917 and the absence of accountable officers during the war, the property accounts of organizations are in a chaotic condition and this inventory and inspection will place this office in a position to adjust same. It is believed that a great deal of property now unaccounted for will be found in the possession of organizations. The work will not be completed for several months to come.

INSPECTION AND MUSTER

An inspection and muster of organizations of the New York Guard, held under the supervision of the Commanding General, Division, to determine the general efficiency, fitness and availability of officers and enlisted men for service as National Guard has just been completed. Many of the organizations have made marked improvement during the year but, owing to lack of equipment and other conditions which have not been overcome, some of them cannot be considered as efficient. The improvement is especially noticeable in those organizations which officers and men who have had war experience have joined.

WORLD WAR RECORDS

New York has a record of each soldier from the State who served in the War of the Revolution, the War of 1812, the Mexican War, the Civil War and the Spanish-American War. It should have a record of each of its citizens who served in the War with Germany, and plans were made as soon as hostilities began to obtain such records. The War Department, however, shortly after troops began to be called to the Colors issued instructions that such records should not be furnished to the States after August 5, 1917. These instructions applied to Selective Service troops as well as to those of the National Guard.

New York acquiesced in this ruling of the War Department, but as soon as the armistice was signed this State as well as many others requested the Adjutant-General of the Army to furnish the records or to permit the State to make copies of same.

These requests were refused and on January 30, 1919, the Adjutant-General of the Army informed the Adjutant-General of Iowa that "The vast amount of labor that would necessarily be involved in any such attempt to respond to requests of this nature precludes this office from undertaking it. Data of any historical nature are now in course of compilation and will eventually be published, but it will never be found practicable to prepare and publish the military records of each and every individual who was in the United States Army during the period of hostilities."

Meanwhile, on January 14, 1919, a bill was introduced in Congress requiring the Adjutant-General of the Army and the Secretary of the Navy to furnish these records. This bill did not become a law, but the Adjutant-General of the Army having expressed a willingness to undertake the work should funds be made available therefor, Congress in July, 1919, appropriated $3,500,000 for the purpose of furnishing to the Adjutant-Generals of the several States statements of service of all persons from those States who entered the military service during the War with Germany, and for the purpose of arranging and operating the Selective Service records which were then in dead storage at Washington. Congress will be asked to enact at its next session similar legislation with respect to the records of those who served in the Navy. The Commandant of the Marine Corps has agreed to furnish the records of those who served in that Corps within the next few months, and has stated that no legislation would be necessary.

The compilation of these records is a tremendous undertaking and it may be several years before the work is completed. Many of the States have already passed laws providing for publishing these records in book form for distribution to public libraries, veteran organizations and State officials, and the Legislature of this State will be requested to provide funds for like purpose as soon as the records are received.

WAR HISTORIES

Efforts were also made to obtain the history of each organization, composed in whole or in part of men from this State, which served in the war. On August 11, 1919, the Historical Branch, War Plans Division, Washington, D. C., advised this office that brief histories of the divisions had been prepared but stated that it was not considered advisable to attempt to prepare histories of other organizations until the arrival of the archives from France and that the preparation of these histories after the archives arrived would be a slow matter on account of limited office force. A copy of the history of the 27th Division, U. S. A., was enclosed and is published herewith. No other histories have been received to date.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF THE TWENTY-SEVENTH DIVISION

(Prepared by the Historical Branch, War Plans Division, Washington, D. C.)

The Division was organized in compliance with War Department instructions at Camp Wadsworth, S. C., in September, 1917. The New York National Guard as its nucleus, the following units being used:

- 1st, 2d, 3d, 7th, 12th, 14th, 23d, 71st and 74th N. Y. Inf., Squadron A, 1st N. Y. Cavalry;
- 1st, 3d N. Y. Field Artillery;
- 22d N. Y. Engineers;
- 1st Bn. N. Y. Signal Corps;
- N. Y. Ammunition Train;
- N. Y. Supply Train;
- N. Y. Sanitary Train;
- N. Y. Headquarters and Military Police, 6th N. Y. Div. Hq. Troop.

The Division embarked for overseas at Newport News, Va., the first unit sailing on May 8th and the last arriving in France, July 7, 1918.

It was ordered to a training area and later entered the line with British units opposite Mt. Kemmel. On August 20th a move was made to the Dickebush Sector, Belgium, which was occupied next day. On August 31st the Division was a front-line division in the attack on Vierstaadt Ridge, the 30th U. S. Division on its left, 34th British Division on its right.

As a part of the 2d Corps (U. S.), 4th British Army, the Division was in action near Bony, September 24th to October 1st. On October 12th it again entered the line in the St. Suppiet Sector, crossing the Seille river in the attack on the Junc de Mer Ridge.

Major-General John O'Ryan, New York National Guard, commanded the Division from its organization until mustered out.

The Division insignia is a black circle with a red border in which are the letters NYD in monogram, surrounded by the seven stars of the constellation Orion.

The Division captured from the enemy the following: 2,358 prisoners and advanced 11 kilometers against resistance. During active operations it suffered the following losses: Killed, 1,791; wounded, 9,427; prisoners, 3 officers and 225 men.

One hundred and thirty-nine Distinguished Service Crosses have been awarded members of the Division.

The following organizations composed the Division:

105th, 106th, 107th, 108th Regts. Infantry;
104th, 105th, 106th Machine Gun Battalions;
104th, 105th, 106th Field Artillery Regts.;

SERVICE MEDALS

Mexican Border. Chapter 204 of the Laws of 1919 provides that the Adjutant-General of the State shall cause to be prepared and shall distribute a suitable service badge and ribbon to each officer and enlisted man of the National Guard of New York who served in the field for more than ten days under the orders of the Governor, dated June 19, 1916, directing the organizations of which they were members to be assembled preparatory to their muster into the service of the United States for Mexican border duty and to each officer and enlisted man who resided in the State of New York at time of enlistment and served in the Army, Navy or Marine Corps of the United States on the Mexican Border or in Mexico between June 18, 1916, and April 5, 1917. If any such officer or enlisted man be deceased, the badge and ribbon to which he would be entitled shall be delivered to his proper legal representatives.

Under this law 50 designs were submitted to this office by artists from various sections of the country. The one submitted by the Bailey, Banks & Biddle Company of Philadelphia, Pa., was adopted. The obverse of the medal will bear a representation of the Aztec god of war, Huitzilopochtli, and on the reverse will appear the coat of arms of the State with the words "Mexican Border Service, 1916-1917. Presented by the State of New York." The colors of the ribbon will be red, blue, yellow, green (center), yellow, blue and red, in the order named.

Bids for making the medals have been opened and the contract will be let within the next few days.

About 25,000 soldiers are entitled to this medal.

World War. Chapter 122 of the Laws of 1919 appoints a board consisting of the Governor, Adjutant-General and Chief of the Bureau of War Records to design and purchase bronze medals of honor and to adopt a suitable service ribbon as a mark of distinction and honor for all citizens of this State who entered the service of the United States in the War with the German Empire and its allies. The law provides that the bronze medals shall be presented by the State to the persons mentioned above or to the family of such of them as shall have died after entering such service.

Over 100 designs were submitted for this medal, the board adopting the one submitted by Captain Charles J. Dieges, 27th Division, U. S. A., of the firm of Dieges & Clust, New York city. The face of the medal presents the figure of the typical American soldier. In the background is a figure representing Liberty and Humanity draped in an American flag. In the distance are shown battleships, destroyers and transports, representing the Navy. The words "World War" balance the design.

The reverse of the medal shows the official seal of the State in the upper center, relieved by a wreath of laurel and oak. Superimposed on this wreath are the names of the countries in which American soldiers fought. The reverse also bears the inscription, "For service, 1917-1919. Presented by the State of New York." The colors of the ribbon will be blue, white, blue (center), white and blue, in the order named.

Bids for making this medal will be advertised for within a short time. At least 500,000 persons are entitled to this medal.

HOME DEFENSE RESERVE

On April 25, 1917, the Governor authorized the organization of the Home Defense Corps under section 5-a of the Military Law. Later the designation was changed to the Home Defense Reserve of New York State. This organization was a local auxiliary police reserve under the control of the Governor as commander-in-chief and was intended solely as a local police guard. The units were not to be used outside of the county in which organized. Arms, uniforms and equipment were not issued to it by the State other than a few Ross rifles in 1918. The units were equipped and maintained either by voluntary contributions or under chapter 235 of the Laws of 1917, which authorized a county, city, town or village to provide arms, uniforms and equipment for military organizations raised within the municipality. Its members were enrolled for the period of the emergency and the Governor had authority to terminate the liability under the enrollment oath at any time. Soon after the armistice was signed these organizations began to be mustered out and at present very few of them are in existence. Chapter 212 of the Laws of 1919 prescribes that all property in the possession of such organizations provided by or purchased from funds appropriated by a county, city, town or village shall be disposed of upon disbandment in a manner to be prescribed by the governing board of the municipality which provided the property or appropriated the funds from which it was purchased and further prescribes that all other property and funds in the possession of said organizations shall be disposed of upon disbandment in such manner as may be prescribed by a two-thirds vote of all of the members of the organization concerned in good standing at the time of disbandment. The following tabulation gives a list of Home Defense Reserve units and shows in most cases the date of disbandment and muster out.

APPENDIX D

HEADQUARTERS PROVISIONAL BRIGADE, N. Y. G.

176 State Street

ALBANY, N. Y., March 1, 1919.

FROM: Commanding General.
TO: The Adjutant General, S. N. Y.
SUBJECT: Report of Tour of Duty.

1. In accordance with Special Orders No. 311, A. G. O., dated December 11, 1917, a Provisional Brigade was created consisting of the First and Second Provisional Regiments, then in existence and on active duty guarding public property. Brigadier General F. DeForest Kemp was placed in command with headquarters at 176 State Street, Albany, N. Y.

This Brigade reported direct to The Adjutant General of the State and from him received all instructions and necessary authority. The Provisional Brigade was disbanded by Special Orders of The Adjutant General's Office on November 18, 1918.

The First Provisional Regiment guarded the water supply of the City of New York and was under the command of Colonel John B. Rose, 1st Infantry, N. Y. G. Its territory extended from the northern boundary line of the City of New York along the line of the Croton Aqueduct to Croton Lake, from thence to a point near Cold Spring on the east bank of the Hudson river at Breakneck tunnel where the Aqueduct crosses under the river to Storm King Mountain. Thence along the Aqueduct to Ashokan Reservoir, a distance of 96 miles. Two hundred forty-seven vulnerable points were guarded. The headquarters were at Croton Lake for the greater portion of the tour, but were eventually moved to Ossining.

The territory guarded by the Second Provisional Regiment, which was commanded by Major George J. Winslow, Inspector General, 3d Brigade, N. Y. G., extended from Albany and Troy along the line of the Barge canal to Whitehall, and from Waterford along the line of the Barge and Erie canals west to Tonawanda, north from Syracuse to Oswego, southwest from Syracuse to Waterloo with posts at the International Railroad Bridge at Niagara Falls, the bridge of the Central New England Railroad at Poughkeepsie, public buildings and two New York Central Railroad bridges at Albany. Additional details of men, for the purpose of guarding the points indicated were made to this regiment as follows:

(a) Jan. 10, 1918.—One corporal and 7 privates to guard the plant of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company at Poughkeepsie. The men on this duty were assigned to Company G and were relieved November 15, 1918.

(b) Feb. 12, 1918.—A company designated as Company K consisting of 3 officers and 125 men was assigned to the protection of the plant of the New York Air Brake Company at Watertown. This company was withdrawn July 22, 1918.

(c) Feb. 27, 1918.—Two corporals and 7 privates were placed on duty to protect the plant of the Champlain Silk Mills at Whitehall. These men were assigned to Company A and were later relieved from duty.

(d) July 17, 1918.—One sergeant, 3 corporals and 6 privates were assigned to duty with Company G to guard the property of the United States Ammunition Company at Poughkeepsie. This detachment was later relieved.

The total continuous extent of line covered by this regiment was about 532 miles and 140 posts were guarded.

Headquarters were located in the State Armory, Troy, N. Y.

The cost of protection of private plants was to be borne by the various corporations, and this policy resulted in the withdrawal of troops located at Watertown because of the inability to come to terms with the New York Air Brake Company. It also established a precedent for the protection of private industries in the United States during the war emergencies and was in line with the declaration of the Secretary of War that "States must protect properties within their borders without aid from the Federal authorities."

Inspections of the Commercial Research Corporation's property at Niagara Falls, the various plants of the Consolidated Gas Company in New York City, the Ship Building Plant at Shooters Island, and the Garbage Disposal Plant on Staten Island were made with a view of establishing guards, but the protection was never authorized.

Officers and men from this regiment were also detailed at various times to assist the Department of Justice and civil authorities in the arrest of draft evaders.

The approximate money value of the properties guarded was $550,000,000. During the tour of duty no damage was done, although much enemy activity and many attempts to do damage were reported.

On the Aqueduct a complete telephone system connecting all posts and headquarters was constructed, and on the east side of the Hudson river an electric lighting system installed which connected up with the barracks and furnished lights for the posts on that sector. The cost of these two systems was borne by the City of New York.

On the Barge canal, the telephone and lighting system located thereon was utilized, and where no service was available rentals were made with the New York Telephone Company, so that communication with each post in the brigade was possible.

A ration allowance of seventy-five cents per man per day was given, and the meals served were of particularly good quality. In some cases in the 2d Provisional Regiment, where posts were inaccessible and there were only three or four men on duty, arrangements to procure cooked meals at farm houses were made at the beginning of the tour, but eventually all posts cooked their own meals. "The Outpost Cook," a manual on cooking especially designed for small outposts was published as a result of this duty.

A prison camp was established at the State Camp, Peekskill, and prisoners filled the ice houses at that point, and cut all the hay at Camp Whitman, besides doing work on the roads at the State Camp.

Rifle practice was taken up by sending details of men from the various posts to the nearest ranges.

Inspections were made daily by inspecting officers assigned to each regiment, and medical inspections by the medical officers.

The average total daily strength of the brigade was 91 officers and 1960 men.

1. The officers and men were obtained by the volunteer system and represented practically every unit in the New York Guard. The problem of release and replacement was extremely difficult to cover as many men were not desirous of losing their identity with their home organizations even for a temporary period. After many conferences with the Brigade and Regimental Commanders, and The Adjutant General, men were transferred and placed in companies which were representative of their home regiment and under officers from their own regiments. This relieved the situation somewhat, but it is recommended, that, if in the future any similar work is undertaken by the military forces of this State, they be ordered as a company or regiment intact, as by this method alone can the esprit de corps be maintained and the best results obtained. On February 1, 1918, and again on April 18, 1918, The Adjutant General directed that "Inasmuch as New York City is paying the bill for the maintenance of the guarding of the Aqueduct, preference be given to men from New York City units." This plan was followed until later in the year when the policy was changed and men from up-State were utilized as replacements to the 1st Provisional Regiment.

The permission given inactive organizations of the New York Guard to enlist boys of sixteen years of age led to many very young men being placed on active duty. In practically every case it was necessary to release these boys from service as they were not physically qualified to endure the hardships of the duty.

After one or two months service men became imbued with a desire for foreign service, and enlisted in the United States forces. When the Selective Service Law became effective, men were taken from the brigade in great numbers. Due to replacements made necessary by the above cases a total of 9,650 men were on duty during this brigade's existence.

3. Barracks of a sectional type were constructed, built in approximately seven foot sections with double floors, paper lined side walls, roofed with boards covered with good roofing paper and made in various sizes suitable to housing from three to one hundred twenty-five men. Buildings conveniently located, if they could be obtained at a reasonable rate, were rented as barracks wherever possible. In the 2d Provisional Regiment construction was practically complete by January 1, 1918. In the 1st Provisional Regiment work was delayed considerably by inability to obtain lumber, due to demands of the United States Government for lumber to construct cantonments.

During summer months men were moved from barracks and put under canvas where canvas was obtainable. There was very little tentage in possession of the State, and although some purchases were made, the quantity possible to obtain, made a proportionate issue to each regiment necessary.

Subsistence purchases were centralized and issues made by the Supply Officer of each regiment.

Serious difficulty was encountered in the issue of clothing; first, because of lack of appropriations to obtain necessary quantity, and secondly, the great purchases of cloth by the Federal Government shut off all others from the market. Despite this fact, men were warmly clad, and, at the time of withdrawal of the force, provision had been made to issue each man a complete new outfit.

In connection with the purchase and issuance of uniforms and equipment I cannot commend too highly the efforts of Colonel J. Weston Myers, Officer in Charge, State Arsenal, for his energy in providing for the requirement of all.

Frequent conferences, lectures and personal instructions on financial transactions, paper work, and other matters were given by Major Edward J. Wilson, Brigade Quartermaster.

4. Discipline was maintained by the enforcement of the Articles of War, Military Law and Regulations.

In the 1st Provisional Regiment, a Summary Court Officer was appointed for each battalion, and in the 2d Provisional Regiment for each company. This latter was made necessary by the extreme distances covered by each company.

Moneys collected were first deposited to the credit of the Provisional organization with which the man fined served, but on August 9, 1918, Special Orders 211, A. G. O., directed the transfer of military funds of companies to the County Treasurer of the county in which the headquarters of the regiment was located, with instructions that the funds be administered by the three senior officers of each regiment. Funds so derived were used for the betterment of social conditions by purchase of books, victrolas, rental of pianos, table luxuries, etc.

5. The general health of the command was excellent except during the influenza epidemic of 1918. Most of the men gained in weight while on this duty. Only one case of typhoid fever was reported. Inoculations were given to men who came on duty and included both typhoid and paratyphoid serums.

During the months of September, October and November, 1918, the epidemic of influenza made inroads upon the personnel, there being nine hundred thirteen cases, and of this number thirty-six were fatal.

In connection with this epidemic, the work performed by the Women's Motor Corps deserves special mention. They worked night and day transporting men from the line to the various hospitals and were ceaseless in their efforts. In the 2d Provisional Regiment men were sent to hospitals in the immediate vicinity of their posts and treatment given by local doctors under the supervision of the two medical officers assigned to that regiment. In Albany the State Armory was used as a temporary hospital until local hospitals were able to receive the patients. On October 9th, the Commanding Officer, 1st Provisional Regiment reported that the Atlantic Division of the American Red Cross had established a hospital for the use of his command in the former military academy at Ossining owned by Mr. V. Everitt Macy who had donated the use of this building free of cost, and that Captain

Robert Lindsay of the Red Cross had equipped this building with various essentials and furnished some nurses. The City of Newburgh, through the efforts of Colonel Rose, having offered the use of a building controlled by the school board, Colonel Rose was authorized by this headquarters to establish a hospital at that point, to hire nurses, and purchase necessary supplies as indicated by the Chief Medical Officer of his regiment. The action of the Red Cross, the officials of the City of Newburgh, Mr. Macy, and the local Red Cross Chapters was most praiseworthy. The facilities placed at the disposal of the organizations were such that there is no doubt but what many lives were saved through their co-operation and generosity.

During the epidemic a temporary hospital was established in the armory at Whitehall to care for the civilian population, and at one time one hundred and ten cases handled. A supply truck from this organization having arrived with provisions for troops, and the emergency being great, the force operating the truck were directed to remain and assist. The men handled necessary supplies, took care of the sick, and even prepared graves for the dead. Their work was so greatly appreciated that resolutions of commendation were sent to the Governor by the Town Board.

In connection with the health of the men, where cases of venereal diseases were found, such men were promptly relieved from duty and all clothing destroyed.

The Red Cross were to erect and conduct canteens on the Aqueduct, and had worked out a system of traveling canteens for the Barge canal, when advice that troops were to be withdrawn caused the discontinuance of this activity. The Aqueduct Hostess House at Scarsdale was opened February 22, 1918, through the work of a committee of which Mr. Thomas Simpson was president, and the War Camp Community Club at Niagara Falls furnished facilities which were greatly enjoyed by men at that point.

6. The activities of the organizations composing the Provisional Brigade were many and varied; no publicity was given to the many attempts made to destroy or injure the valuable properties protected. Threats to blow up the Aqueduct were investigated and plans frustrated. A plot to destroy the International Bridge at Niagara Falls overheard in Erie, Pa., and reported to me by the Chief of Police at that place resulted in recalling all leaves and extra precautions being taken. An unknown man was killed while endeavoring to escape from the sentry at Gate 5, Post 40 near Mohawk. On April 11, 1918, the Empire State Express was wrecked in close proximity to Post 55—56 Guy Park, Amsterdam, with some loss of life and many injured. Men off duty at this Post rendered first aid, and assisted in the rescue, and policed the wreck. Major Becker, surgeon, 2d Provisional Regiment, a passenger and slightly injured himself, rendered valuable aid to the unfortunate. Private Leitt, Company D, 2d Provisional Regiment, on guard at the Lock at Palmyra on October 29th jumped in the Lock and rescued a small child from drowning. Men on the Aqueduct and at Poughkeepsie constantly observed signal lights which conveyed messages of considerable import to the enemy. Investigations which led to arrests of alien enemies were made by the Commanding Officer, 1st Provisional Regiment, in conjunction with Federal authorities. Due to lack of prior instruction there were twenty cases of accidental shooting. Only one fatality occurred. Sentries were fired upon one hundred and six times, two men being injured. Five hundred and fifty-one cases of suspicious actions were reported either before or after investigation. Eighty-two arrests were made, the charges being seditious utterance, loitering, robbery, enemy alien, draft evasion, desertion, photographing or sketching property protected, attempted damage to property protected. These cases were prosecuted by the Federal authorities. Three men on duty committed suicide. Aeroplanes were reported twelve times as passing over or lingering in the vicinity of protected points. Four fires were extinguished on the Poughkeepsie bridge. Two fires were extinguished on the Michigan Central bridge at Niagara Falls, two on the Livingston Avenue bridge at Albany, one at Building B of the New York Air Brake Company at Watertown, and one in a house near the Post at the Executive Mansion, Albany. Assistance was rendered at two fires adjacent to the Aqueduct, and two men were severely burned in a fire in a supply tent at Millwood. What would have been a serious accident was averted by the quick wit of a sentry at the Gorge in Niagara Falls, who being stationed at almost the identical spot where the great fatality occurred a year ago, having observed two large rocks fall in the Gorge, in the path of an approaching car, stopped the car which was traveling at high speed and was loaded with passengers.

7. It is interesting to record that the Post at Niagara Falls was visited at different times by the Commanding General of the Department of the East, U. S. A., and by Major General Sir Herbert Powell of the British Army, both of whom expressed satisfaction with conditions found, and complimented the Commanding Officer on the appearance of the men and quarters, and each sentry on his military bearing and courtesy. Frequent visits at unexpected places were made by various officers of the army who likewise commented favorably upon conditions found.

8. The general public of this State not having been informed by newspaper propaganda, never realized the size of the task which confronted the officers and men of this Brigade. The opinion prevailed with too many people that this service was a haven for those who wished to avoid the war's responsibility. Nothing could be further from the truth. When one considers that the 1st Provisional was charged with the great responsibility of the protection of a water supply which provided, first, means of combating a campaign of the torch which was carried on in the winter of 1917; second, the supply of potable water for ships engaged in carrying troops and supplies to France; and third, the continuous supply of water necessary to flush toilets, etc., in crowded districts, which, if interrupted meant a terrible pestilence, and that the 2d Provisional Regiment was responsible for the uninterrupted movement of submarine chasers, ships, raw materials and commerce of all kinds through the Barge canal, keeping clear one of the gateways to New England not alone for the transportation of raw material going into munitions manufactured there and their shipment back in finished product, but also the movement of coal and other essentials upon which depended the operation of factories and the means of livelihood of the people; the maintenance of uninterrupted communication with our Canadian ally for the same reason; and the protection of plants engaged in war industries, it can be seen that this work was not only State but National in scope.

The training men received enabled them to become noncommissioned officers upon entry into Federal service, and from reports received it would appear that 95 per cent. of men entering that service were warranted within ten days of their entry.

Figures elsewhere in this report show the personnel to have changed five times. Eighty-five per centum of these changes were due to entry into Federal service.

The work was exacting and irksome requiring continual guard duty. Any man who has performed two hours on and four off one day in seven can realize the monotony of a daily grind of four hours on and eight hours off, or six on and twelve off, which was the fate of these men. Shortage of man power made leaves of absence a rarity. Training camps at various cantonments in this country had Saturday and Wednesday half holidays with work only during daylight. Men at these camps were on duty without responsibility for the protection of life and property. The men of the Provisional Brigade were on duty as sentries or as relief twenty-four hours every day, with no holidays or Sundays off. This tour of duty was carried out in the severest winter known in fifty years, with temperature ranging from zero to thirty below. Instances are recorded of men performing continuous duty for twenty-four and thirty-six hours, where sickness left only one man on duty at a Post or snow and weather conditions prevented relief within that period. I would be remiss did I not express at this time my great appreciation of the attitude of the individual soldiers constituting this Brigade.

9. This work was under the general direction of The Adjutant General of the State. During this tour Brigadier General Charles H. Sherrill, Lieutenant Colonel Edward J. Westcott and Brigadier General Charles W. Berry have occupied that position and to them are due the thanks of all officers and men for the co-operation and support that was ever forthcoming.

To Colonel John B. Rose and Major W. L. Burnett are due praise for working out in conjunction with me many radical changes which I was directed to make in their organization, and for many original ideas which benefited their regiment.

Major George J. Winslow, who succeeded me as Commanding Officer of the 2d Provisional Regiment is worthy of special commendation for the splendid, businesslike administration and military performance of that organization.

The work performed by Major Edward J. Wilson, Brigade Quartermaster, was of inestimable value, not alone to me, but also to those who needed assistance in paper work and administration.

Majors Henry L. Butler and Daniel F. Nial, who, at different periods, served as Adjutants General of the Brigade, are given thanks for their faithful and efficient performance of their duties.

The Medical Officers attached to the two regiments whose skill and devotion to duty saved many lives during the influenza epidemic and held it in check with a low mortality and whose general work and sanitation and hygiene kept the sick rate very low, are to be especially complimented on their efforts.

10. In conclusion, and based on investigation and observation of this particular type of duty, I would make the following recommendations to be followed if a similar situation arises in the future.

(a) That all duty be ordered.

(b) That particular attention and instruction be given all officers in the preparation of payrolls, vouchers, property responsibility and accountability, the various Finance laws and Regulations which govern the action on and payment by the Comptroller of the State, of the City of New York and County Treasurers when troops are called out in aid of civil authorities. While the Military Law and the Regulations would appear to cover the ground, many conflicts could be avoided and prompt payment made if both sides were conversant with the Regulations applying to each other.

(c) That since the Constitution of the State provides that there shall be at all times maintained a properly uniformed, armed and equipped force of not less than ten thousand men, some provision should be made to immediately equip such new force as might be necessary were the present force taken away as in the late war. The same condition that confronted us in obtaining equipment would prevail unless a sufficient reserve was held for this purpose or appropriations which could be utilized at once were carried in the budget.

(d) If war medals are issued by the State for service in the World War, that the service rendered by officers and men of the Provisional Brigade be recognized and such medals issued to them. The same recommendation would apply to any bonus which may be given for service.

F. DEFOREST KEMP,

Brigadier General.

SQUADRON A, N. Y. G.

Headquarters, 1339-1349 Madison Ave, New York City

Troop A, Squadron A, N. G., N. Y., was mustered into the State service as a Depot Troop on March 14, 1916. On July 10, 1916, the formation of a Depot Squadron was authorized, which was mustered into the New York Guard and designated Squadron "A," N. Y. G., on following dates: Troop A, December 17, 1917; Troop B, December 18, 1917; Troop C, April 18, 1918; Troop D, January 21, 1919.

A large percentage of the men of this squadron have received commissions in the United States Army or other Federal Government appointments.

Attached to Division, June 30, 1919.

The squadron has received authority to place silver rings on the lances of its colors, engraved as follows:

On the National Color.—Spanish-American War, 1898; Porto Rico, 1898; Coamo, 1898; Asomanta, 1898. Mexican Border, 1916. World War 1917;

On the State Color.—Buffalo, August, 1892; Brooklyn, January, 1895; Croton Dam, April, 1900.

STATE OF NEW YORK

OF

State Racing Commission
1919

ALBANY
J. B. LYON COMPANY, PRINTERS
1920

ANNUAL REPORT

To the Legislature of the State of New York:

As required by the statute the State Racing Commission submits herewith its Annual Report for the year ending December 1, 1919.

This Commission was created in 1895 under the Racing Law (Ch. 570), which was enacted in that year for the improvement of the thoroughbred horse and for the careful regulation and control of the race-tracks in the State. The statute, as subsequently amended and now in force, is as follows — the sections being numbered here as they are numbered in the Membership Corporations Law, into which the Racing Law was codified in 1909:

CORPORATIONS FOR RAISING AND BREEDING AND IMPROVING THE BREED OF HORSES.

§ 280. Corporators. Any number of persons, not less than five, may become a corporation for the purpose of raising and breeding and improving the breed of horses, with all the general powers of corporations created under the laws of this state, by making, signing, acknowledging and filing a certificate which shall contain:

1. The name of the proposed corporation.
2. The objects for which it is to be formed, including a statement as to whether it is proposed to exercise the particular powers conferred by section two hundred and eighty-two of this chapter, and specifying whether it is proposed to conduct trotting or running or steeplechase race meetings.
3. The amount and description of the capital stock.
4. The number of shares of which the capital stock shall consist, each of which shall not be less than five nor more than one hundred dollars.

5. The location of its principal business office.
6. Its duration, which shall not exceed fifty years.
7. The number of its directors, not less than five nor more than thirteen, who shall each be a stockholder having at least five shares of stock.
8. The names and post-office addresses of the directors for the first year.
9. The post-office addresses of the subscribers and a statement of the number of shares of stock which each agrees to take in the corporation.

No certificate of incorporation under this section wherein the right to conduct running or steeplechase race meetings is claimed, shall hereafter be filed without the approval of the state racing commission indorsed therein or annexed thereto, stating that, in its opinion, the purposes of this article and the public interests will be promoted by such incorporation, and that such incorporation will be conducive to the interests of legitimate racing.

§ 281. Restriction upon commencement of business. No corporation organized under the provisions of this article shall engage in the prosecution or management of its business until the whole of its capital stock shall have been subscribed, nor until it shall have filed in the offices where its certificates of incorporation were filed, a further certificate stating that the whole of its capital stock has been in good faith subscribed, executed and acknowledged by its president or vice-president and treasurer or secretary, and verified by them to the effect that the statements contained in it are true.

§ 282. Right to hold race meetings and races. Any corporation formed under the provisions of this article, if so claimed in its certificate of organization, and if it shall comply with all the provisions of this article, and any other corporation entitled to the benefits and privileges of this article as hereinafter provided, shall have the power and right to hold one or more trotting or running race meetings in each year, and to hold, maintain and conduct trotting or running races at such meetings. At such trotting or running race meetings the corporation, or the owners of horses engaged in such races, or others who are not participants in the race, may contribute purses, prizes, premiums or stakes to be contested for, but no person or persons other than the owner or owners of a horse or horses contesting in a race shall have any pecuniary interest in a purse, prize, premium or stake contested for in such race, or be entitled to or receive any portion thereof after such race is finished, and the whole of such purse, prize, premium or stake shall be allotted in accordance with the terms and conditions of such race. Such meetings shall not be held except during the period extending from the fifteenth day of April to the fifteenth day of November, inclusive, in each year, nor upon any running course for more than forty days, nor upon any trotting course for more than fifteen days, nor upon any steeplechase course for more than five days, within such period. No races are authorized or shall be permitted except during such period nor except between sunrise and sunset.

§ 283. Certificate of payment of stock. Except as provided in this article, no corporation or association hereafter organized under this article or heretofore organized in pursuance of law for any purpose authorized by this article, shall have any of the powers conferred by section two hundred and eighty-two hereof until it shall have filed in the office or offices where its certificate of incorporation was filed, a further certificate stating that its capital stock has been fully paid in in cash, and if claiming the right to conduct running race meetings, that it actually maintains a race track of not less than one mile in length or circumference, the location of which shall be specified in such certificate. If such corporation or association was organized after the first day of February, nineteen hundred and two, and it claims the right to conduct running race meetings, the certificate must also have indorsed thereon, or annexed thereto, the approval of the State Racing Commission. Such certificate shall be executed and acknowledged by its president or vice-president and its treasurer or secretary, and verified by them to the effect that the statements contained in it are true. In the case of racing courses to be used for running races or steeplechases, a license from the State Racing Commission must also be obtained in the manner hereinafter provided, and such license be filed with such certificate.

§ 284. Additional certificates by existing corporations. 1. Any corporation heretofore or hereafter formed under the laws of the State for raising, breeding or improving the breed of horses, or formed or entitled to the benefits or privileges of an act, entitled "An act for the incorporation of associations for the improvement of the breed of horses and to regulate the same and to establish a State Racing Commission," upon filing a certificate that its capital stock has been fully paid in in cash or property in accordance with the provisions of the law in force at the time of issuance thereof, shall be deemed to have complied with the requirement of any statute or statutes of this State, providing for the filing of a certificate that the capital stock of such corporation has been fully paid in in cash, or requiring the filing of such certificate as one of the conditions upon which any rights or privileges may be obtained under or pursuant to such statute or statutes.

2. Such corporation, its officers, directors and trustees, shall be subject to all other provisions of such statute or statutes, and, subject to the conditions and restrictions thereof, shall be entitled to obtain and enjoy all the benefits and privileges thereof with the same force and effect as if such corporation were created by or pursuant to the provisions of such statute or statutes.

[The foregoing section was originally chapter 573 of the Laws of 1895, and was enacted to cover the racing corporations in existence on May 9, 1895.]

§ 285. State Racing Commission. There shall hereafter be a State Racing Commission, consisting of three persons, to be appointed by the Governor, and who shall hold office for the term of five years, no two of whom shall be members of the same racing association. They shall receive no compensation for their services, but shall be paid their necessary traveling and other expenses. Such Commission shall appoint a secretary, who shall serve during their pleasure, whose duty it shall be to keep a full and faithful record of the proceedings of such commission, preserve at the general office of such commission all books, maps, documents and papers entrusted to his care, prepare for service such papers and notices as may be required of him by the commission, and perform such other duties as the commission may prescribe. He shall have the power, under the direction of the commission, to issue subpoenas for witnesses and to administer oaths in all cases pertaining to the duties of his office. The total annual expenses of the State Racing Commission, including the salary of the secretary, shall not exceed the sum of five thousand dollars. Such expenses shall be paid by the several racing or steeplechase corporations or associations, owning or operating such race tracks, to be apportioned by the Comptroller, who shall, on or before the first day of December in each year, assess upon each of such corporations or associations its just proportion of such expenses, and such assessment shall be collected in the manner provided by law for the collection of taxes upon corporations. Such commission shall annually make a full report to the Legislature of its proceedings for the year ending with the first day of the preceding December, and such suggestions and recommendations as it shall deem desirable.

§ 286. License for running races and steeplechases. Any corporation or association desiring to obtain the benefits of the provisions of section two hundred and eighty-two of this article, if proposing to conduct a race-course or race meeting for running races or steeplechases, may annually apply to the State Racing Commission for a license to conduct running races and race meetings or steeplechases and steeplechase meetings, as the case may be. If, in the judgment of such commission a proper case for the issuance of such license is shown, it may grant such license for a term of one year. Every such license shall contain a condition that all running races or race meetings conducted thereunder shall be subject to the reasonable rules and regulations, from time to time prescribed by the Jockey club, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New York, and that all steeplechase meetings or steeplechases shall be subject to the reasonable rules and regulations from time to time prescribed by the National Steeplechase Association, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of New York. Any rule or regulation of such Jockey club or National steeplechase association may be modified or abrogated by the State Racing Commission, on giving such Jockey club or National Steeplechase Association an opportunity to be heard.

§ 287. Revocation of licenses. If any corporation or association to which a license shall be granted shall fail or refuse to comply with the provisions of this article, or with the terms and conditions of its license, or if for any other reason the continuance of such license shall not be deemed conducive to the interests of legitimate racing, the said commission, upon the complaint of the said Jockey club, in the case of race-courses to be used for running races, or upon the complaint of the said National Steeplechase Association, in the case of race-courses to be used for steeplechases, shall have the power to cancel and revoke such license. Written notice of such complaint shall be given to such corporation or association by said State Racing Commission within five days after receiving such complaint, which notice shall specify a time and place of hearing thereon. If the commission cancels and revokes such license all powers exercised under section two hundred and eighty-two of this article by the corporation or association to which such license was granted shall cease and determine.

§ 288. Trotting and fair associations, when entitled to privileges. Any trotting association, incorporated under the laws of the State of New York, and any state, county or other fair association shall be entitled to the privileges conferred by section two hundred and eighty-two of this article upon filing in the offices wherein its certificates of incorporation are filed, a certificate which shall set forth its intention to avail itself of such privileges; and any such trotting association, or state, county or other fair association shall not be required to obtain any license or file any other certificate. State, county and other fair associations entitled to conduct trotting races under the provisions of this article may also conduct running races in connection therewith, under the same provisions, and the provisions of this article requiring a race track to be of specified dimensions shall not apply to such association; but no running races shall be conducted for more than five days on any track or grounds, unless the license of the State Racing Commission therefor is first obtained.

§ 289. Notices to be posted upon grounds. Every corporation to be organized under this article or which shall be entitled to exercise any of the powers conferred by section two hundred and eighty-two shall cause to be properly posted in conspicuous positions upon the grounds whereon such races are held, printed notices or placards in large and legible type, which notices or placards shall be to the effect that all disorderly conduct, pool-selling, book-making or any other kind of gambling is prohibited, and such notices or placards shall contain a copy of section nine hundred and eighty-six of the penal law.

§ 290. Special policemen. For the purpose of preserving order and preventing offenses against the laws prohibiting gambling, the trustees or directors of any corporation created under the provisions of this article are hereby authorized to appoint from time to time five or more special policemen, and the same to remove at pleasure, who, when appointed, shall be police officers with the same powers within and about such grounds as are vested in constables of the town where such grounds are located, whose duty, when appointed, shall be to preserve order within and around the grounds, and race-tracks of said corporation, to protect the property within said grounds, to eject or arrest all persons who shall be improperly within the grounds of such corporation or who shall be guilty of disorderly conduct, or who shall neglect or refuse to pay the fees or to observe the rules prescribed by said corporation; and it shall be the further duty of said policemen, when appointed, to prevent all violations of law with reference to pool-selling, book-making and other gambling, and to arrest any and all persons violating such provisions, and to convey such person or persons so arrested, with a statement of the cause of such arrest, before a magistrate having jurisdiction of such offense, to be dealt with according to law. The appointment of policemen in pursuance of this section shall not be deemed to supersede in any wise on the grounds and race-track of such corporation the authority of peace officers of the jurisdiction within which such grounds and race-track are located.

§ 296. Penalty for unlawful racing and betting. All racing or trials of speed between horses or other animals for any bet, stake or reward, except such as is allowed by this article or by special laws, is a public nuisance; and every person acting or aiding therein, or making or being interested in such bet, stake or reward is guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction is punishable by imprisonment in the county jail or penitentiary for a period of not more than one year; and in addition to the penalty prescribed therefor he forfeits to the people of this state all title or interest in any animal used with his privity in such race or trial of speed, and in any sum of money or other property betted or staked upon the result thereof.

§ 297. Increased or additional entrance fees. A corporation or association authorized by or entitled to the benefits of this article, conducting a running or trotting or steeplechase meeting, shall have the right to charge increased or additional entrance fees for admission to any special portion or portions of the grounds of such corporation or association, unless such pool-selling or book-making as is punishable by fine or imprisonment, or other acts so punishable, be thereon authorized or knowingly permitted.

[The foregoing is the statute under which all thoroughbred racing is conducted now in this State. The portion of the Act of 1895 imposing a tax on the gross receipts of the running race-meetings for the benefit of the agricultural fairs was repealed in 1910. No amendments to this law were passed in 1919. The present powers and duties of the Commission are stated in sections 280, 283, and 285 to 287, inclusive, above set out.]

LICENSES GRANTED AND MEETINGS HELD.

Pursuant to the terms of the statute the Commission granted licenses during the year 1919 to the following racing associations, to hold running-race and steeplechase meetings, viz.: Metropolitan Jockey Club, Westchester Racing Association, Queens County Jockey Club, Empire City Racing Association, Saratoga Association for the Improvement of the Breed of Horses and United Hunts Racing Association; and under our licenses race meetings were held as follows:

Metropolitan Jockey Club (Jamaica).....	27 days
Westchester Racing Association (Belmont Park)....	30 days
Queens County Jockey Club (Aqueduct).....	29 days
Empire City Racing Association (Yonkers).....	29 days
Saratoga Racing Association (Saratoga Springs)....	26 days
United Hunts Racing Association.....	4 days

The total number of days' racing was 145; in 1918 it was 128; it was 107 in 1916, and 67 in 1913.

The purses and prizes offered and awarded reached the sum of $1,335,000—being an increase of more than $400,000 over the figures of 1918—as against $650,000 in 1916, and $335,000 in 1913.

The thoroughbred yearlings which were sold in the State at public auction during the year—so far we have records thereof—brought an average price of over $2,100 each.

THE JOCKEY CLUB'S BREEDING BUREAU.

The Jockey Club continues to maintain the Breeding Bureau which it began in 1906; and its report for the year 1919 is partly as follows:

“The Fourteenth Annual Report of The Breeding Bureau of The Jockey Club finds this Bureau with 16 stallions in New York State, 19 in Maryland, 6 in Pennsylvania, and one with the Grosse Pointe Hunt Club, near Detroit, Mich. * * *

“The 16 stallions in New York State were mated with 312 mares in the year 1919.

“During the fourteen years the Breeding Bureau has been in existence the total number of 7,769 mares have been bred to these thoroughbred stallions.

* * * * *

“The comments of Col. Fair, U. S. A., an active member of the Remount Commission, and of Col. C. L. Scott, Commander of the Issue and Sale of Remounts, after the Livingston County Fair, are worthy of consideration.

“Col. Fair said:

“‘It has been a very great surprise to find such substantial results in so short a time, and it shows what can be done through intelligent co-operation. I never saw a more uniformly excellent lot of young things than were shown to-day. Every colt by a thoroughbred sire, no matter what type of dam he came from, had the marks of his origin plainly indicated. Clydesdale, Percheron, Standard-bred, Coach or mongrel mares. had foals by their sides whose shoulders and pasterns bespoke the influence of a thoroughbred and the country at large owes a debt of gratitude to those who have brought about this development.

The sires shown have been of the proper type to get the sort of horse we want for the service. Those animals that come between 15 and 16 hands should make ideal remounts. Let the hunting field and the horse show have all that are 16 hands and over.

“The work being done here in the Valley is just what the Remount Commission would like to establish in every grazing community throughout the country and it is our purpose to encourage the work in every possible way. There is no better location for this movement than this lovely Valley. The long, severe winters are not a drawback. I regard them as a factor in the production of a hardy type of horse.”

“Col. Scott said:

“I have been located most of the time since 1905 west of the Mississippi and was not prepared for what I saw here in the way of horse production. I was struck by the fact that the disposition and other qualities of the sires in nearly every instance predominated in the foals. I am a firm believer in the half-bred horse as a proper type of remount, and would say that the ideal animal should stand 15.2 hands. The half-bred horse of this size would stand any amount of rough work in the ranks or on the picket line. He will be tough enough to stand the sort of horsemanship to be found among the recruits of the service, many of whom are poor horsemen. A dash of cold blood is, therefore, desirable in remounts, as the clean-bred horse would as a rule be too sensitive to endure the hard knocks cavalry inevitably receives.

“I am a firm believer in the western horse and admire him for his stamina, and lung capacity, but I do not think that the best remounts will be secured by crossing small horses on 900 pound Western native mares. Using a heavy full made horse, or employing a 1,200 pound or still heavier mare would be more satisfactory. The off-spring, if too large for cavalry, would have a high commercial value.

“The thoroughbred and the thoroughbred sire alone should be employed in the work of cavalry horse production. He alone has the refining influence and transmits the qualities which make for improvements, no matter what type of mare he is crossed with, and I am for him, first, last and all the time.

“During the period of my Western observation, which extended over many years, I have seen a steady disappearance of the sturdy type of horse once so prevalent and now so necessary, and unless something is done to revive interest in his kind it will be almost impossible to find a good riding or cavalry horse except where he is bred for special purposes. He would be only available at very high prices and the rich would have a monopoly on what should constitute a pleasure for all of our people. It is a splendid work and other communities should follow the example of the Genesee Valley country in his production.' "

REPORT OF TRUSTEES

To the Legislature of the State of New York:

The trustees of the Northern New York Institution for Deaf-Mutes herewith submit for consideration the following report for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919.

It is with great pleasure that we are able to report the continued prosperity of our school in all the many branches of its activity.

Our accommodations are now quite ample for all classes and, notwithstanding the fact that we now have the largest enrollment of pupils in the history of the institution, all can be cared for properly.

The good work being accomplished by our superintendent and his able corps of assistants from year to year has been and is a source of gratification to the board of trustees. Handicapped as are the pupils entrusted to our care, by reason of their unfortunate condition, the progress that they are making in the different lines of instruction given them, and the training that they receive in agriculture, the mechanical arts and trades, and also in domestic science, cannot fail to be of great assistance to them in overcoming the difficulties under which they labor in life's work. It is the aim of the school to keep abreast of the progressive spirit of the times, and to leave nothing undone that will be of benefit to the pupils.

From the very nature of the case, the education of the deaf child requires loving, painstaking and patient work on the part of the teacher, who must stand in the relation of parent as well as teacher in order to gain his love and affection and to make him feel that the school is also a home as well as a school, thereby encouraging him to be happy and contented. A personal visit to the school will show how well this feature of the work is being accomplished.

The health of the household at the institution during the past year has been remarkably good. It was very fortunate that there was not a single case of the influenza in the school during the prevalence of the dread disease throughout the country during the last autumn.

Unfortunately, one of our boys, Wayne Carter, of Canton, N. Y., was drowned while bathing with other and older boys in a pond near the institution. It was through no carelessness on the part of any one, as the place was considered safe and the boys were attended by an older pupil to look after those permitted to go into the water.

Our financial condition, although somewhat impaired by the extremely high cost of everything, is still good, as will be seen by reference to the report of our treasurer, which will be printed herewith, but we will need increased income during the coming year in order to provide better vocational training, better supervision, and better salaries for our teachers.

The institution will need an appropriation from the State to purchase and install a low-pressure steam boiler in the kindergarten building; to install new toilets in basement of the same building; for constructing cement walks, and for reshingling barns and icehouse.

Respectfully submitted,

HENRY A. MILLER,

President.

REPORT OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

To the Board of Trustees of the Northern New York Institution for Deaf-Mutes:

During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, your executive committee has held seven meetings, minutes of the proceedings of which were kept by the secretary of the committee and will be read to you as a part of this report.

During the year, the system of checking and auditing all accounts and claims against the institution by the committee each quarter has been continued.

Your committee, in conjunction with the superintendent, has taken charge of and has acted upon all matters requiring formal action or decision and that were of such character as not to require or properly call for meetings of the full board of trustees.

During the year many matters that did not require formal meetings have had the attention of the committee, and the chairman has had many conferences with the superintendent in relation to the daily affairs of the institution, as and when called upon by the superintendent or otherwise; all of which is respectfully submitted.

Dated October 29, 1919.

MATT. C. RANSOM,

Chairman Executive Committee.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT.

To the Board of Trustees of the Northern New York Institution for Deaf-Mutes:

GENTLEMEN.—Thirty-five years ago the institution opened its doors for the instruction of children who, because of impaired hearing or defective speech, could not be educated in the public schools successfully. Then we had one class and twelve pupils. To-day we have ten teachers in the literary department and four in charge of vocational training. The attendance has increased gradually until now the number of pupils is 107, of which 51 are girls and 56 are boys. Since last October 22 new pupils have been enrolled. No other year in the history of the institution records so many new admissions. The work of the school was started in one rented house. It is now being carried on in a group of eight buildings, exclusive of barns, and the value of real and personal property exceeds $213,000.

The development of the institution has been accomplished by unselfish and devoted service. The spirit of co-operation on the part of trustees, the earnest endeavor of officers and teachers, and the records made by our graduates, have established its use to society and its need to the State. Nearly 400 boys and girls have received the benefits of its instruction, and most of them are making good. Some have attained to positions of prominence and many are not only self-supporting, but their personal contributions to the success of civic life means a great deal to those with whom they have cast their lot.

Last year one boy and one girl were returned to parents with their speech so far corrected that their success in the public schools seems to be well assured. One of our graduates is taking the commercial course at Franklin Academy; another is preparing himself for a college course, and still another has entered the Philadelphia Divinity School to prepare himself as an Episcopal missionary among the deaf.

Last summer Dr. Roy Marshall, an alumnus, returned from France, where he served in the medical department of the United States army. He has resumed the practice of medicine at Rome, N. Y. It is a matter of great pride to us all that he and three others of our boys could respond to their country's call and be accepted for such high and glorious duty.

The institution has emerged from early conditions of adversity to the present comfortable circumstances with which it is surrounded. Members of this board are pleased, and the parents of our children will be glad to know that no part of its income is used to pay interest on indebtedness, but that every dollar of expenditure is made for the advantage of its pupils.

We are grateful for another year during which general good health has prevailed. Only four cases of illness were cared for in the hospital, and not any of these were of a serious character. The influenza of last year escaped us altogether, and, fortunately, no contagious disease of any kind found its way within our doors.

Our little farm is a valuable asset to the institution. This year it has yielded hay, oats, corn, and of ensilage more than enough to fill our silo. From the garden there has been put into storage 33 bushels of beets, 58 bushels of onions, 41 bushels of carrots, 17 bushels of turnips, 19 bushels of parsnips, 282 pounds of squash, 2,000 cabbages, and 900 heads of celery. In addition, 3 bushels of tomatoes were supplied to the tables, and 4 bushels were made into pickles and relishes. We have a dairy of 9 cows, which produces an abundance of milk, so that our children are well supplied with this splendid, nutritious food at every meal of the day. To the dairy there should be credited also 441 pounds of beef and 403 pounds of veal, which were served from our kitchen as food. From the hogs we have taken 353 pounds of pork and 34 little pigs were sold for $194. Besides furnishing 633 pounds of poultry, the hens laid 2,246 dozens of eggs, of which 580 dozens have been put down in water glass for use during the winter months. In this part of the State it has not yet been a good year for fruit, yet from the orchard there have been gathered 11 barrels of apples. Of other crops produced there are 500 bushels of potatoes, not more than one-half enough to meet our needs, about 8 tons of cow beets, and it is estimated that after threshing we will have from 18 to 20 bushels of beans.

In these times when the cost of living is so high, and when the practice of strict economy is necessary, the production of so much foodstuffs insures our household against some deprivations which must be borne by many small families in homes, and by much larger families in many institutions.

In the way of improvements, some grading was done in front of the kindergarten annex; interiors of buildings were repaired and decorated; cement floors were laid in piggery, and the exterior woodwork of the central group of buildings was painted by two of our pupils who were employed for this purpose.

Once again permit me to direct your attention to the need of better toilet facilities in the kindergarten. The system which was installed in the basement of this building over twenty years ago does not meet the requirements of to-day. It is unsightly and unsanitary. It should be replaced with modern fixtures.

The heating system in this department has outworn its usefulness to such an extent that it is very difficult to keep the building comfortable in cold weather. There are four furnaces in this building, of the old hot air type, and their capacity is not more than one-half as great as that of one good-sized low-pressure steam boiler, and they cost nearly twice as much to operate because of their defective condition and because they require hard coal as fuel, the price of which in these times is excessively high.

The roofs of barns, icehouse and lodge need to be reshingled, and requests for necessary appropriations have been made, not only to furnish material for this work, but to carry out recommendations as to new plumbing and heating system for kindergarten building. It is hoped that you may appreciate the importance of these changes and repairs and that you will support earnestly such efforts as may be made to get legislative assistance.

The death of Wayne Carter by drowning was the one sad event of the year. Together with several boys of his age, under the care of an older pupil, he went to a shallow branch of the river to swim. Connecting this branch with deeper water there is a short outlet into which the boys had frequently gone. But this time Wayne had ventured a little too far. Without knowing it he had passed beyond the place where he should have stopped, and it is thought that he expected to make a safe landing, but finding himself beyond his depth fear so overcame him that he sank without giving a single sign of distress. Some of the boys saw him go down. Little did they suspect that he was drowning, but as he did not return to the surface within a reasonable time, the older boy in charge started to the rescue. He dove twice before he found the poor little fellow, and then in haste he bore the body to the shore. Life was still in it. There was hope, and as some of the boys vigorously applied their knowledge of first aid which they had learned as Boy Scouts, others ran to spread the alarm and to get help. Dr. Wilding was called and he rushed to the scene, but alas, he was too late to be of use. The boy was dead. Funeral services were held in the auditorium of the kindergarten annex and the remains of our little friend were taken to Canton, N. Y., and buried beside those of his mother, who died some time ago. Wayne had nearly reached his twelfth year. He was a boy of good promise, and by his many splendid qualities he had won the confidence and love of all who are connected with the school. He has left with us the influence of good cheer and a fine example of kindness. Many of us could not do better. Perhaps there are some who could not do as well. So may even a little deaf boy help to bring courage and strength to those who hear.

A very pleasant feature of the year was the appearance of two classes of primary children at the county convention of the W. C. T. U. in the Methodist church of this village. Their recitations in musical rhythm and their songs and marching elicited many expressions of commendation.

Our teachers are faithful to their duties and successful in their work. Some of them have been with us a long time and in the matter of salaries they deserve your most favorable consideration.

Respectfully submitted,

EDWARD C. RIDER,

Superintendent.

REPORT OF THE PHYSICIAN.

To the Board of Trustees of the Northern New York Institution for Deaf-Mutes:

GENTLEMEN.— Considering the unusual amount of sickness in the country at large and particularly in Malone, and the close proximity of the school to the village, it is a little short of marvelous that we have gone through the past year without an epidemic. When the school opened in September there was an epidemic of intestinal trouble among the children of Malone, followed in October and November by a very severe epidemic of influenza. We did not have a case of either disease in the school.

We had the usual amount of minor illness to be expected among such a large number of children, e. g., colds and upset stomachs.

We had four cases of throat trouble severe enough to be sent to our hospital for a few days. They all made uneventful recoveries and were back in their classes in a few days.

In December one of our smaller girls slipped on the ice and had the misfortune to fracture her arm, and again in February one of the small boys had a partial fracture of the wrist. One of the boys had an attack of appendicitis, but he made a good recovery without an operation.

In June, a short time before closing time for the year, a number of the boys were bathing in Salmon river. Poor little Wayne Carter swam behind one of the islands and getting beyond his depth went down, and when he was taken out by one of the large boys he was beyond resuscitation.

Respectfully,

A. G. WILDING,

Physician.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

The New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children is the parent of all similar organizations for the legal protection of children throughout the world. Since its incorporation in 1875, more than 500 such Societies have been organized not alone in this country but through the civilized world. By the Society's Charter, its object is stated to be "prevention of cruelty to children and the enforcement of the laws relating to or in any wise affecting children." It was through its instrumentality that the movement began which led to the enactment of all modern legislation for the protection of children. Before it was founded there were special laws to protect dogs and horses from cruelty, but few, except those equally applicable to adults, to protect boys and girls from the evils which formerly led to their physical general destruction. Minors of tender years, too, taken into custody by the authorities were being locked up in station houses and jails in company with grown offenders.

Since its incorporation the Society has benefited and protected, through its legal functions, more than one million children in New York City alone. Incidentally, it has been necessary for the Society to shelter in its own building, feed and clothe, about three hundred thousand children, pending the disposition of their cases by the courts and other proper authorities.

These children come to the Society from the most wretched environment, and often the facts of their ill-treatment are appalling. They are victims of cruelty, criminal assaults, family desertion and non-support, parental ignorance and indifference, death of parents, harmful places of amusement, immoral influences, disease, and a large number who, chiefly because of environment, have come into conflict with the law.

A little boy was recently brought to the Society with 111 welts on his puny body. His teeth were broken and his eye nearly torn from its socket. The boy's own father had beaten him with the buckle end of a harness trace until, as the man said, "the kid couldn't stand up." The poor little chap managed to crawl into a dark cellar where his piteous moans aroused a neighbor who notified the Society.

"Clemency can hardly be shown when a father tortures his child as this man has done," said Judge Wadhams, in the Court of General Sessions, in passing sentence on the father. "Any full-grown man who beats a child as you beat this one deserves no pity."

And this is only one of the multitude of such cases that come to the Society. It gives some idea of the awful conditions that would exist in our crowded city, were there not such an organization clothed with its legal powers.

The Society is constantly being called upon by the courts, the schools, various municipal bureaus, relief and other organizations, to take action leading to the rescue and protection of child-victims of cruelty and neglect coming to their attention. It is empowered by law to maintain a force of special officers to investigate and institute proceedings in these cases, and these officers are available for duty day and night, for the doors of the Society's headquarters are never closed.

The number of cases affecting children in which the Society acted for the year 1919, was 17,772. In the month of December alone, the Society investigated and acted in 1,523 cases — about 50 per day — ranging in character from lost children returned home by the Society to conducting prosecutions in the Criminal Courts against adults charged with the perpetration of most atrocious crimes against childhood.

The work is vital to the community, and deserves the generous financial support of thoughtful citizens who have the public welfare at heart.

JOHN D. LINDSAY,
President.

CERTIFICATE OF AUDITORS

We have audited the accounts of the Treasurer of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children for the year ended December 31, 1919, and we certify that the above statement of receipts and expenditures is in accordance with the books. All income reported as received has been properly accounted for and satisfactory vouchers have been produced for all expenditures. The securities and cash in bank and on hand as at December 31, 1919, have been checked and found in order.

MARWICK, MITCHELL & CO.

79 Wall street, New York, February 10, 1920.

REPORT OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

The Board of Directors presents its Forty-fifth Annual Report.

It records with great sorrow the death of its fellow members, the late Augustus D. Juilliard and William H. Harris, to whom in the closing pages of this report will be found Memorials.

During the year Mr. George F. Baker and Mr. Charles A. Peabody were elected vice-presidents, and Mr. Johnston L. Redmond, Mr. Arthur M. Crane, Mr. Robert D. McCarter and Mr. Corwin Black were elected directors to fill vacancies in the board.

The Society has acquired the premises Nos. 145, 147 and 149 East 22d street, which immediately adjoin the Children's Court. When sufficient funds are available and building conditions permit, it proposes to erect on this site a new and larger building in style corresponding in architecture with that of the Children's Court, which will afford the accommodations of which it has so long been in dire need. The sooner this structure is erected the better, for the Society's work is sadly hampered by the present lack of space, and the erection of the new building in the near future is a matter of urgent necessity.

After 28 months' military service, the superintendent, who went over seas in August, 1917, has returned to active duty under the title of general manager.

The board expresses its grateful appreciation of the splendid work of the auxiliary committee, whose loyal devotion and energetic aid in the care and management of the children's department have effected during the past year, in spite of unusual difficulties, far greater improvements than ever before. The building committee also feels deeply indebted to the ladies of the committee for their suggestions and advice with respect to the erection and equipment of the projected new building.

The president and general manager attended the 43d annual convention of the American Humane Association which was held at Norfolk, Va., on October 23d. The president read a paper entitled, "Is Legal Protection the Only Function of a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children," which is printed as an appendix to this report.

The president's address, and the reports of the treasurer, the general manager, and of the auxiliary committee, are commended to the Society's members, friends and the general public.

Respectfully submitted,

ADRIAN ISELIN,
Chairman.

GEORGE G. HAVEN,
Secretary.

REPORT OF THE AUXILIARY COMMITTEE

The work of this Society is devoted to the rescue of children who have been the victims of crime, and those who have, themselves, been delinquent, and to the enforcement of criminal laws as they affect children.

The Society, in this 46th year of its existence, is confronted with greater needs than ever before, and urgently appeals for aid for helpless childhood.

Only by the exercise of the greatest economy has it been enabled to continue its work. The preservation of the young has become something more than a mere question of philanthropy; it has become a national necessity, and, whenever success in these directions is attained, a contribution is made not only to our own country but to the world at large.

The children daily rescued and brought to the Society by our own officers, the police and others, have in them the possibilities of good citizenship, and it is a duty imposed upon us all, to help them toward that end.

In the year just closed, the Society's building has sheltered 8,862 children. The average stay of these children is about six days. They are of every faith and nationality, and, with the exception of those in custody through delinquency which has brought them in conflict with the law, these children, in the very nature of the cases, are here because they have been rescued from most distressing or impossible environment.

During their stay in the shelter, the Society provides for these unfortunates. The auxiliary committee is responsible for their care and the alleviation of every form of real distress. They are bathed, their physical condition is ascertained; medical attention, schooling, useful employment to distract their minds from their harmful experiences which have brought them here, healthful recreation,—all must be provided with the view of eradicating, as much as possible, the harm that has been done by neglectful, thoughtless and improvident parents, or the cruelty of those with whom the Society relentlessly deals.

Members of the committee are constantly in attendance to see that the children derive the fullest benefit of the Society's facilities. The children's department is equipped as thoroughly as possible to meet the requirements for the reception and examination of the boys and girls. Kitchen, laundry and sterilization service must be maintained for a constantly changing population.

A tireless watchfulness is imperative for the detection of illness among the children, for, coming as they do, from deplorable home conditions, they are more than ordinarily subject to serious ills.

With the prevalence of epidemics, only the highest efficiency has prevented many threatening situations. In this respect the auxiliary committee cannot speak too highly of the faithful and unselfish devotion in all manner of emergencies, rendered by its force of nurses, attendants, and other employees. The Committee wishes, also, to extend its grateful thanks to the doctors and hospitals, both having co-operated so devotedly in the care of the children.

Last summer, to help the overcrowding in the Society's own building, the offer of the Children's Aid Society of the use of one of their houses was accepted. For three months this was conducted as an annex and used with great success to accommodate the younger children.

For the efficient carrying on of the Society's work, the hopes of the Auxiliary Committee rests on the continued and increased contributions and favor of the public.

A visit to the Society's building will speedily convince the most skeptical of the great need which it is filling, and individual cases, too lamentable many times to describe in detail, will arouse a more profound sympathy than can be realized by those who have not come in actual contact with them.

It is the children who make this appeal. Every dollar contributed means help in securing justice for another child. The Committee assures its friends that they may always count on the most economical and painstaking application of every dollar so contributed.

ALICE H. BORLAND,
Chairman.

ADELE G. SCHIFF,
Secretary.

REPORT OF THE GENERAL MANAGER

The forty-fifth annual report of the Society must suggest to the minds of thoughtful people not only the inestimable service for oppressed childhood rendered in all the years of its existence, but the question as well — what would conditions be in the City of New York to-day were it not for the past and present activities of this organization? How keenly it is wished that the statistics and formal statements contained herein might be actually visualized. They would show a great, pathetic procession of injured childhood passing through the Society's doors day and night throughout the year, seeking its protection and pleading for justice.

The Society in the past year has acted in 18,169 complaints, involving more than 54,000 children. There were the little ones that had been beaten, even maimed, by inhuman parents and guardians, the waifs abandoned in the streets, the little victims of abuse and drudgery who were being transformed into old men and women before they were out of their teens, little girls sold into slavery, the children sent out to beg, all the victims in some way of wretched environment and brutality, whose whole lives would have been ruined were it not for their rescue by the Society. Figures cannot tell these things. But these objects of the Society's care are the helpless ones of the earth. Few of them have the power to make known their wrongs, and it becomes the duty of humane people to protect them. The work of the Society exemplifies this duty. In the matter of lost children alone, the Society has restored 11,854 to their parents, 551 in the past year. And this is just one of the manifold activities of the Society. A sympathetic understanding on the part of the public is important to strengthen this work and to render it more effective.

The fundamental function of the Society is not only the rescue of children, but the prosecution of those who offend criminally against them. It is a lamentable fact, which perhaps has some relation to the peculiar conditions of the times, that while the total arraignments in the Children's Court because of improper guardianship and juvenile delinquency, despite the growing population, decreased in the past year, there was a marked increase in the number of crimes of adults against children.

In commenting on the decrease in improper guardianship and juvenile delinquency cases, the official report of the Children's Court, just issued, pays the following tribute to the work of the Metropolitan societies:

The decrease is especially significant in view of the fact that the various Societies for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children are each year becoming more and more efficient in the matter of routing out and bringing into Court children who have suffered from parental neglect. . . . Despite the increased vigilance of these proverbially vigilant agencies, the number of these arraignments is actually being reduced. . . . The lesson is gradually being brought home to irresponsible and neglectful parents that their course of conduct does not pay.

The charges prosecuted by the Society covered a wide scope, including complaints of neglect, cruelty, impairment of morals, and most atrocious crimes against innocent childhood.

There has been a marked increase in the number of cases against the cheap moving picture places of low type to which unaccompanied children have been admitted in violation of law. It is in these darkened places, to which children have been encouraged to come with their nickels, that most serious crimes by vicious adults often have had their start. The Society's records will show that the legislation it has brought about to regulate these places has been the result of startling conditions and the wretched experiences of many child victims.

To the courts, the district attorney, the police department, the officials of the department of education, the hospitals, city department of charities, and all other agencies, public and private, with which our work has brought us into daily contact, is extended our most hearty gratitude for their indispensable and always ready co-operation.

The general manager desires to make grateful acknowledgment to the auxiliary committee for its most valuable services in looking after the care of children whom it has been necessary to shelter in the Society's building. There were 8,862 of these children under the age of sixteen cared for by the Society in the past year pending the adjustment of their serious troubles by the courts and other agencies. Without the intelligent management in this department and the resourcefulness of the auxiliary committee in meeting the many extraordinary demands, the limitations of the present building would have presented even a more difficult problem.

The need for greater space and more complete equipment after twenty-eight years in the same building daily becomes more and more acute, and it is earnestly hoped that before long, friends of the Society will make it possible to have the advantages of a new building on the site that has already been purchased next to the Children's Court. The plan is to have the Society's building and the court connected in such a manner as to avoid the necessity of children being taken through the streets each time they are to appear in court. The work of the Society is so closely connected with that of the Children's Court that there will be a vast advantage in its location in an adjoining building.

The assistance and supervision rendered by the Society in the rehabilitation of homes has continued to be a most gratifying feature of its work. Children are removed from the custody of their parents or guardians only when such action has become imperative, and in every case effort is made to encourage in the guardians a proper sense of their responsibility and a determination to reconstruct their homes upon a better standard, in order that their children may be returned to them. Every effort is made to save the children to their homes, but as will be readily appreciated, it becomes necessary in many cases to safeguard their interests by commitment to institutions. The homes of such children are constantly subject to reinvestigation and when proper conditions justify the return of the children thereto, the Society cheerfully recommends that the family be reunited. The records of thousands of cases where parents have met on the common ground of interest in their desire to rebuild a broken home and broken personal lives to satisfy the Society's conditions for a decent place for their children to live in, bear witness to the Society's part in maintaining the institution of the home, the value of which, to the community and our national life, cannot be overestimated.

The Society last year turned over to the city $70,567.62, collected from parents of children committed to institutions, who had been placed under orders by the court to pay in part toward their support, or, who had voluntarily agreed to make such payments. This exceeded by almost $16,000 the amount collected the previous year. It has been due largely to persistent effort and constant following up in these collections that most of this money has been saved by the Society to the taxpayers. The collection of this money for the city has been handled by the Society since 1880, and were it not for its constant efforts, many parents, whose own conduct has primarily been responsible for the fact that their children are in public institutions, would be entirely rid of the burden of their support. The enforcement of these orders and collection of this money has been a beneficial influence, too, in discouraging parents who, in former days, were disposed to unload the support of their children on the public, some even making false charges in order to have their children committed.

For the more specific illustration of the scope of the Society's work, the details of a few of the 18,169 cases of the past year, are indicated on the following pages. These very limited glimpses will probably indicate something of the ever present need for the continued vigilance and labor for the protection and safety of childhood in this great, congested, cosmopolitan city.

ERNEST K. COULTER,
General Manager.

ALMOST BLIND THROUGH PARENTAL NEGLECT

Complaint was made to the Society in this case that the child was being overworked. When brought to the Society's shelter, it was found that he was almost blind through parental neglect to provide the necessary medical attention. The consent of the parents was secured, and a slight operation in the hospital has given this boy normal sight.

DETAILS OF SOME OF THE CASES

PERILS IN DARKENED "MOVIE" HOUSES

Case No. 365816 — The darkened auditoriums of motion picture theatres are frequently the resorts of a vicious class of offenders who seek to corrupt the morals of little girls. The criminal in this case enticed the child to the gallery where he waited until they were alone. Then he suddenly laid hold of her, stifling her cries with one hand over her mouth. The little girl escaped only after a struggle, during which part of her clothing was torn from her body. After the man's arrest it was shown by the Society's investigation that this man had, only a short time before attacking this little child, tried to induce a fifteen-year-old girl to run away from home and join him out west. His plan was frustrated only because the girl had been detected in the act of packing her clothing. The man was convicted and is now serving a term in prison. The Society is constantly working to enforce the laws regarding the admission of children to moving picture theatres. In the past year the Society prosecuted 162 cases against moving picture theatres.

PRISON SENTENCE FOR A CHILD BEATER

Case No. 336169 — Little Richard ——— was brought to the Society's shelter, his body covered with welts and abrasions. One eye was almost torn from its socket, one of his teeth was broken. The Society's physician counted 111 injuries on his body. These injuries had been inflicted by his father who had beaten the boy with a horse trace. The man, of huge hulk, said the little fellow had "not minded." The facts were that the child had been ordered to hold his step-mother's two-year-old baby on his lap, and that the baby had wriggled out of his grasp and fallen to the floor. Then the father had beaten the boy with the piece of harness until a neighbor interfered and notified the Society. At the time of sentence the step-mother urged clemency. "Clemency can hardly be shown" said Judge Wadhams, "where a father tortures his child as this man has done. Any full grown man who beats a child such as this little one deserves no pity. The offense is one of the worst that has come to my attention." The man went to prison.

FEARFUL EXPERIENCE OF A KIDNAPPED GIRL

Case No. 354593 — Three young men in an automobile stopped beside the curb of a crowded street in Trenton, when they saw a group of girls who appeared likely to respond to their invitation to a ride. One of them, only fourteen years old, eagerly accepted. The promised "run out into the country" was lengthened until they had reached the Chinatown district in New York. They forced the girl to enter a room in a vacant house where they stunned her by a blow on the head and attacked her. Two days later she attempted to escape only to fall into the hands of a gangster who forced her to go to the rooms of a notorious woman. After three days of horrible experience there the girl's condition so alarmed her captors that they entered her at Bellevue Hospital under a fictitious name. The hospital authorities promptly advised the Society of the suspicious circumstances, and both the man and woman were soon before the bar of justice. The man pleaded guilty; the woman however elected to fight the case and after a speedy conviction, both were sentenced to State's prison.

FAMILY DESERTER TRACED AND EXTRADITED

Case No. 362619 — Desertion and abandonment of children is one of the serious parental delinquencies with which the Society has to deal. Utter indifference and heartlessness was shown by this father who disappeared, leaving his wife to support herself and children as best she could. When finally located in Fort Worth, Texas, where he had secured profitable employment, his employers reported that he denied being married and declined to assume any responsibility for his children. His arrest and extradition speedily followed. He was convicted and sentenced to a term in the penitentiary. The Society institutes proceedings in many cases of this character with results similar to those indicated here.

LITTLE GIRLS VICTIMS OF PARK LOUNGERS

Case No. 365838 — Among the aggravated offenses against little girls in which the Society prosecuted offenders during the past year, were those of the despicable class of men who seek their victims in our public parks and playgrounds. Well dressed, suave and ingratiating, men of this stamp attract innocent children to them while at play and by gifts of pennies gain their confidence and friendship. The children are soon invited to their rooms on the promise of other gifts, and too often the little girls are victims of horrible experiences. In this particular case the Society arrested the man, he was speedily convicted and sentenced to a long term in prison. Convictions by pleas of guilty were had in five similar cases during the month of August, and in each a long prison sentence was imposed.

CHILD RESCUED FROM PROFESSIONAL BEGGAR'S LIFE

Case No. 365685 — In September the Society received word that a little girl, dressed as a Girl Scout, was offering little flags for sale in the lobby of one of the large hotels under pretense of a patriotic purpose. Officers of the Society kept the child under observation until she left the premises and was joined by a woman, when both were intercepted and brought to the Society's rooms. The story as developed showed that the child's mother had reared her as a professional beggar; that in a western city she had managed to secure her admission to a local Girl Scout organization. In this guise the mother had taken her on begging trips to Chicago, Cleveland, Boston, Pittsburg, Detroit, Buffalo and other important cities. The child related that the proceeds of a day's exploitation often exceeded $20. In the proceedings at Children's Court the father's whereabouts became known. Since his separation from the child's mother, nine years ago, he had made a fruitless search for the child. A happy reunion was soon brought about between father and daughter. The mother, however, who had obtained her release on bail fled and is now a fugitive from justice.

EXPLOITATION OF CHILD DANCERS STOPPED

Case No. 369537 — The law prohibiting the use of little children in singing or dancing, or in hazardous feats endangering their lives or limbs, was placed on the statute books through this Society. The violation of this law has been given the usual attention by the Society during the year. New methods of evasion of the law are constantly attempted by those who seek to profit from this form of child-exploitation. In one of these cases a man styling himself a "professor" of dancing, formed his classes entirely of little children. When any of these became unusually proficient he arranged for their appearance with him as "special exhibits" at various rinks. When the case was investigated he maintained that the children were not "employed," that they received no compensation, and that what he did had the approval of their parents. It was proved, however, that for the children's appearance this man received a percentage of the admission fees. His profitable exploitation was abruptly ended by his arrest and conviction before the Court of Special Sessions.

248,671 CHILDREN HAVE BEEN RESCUED. FED, CLOTHED AND SHELTERED BY THE SOCIETY, PENDING DISPOSITION OF THEIR CASES IN THE COURTS OR BY THE PROPER AUTHORITIES

PUNISHMENT FOR UNSCRUPULOUS JUNK DEALERS

Case No. 368101 — Junk dealers who encourage the bringing in of junk by children are little better than receivers of stolen goods. The offense is particularly reprehensible, not only in the encouragement offered to children for petty thefts, but because it so often leads to the destruction of valuable property by children in their efforts to gain a few cents. They tear away lead pipe in unoccupied premises, often causing great water damage; they purloin door knobs, insulated wire and electric bulbs. Prompt justice is meted out to these "dealers" by fine and imprisonment. But in the last analysis this can never compensate for the injury done to the child, who often thus comes into Children's Court in this, his first conflict with the law, charged with juvenile delinquency. Fortunately the most vigorous prosecution by the Society of the adults responsible has checked this evil to a great extent.

ASSAILANT PROVED TO BE NOTORIOUS CRIMINAL

Case No. 358057 — Two young girls in this case ran away from home to make their own way in the world. While in the down town business district their plans were overhead by a persuasive individual who offered them positions in his office. He sent the older girl on an errand while pretending to test the other as to her qualifications for the position. He attacked her and soon afterward she was observed in the hallway of the building, weeping bitterly. The man disappeared, but in the examination of the office papers it was ascertained that he had recently visited a university in New England on a business proposition. The Society followed this clue and established within a few days that the man was none other than one Jules "Doc" Waterbury, of various unsavory commercial enterprises, and with a police record of fourteen arrests and several terms in Federal and State's prisons. He was arrested at Seattle, Washington, where he was about to board a steamer for a foreign port. When he was finally returned to this jurisdiction, and the case had been prepared for trial Waterbury interposed a plea of guilty to attempted criminal assault and received a sentence of not less than five years in the State prison.

A REMINDER OF THE CADET SYSTEM

Case No. 365355 — A startling reminder of the Red Light cadet system, now happily almost extinct, developed in the prosecution of the offenders in this case. The woman in the case established herself in the neighborhood of a public school and cultivated the acquaintance of a number of the older girls. She induced a girl of fourteen to visit her home where she introduced her to "friends." During the girl's stay she was left alone in a room with one of the young men and soon found herself in a hopeless struggle with him. Her cries for help only brought jeers from the woman. The girl was further terrified by threats and forced into a plan to meet the man two days later at a designated place. Arrived there she was thrust into a room occupied by several other men and her horrible experience cannot be told here. Both the man and the woman responsible for her ruin were prosecuted at the instigation of the Society. The man was sentenced to nine years and the woman to from five to ten years in State's prison.

HOW FAMILIES ARE SOMETIMES REUNITED

Case No. 298281 — It developed in this case that for almost two years the mother of two splendid children had been suffering from alcoholism without her husband's knowledge. It was difficult to convince him of his wife's secret drinking habit, even when it became necessary to remove her to a hospital. Aroused to the fact, however, he requested that the Society aid him in securing admission of the children to an institution by private arrangement, and when his wife returned home he began heroic efforts to induce her to co-operate in establishing a new home away from an unfortunate environment which had proved so disastrous. For a long time she failed to respond to every effort; but as had been hoped, her longing for her little children proved the motive which strengthened a desire for greater self-respect. She was encouraged to visit them frequently, each visit and leave-taking being more poignant in its appeal to her best instincts. Eventually the new home was established in a suburb, amid new interests and friends, and after the usual reinvestigation by the Society, its recommendation was gladly issued for the discharge of the children.

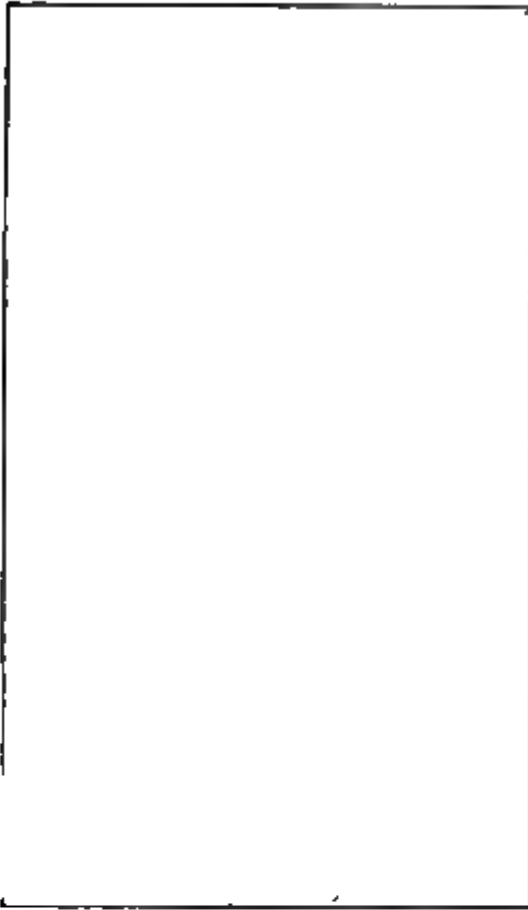

KIDNAPPED CHILD RESCUED

Case No. 384511 — Camela D. was brought before the court for kidnapping. She pleaded "mother love and a widow's loneliness and grief," claiming that a child of her own had died a few years ago and that her husband had enlisted and perished in the Great War. The facts brought out by the Society, however, established quite another story. She was separated from her husband and was the mistress of another man. Fearing the loss of his affection, she determined to establish a stronger claim. She stole an infant out of a baby carriage and deceived the man with the pretense that it was their child. The woman was convicted, sent to prison and the child subsequently returned to its own mother.

HAPPY EXAMPLE OF HOME REHABILITATION

Case No. 326126 — The Society received an anonymous card — "Please send someone to see a drunken man and wife, and their poor little baby, two years old." One of its officers located the family in a rear house. In one of the two squalid rooms a man's hulk lay partially across a baby girl on a wretched pretense for a bed. There was no light, nor fire, and not a scrap

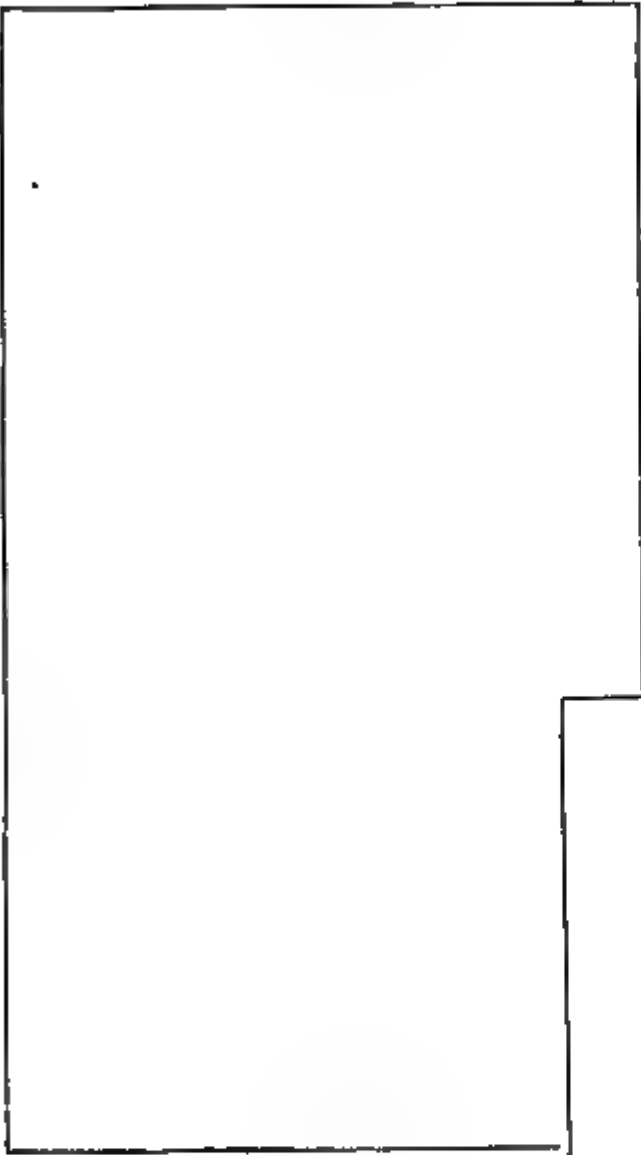

11,854 LOST CHILDREN RETURNED HOME

The Society is a great clearing house for children who stray away from homes or parents. No expense or effort is spared while a clue remains to trace the parents or guardians. This "Jane and John Doe" family during the Society's existence had over 12,000 members. All but 146 of these children were eventually identified and returned home.

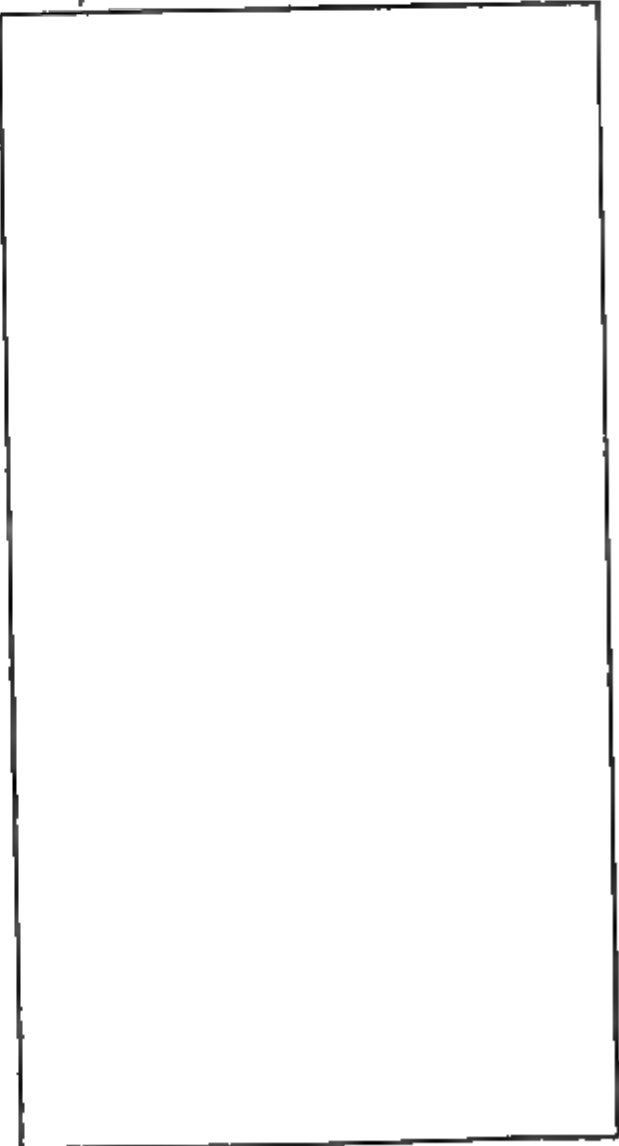

EASY STEP FROM PEDDLING TO BEGGING

Under the pretense of selling candy and chewing gum, many children under the age of sixteen years are sent out to beg. This practice is never justified and leads to lives of vagrancy and criminality. Whenever you see a child thus employed, obtain his name and address and write the Society; or, better, telephone to the Society — Gramercy 5201.

Children rescued from parental neglect often are found to have badly bowed legs. In this case, as in many others, the Society of food in the house. The mother could not be found and it was learned that she had deserted the home. The child was wrapped in blankets from the Society's 'bus and brought to the Society's shelter. After her commitment, a chance remark of the father disclosed that there was another child, a boy of nine, living with his wife's sister in a nearby city. The Society made inquiries which led to an offer by the aunt to take the baby also into her home. Meantime the parents had strongly reacted to the loss of both their children, and after a struggle of two years, in which another baby was born, they made formal application to the Society to aid them in the rehabilitation of their home. Due investigation was made and a marvelous contrast is indicated by the following extract from the report:

There are four rooms, neatly furnished, all light, two beds and a crib. The father is regularly employed at $30 per week. The mother made a favorable appearance and the condition of the infant indicated good care. The parents are hopeful of having all their children with them, and have already arranged for the boy's admission to school and the little girl to Kindergarten.

On receipt of this favorable report and the Society's recommendation, the aunt gladly aided in reuniting the parents and children.

IN MEMORIUM

With deep sorrow the Directors of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children place on record their testimonial to the late

AUGUSTUS D. JUILLIARD.

Twenty-one years ago, he became a member of this Board, and for seven years he was a Vice-President of the Society. He was a man of exceptional ability, stern integrity and keen judgment. Genial in disposition, always frank and courteous, never shrinking from the performance of any duty, he was conspicuous among the higher type of business man, and a truly Christian gentleman. His interest in the Society and its work was but one of the many noble traits which adorned his character. This imperfect tribute to his memory is placed upon record as a slight indication of the esteem in which he was held by his fellows of this Board.

IN MEMORIUM

With deep sorrow the members of the Board of Directors of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children place on record this testimonial to their late colleague

WILLIAM HAMILTON HARRIS.

Throughout his association with the Society Mr. Harris was one of its truest and most loyal supporters. A leading member of the Bar, Vice-President of the American Law Institute, a member of long standing of the Association of the Bar, and at all times actively engaged in the duties of his profession, he nevertheless rarely missed a meeting of the Board, and his wise and sagacious counsel was of invaluable aid to the Board and to its executive officers. Distinguished and beloved because of his broad sympathies for the oppressed, particularly for suffering childhood, the Society and the little unfortunates who are the subjects of its care have lost in his passing a faithful and devoted friend.

The Board directs that this testimonial be inscribed at length in its minutes, and that a copy of the same be sent to his bereaved family.

APPENDIX

Is Legal Protection the only Function of a Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children?

(A Paper Read Before the 43d Annual Convention of the American Humane Association, by John D. Lindsay, President of the New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, at Norfolk, Virginia, October 23, 1919.)

To answer this question we must first consider what is comprehended by the expression "legal protection." No one will dispute, I am sure, the proposition that, applied to children, it comprises, in its broadest sense, everything that can be accomplished by lawful means in the way of defending, sheltering or preserving them from injury or any form of harm, moral or physical. This would include religious influences, missionary endeavors and all the various enterprises having for their object the bodily, intellectual and mental wellbeing of children. It would include the work done by hospitals and reformatory institutions. It would, in short, cover the entire field of that great department of social service which is known as child welfare work. It certainly is not the function of our societies to undertake so gigantic a task. The protection which it is made our duty to extend to the unfortunate little ones with whom we deal, and which by our charters we are empowered to so extend, is their preservation from physical and moral perils through the machinery of the law.

In determining the rightful powers of any corporate body or organization, public or private, and the extent to which it may go in the exercise of those powers, there are only two things to be considered. The first is the occasion which called for its creation; second, the duties and the responsibilities imposed upon it by the law or charter of its creation.

The immediate occasion for the organization of the first of our societies was the abject misery of a helpless and unprotected child who had been compelled to endure, daily, physical torture from an inhuman woman. It was a case of particularly aggravated brutality. The police were unable to act for lack of technical proof, and the child was only rescued when the facts were laid before that great humanitarian, the late Henry Bergh, President of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, who, with the aid of Elbridge T. Gerry, who was then counsel for that Society, soon found a way through an ancient writ, which had long been forgotten by most judges and lawyers, to reach the child and end her sufferings. Incidentally, the child grew up, became the wife of a prosperous farmer and is today the mother of a family of grown children. This was in 1874. The case attracted unusual attention and soon a meeting was called of some leading New Yorkers at which the following pledge was adopted:

"The undersigned, desirous of rescuing the unprotected children of this city and state from the cruelty and demoralization which neglect and abandonment engender, hereby engage to aid, with their sympathy and support, the organization and working of a children's protective society, having in view the realization of so important a purpose."

The incorporation of the New York society, the first organization of its kind in the world, followed four months later. By its charter its object was stated to be "the prevention of cruelty to children and the enforcement of the laws relating to or in anywise affecting children." Certainly, if language could make it plain, the protection of children from abuse and demoralization, through the instrumentality of the law, was the sole function of the parent organization.

At this time there already existed in the city of New York and in various parts of the state, many excellent institutions, some as charitable corporations and others as state reformatories and asylums, for receiving and caring for children. In addition, each religious denomination had more or less asylums, reformatories, hospitals, and other agencies devoted to the physical and moral needs of helpless children. But it was not within the province of any of these institutions to seek out and to rescue from the dens and slums of the city those little unfortunates whose childish lives were being rendered miserable by the constant abuse and cruelties practiced on them by the human brutes who happened to possess their custody or control. "This work," said John D. Wright, that dear and venerable Quaker, one of the founders and the first president of the New York society, in his initial report, "the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children undertakes and proposes to carry out. Ample laws have been passed by the legislature of this state for the protection of, and prevention of cruelty to, little children. The trouble seems to be that it is nobody's business to enforce them. The societies and institutions referred to, have as much as — nay, more than — they can attend to in providing for those entrusted to their care. The police and prosecuting officers of the people are necessarily engrossed in securing the conviction and punishment of offenders of graver legal stripe; and although ready to aid in enforcing the laws referred to when duly called on so to do, can hardly be expected to seek out and prosecute those who claim the right to ill-treat children over whom they have an apparent legal control. Hence the child-beaters live in comparative security. Hence the children, hardened by brutality and cruelty, grow up to be men and women scarcely less hardened than their tyrants. The men swell the ranks of the 'dangerous classes' which imperil the public peace and security, and the women are lost — body and soul — often before they are women in age and maturity. This Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children proposes to enforce by lawful means and with energy the laws referred to, and to secure in like manner the prompt conviction and punishment of every violator of any of those laws — not vindictively, not to gain public applause — but to convince those who cruelly illtreat and shamefully neglect little children, that the time has passed when this can be longer done, in this state at least, with impunity. And lastly, this society, so far from interfering with the numerous societies and institutions already existing and before referred to, is intended to aid them in their noble work. It proposes to labor in the interest of no one religious denomination, and to keep entirely free from political influences of every kind. Its duties toward the children whom it may rescue will be discharged when the future custody of them is decided by the courts of justice; and the laws of this state contain ample provisions on that subject, and vest that duty and responsibility in the hands of the judiciary."

The following passage is quoted from the address of President Gerry in the society's eighth annual report, since it so clearly states his conception of the society's sole function: "Now, while many other institutions in this state charged by law with the care of children are entitled to great praise for their efforts to provide homes for the little waifs after they are rescued from the slums and gutters of the city, yet it will be found on careful examination that it is by the energetic hand of this society that the majority of these children are rescued from dissolute parents and placed within those institutions. In other words, it is the actual rescue of children for which this society was instituted, and for which it persistently labors. The care of children, after being rescued, comes properly within the purview of other institutions specially provided by law for that purpose."

Legal protection is equally the sole function of the multitude of similar organizations which have later come into being on this continent and in every civilized nation throughout the world, since the creation of every one of them was inspired by the example of the New York society, and seek the accomplishment of the same purpose.

The second reason why this is so is that, like all other corporations, our societies possess such powers only as are expressly granted by the state, or such as are necessary to carry into effect the powers so granted. If these powers are transcended, what is done in excess of them is unwarranted by law; and, however worthy may be the motive of the individuals who commit such acts, they are not corporate acts, and the individuals, and not the corporation, are responsible for them. "A corporation," said Chief Justice Marshall in the famous Dartmouth College Case, "being the mere creature of law, possesses only those properties which the charter of its creation confers upon it, either expressly or as incident to its very existence." By an incidental power is meant one that is directly and immediately appropriate to the execution of a specific power granted, and not one that has a slight or remote relation to it. It exists only for the purpose of enabling a corporation to carry out the powers expressly granted, and can in no way avail to enlarge the express powers, and thereby warrant it to devote its efforts to other purposes than such as its charter expressly authorizes, or to engage in collateral enterprises not directly, but only remotely, connected with its specific corporate purposes.

But in the due exercise of its incidental powers any of our societies can always find enough to do, and more. In order to adequately discharge its true function it must do many things besides merely rescuing abused children and seeing that they are placed in proper surroundings. It must initiate good legislation and oppose that which is unwise or hurtful. It must run down the adult cruelist and bring him to the bar of justice and see to it so that he shall receive a fitting punishment. It must search for witnesses, use effective means to prevent them from being tampered with, prepare and present evidence and look after its proper use. It must render aid and assistance to the police and the prosecuting attorney in innumerable ways. It must, if it can do so, temporarily feed, clothe and care for juvenile delinquents, as well as the child victims of crime. The field of its activities is wide and far reaching if it performs its full duty, and its hands will never find time nor inclination to meddle with any other department of child welfare work. It will heed the admonition of the ancient adage that the cobbler should stick to his last. To paraphrase the legal maxim — "Una persona vix potest supplere vices duarum" — "One humane organization can hardly fill the place of two."

REPORT OF THE STATE BOARD OF MANAGERS OF REFORMATORIES 1918-1919

To the Honorable the Legislature:

The State Board of Managers of Reformatories make the following report of the forty-fourth year of the operation of the New York State Reformatory at Elmira, and of the nineteenth year (the thirteenth under this Board) of the Eastern New York Reformatory at Napanoch.

The financial and tabulated statements included, cover the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919.

PARTICULARS AS TO COMMITMENTS

As expected, the close of hostilities was immediately followed by an increase in the number of commitments. They are still increasing from month to month, but have not yet reached the volume of the pre-war period. The influences of suspension of immigration and of the extraordinary industrial condition continue to be felt.

As will be seen from the following table relating to state indefinites, the crimes that formed the basis of sentence included nearly all in the penal law. Their significance, in case of reformatory prisoners, is mostly in the fact that the name of the crime in the commitment paper determines the maximum of possible detention.

CHARACTER OF THE INSTITUTIONAL POPULATION

During all the years of the existence of the Elmira reformatory, there has been going on, in all civilized countries, a great amount of discussion as to the causes of crime and the remedies best applicable thereto.

This has revealed schools of thought, differing widely as to some of the most fundamental propositions. Some, for instance, have claimed that the criminal, in his general characteristics, does not differ materially from the average of other men and consequently what is good for other people is necessarily good for him. On the other hand, some have maintained that criminals, as human beings, are in a class by themselves; that they are born with stigmata of degeneracy.

Some have argued that crime is entirely a matter of morals, while others have maintained that it is the result of disease.

Some have attributed it almost entirely to faulty environment; others have said that environment has relatively little influence, as compared with heredity.

Some would remedy it by punishment, some by education, and some by medicine and surgery.

Certain criminals can be found illustrating each and every one of these theories. The lack of agreement has undoubtedly been due to a natural tendency to assume that from one we can learn all; to generalize too broadly from incomplete facts, or, worse still, to try to make facts fit a preconceived theory.

A few years ago we decided to lay aside all prejudice, and, for the time being, all theories; and to make an attempt, by means of the best scientific methods available, to ascertain just what were the proper premises on which to base legitimate conclusions as to the reformatory population.

Prior to that, all the information regarding a prisoner, that came to us from outside was embodied in a paper from the court stating that he had been found guilty of a certain crime, as, let us say, "grand larceny, second degree." This was not helpful. The importance once attributed to the mere names of different crimes, has mostly passed away. Though they may still be regarded in connection with purely penal institutions, they never formed the basis of reformative treatment.

We therefore had no means of ascertaining what manner of man he was except by his own statements and by watching his reaction under the institutional system.

We frequently thought, and perhaps sometimes said, that the only just way was to treat them all alike. We believed we had an ideal system that ought to benefit everyone.

Some, in fact, many prisoners did not do well, and we began to seek explanations, particularly in case of those who made us the most trouble.

Naturally, the first question was—"What ails them?" We tried to find out. As our investigations went on we came to believe that something quite serious ailed not only these, but a great many others of our charges, and, to a considerable degree, we ceased to wonder at crime.

An expert examination showed that some of them, hitherto held responsible for their actions, were insane, in the commonly accepted legal sense of the word, and they were eliminated by transfer to a hospital adapted to their needs.

As to the others, the first additional source of information available from outside was the minutes of their trials. These had value, but as evidence had been rigidly excluded of everything not relating to the charge in the indictment, they did not disclose much as to general character or previous history. In many cases even these were not available, for the prisoner had pleaded guilty.

Thrown upon our own resources we established what we called a "research laboratory."

Prior to that time little had been heard of "psychological" or "psychiatric" examination; now quite familiar terms; but we sought instruction as to methods, from such sources as were available, and began to apply generally all the standard psychiatric tests.

When it was learned that, in connection with this, we welcomed information of any kind, some judges began to write us letters, and, as the probation system developed, first one and then another, and finally many who had obtained, pending sentence, a report from a court officer as to the prisoner's history, sent us a copy of it.

Then we began to write to teachers of schools, which the prisoner had attended, or the superintendents of institutions where he had served, and met, everywhere, courtesy, kindness and cooperation.

The superintendent's report, which we annex, shows into what an elaborate system this correspondence has developed, now including, in addition to the sources mentioned, parents and other relatives, physicians, pastors, neighbors, former employers, social workers, etc., etc.

We also annex a report by Dr. John R. Harding, our senior physician, of the examination, by such means, of one thousand men in the Elmira reformatory: "One Thousand Reformatory Prisoners as Seen in Perspective." We doubt if so many criminals were ever before examined as thoroughly in any institution.

It furnishes a basis for a discussion that may have a far reaching influence with valuable results.

These men were all felons and of the average age of twenty-one years. They can therefore be considered fairly representative offenders. They certainly were representative of the Reformatory population.

The second thousand will be examined with somewhat better methods, but we do not anticipate any very great change in the general result.

Those interested in heredity will note that eighty per cent. of them had parents who used alcohol and that, not mentioning other degenerative diseases, there was, in the families of at least seventy-two per cent. of them a history of insanity, chorea, hysteria or epilepsies. The percentage is probably higher, for, while of the first two hundred examined, the neurotic family history was put at only fifty-eight per cent., with increased facilities for gaining information, it rose to an average of seventy-eight per cent. for the first six hundred.

Not more than one in four could be considered "well born."

In environment, to say nothing of poverty and neglect, twenty-four per cent. of them had one or both parents illiterate; twenty-four per cent. had relatives who had been convicted of crime; sixty per cent. had associated intimately with criminals, and ninety per cent. with prostitutes.

Only sixty men of the whole thousand, or six per cent., had "good" associations.

Only fifteen per cent. were in "good" physical condition, while forty-three per cent. were in definitely poor shape.

Of the entire thousand the following proportions had the particular defects specified, and frequently two or more such defects appeared in the same individual.

Physical Defects

Stigmata of degeneracy.....	708	.71
Nervous heart	591	.69
Weak lungs	399	.40
Defective vision	502	.51
Disturbed reflexes	884	.88
Epileptic	190	.19
Venereal disease	210	.21
Drug addicts	58	.07

The figures for venereal disease are doubtless too small, for not till after the examination of most of them, did we inaugurate the Wasserman test for syphilis, now universally applied.

In mentality, Dr. Harding rates only five per cent. as "good," with an additional fifteen per cent. as "fair," while over sixty per cent. were definitely subnormal or deviate.

Though Elmira is commonly spoken of as an institution for "first offenders," seventy per cent. of them had criminal records antedating the offense for which they were committed to the reformatory. Sixteen per cent. had been previously before the courts, five or more times.

The general character of such previous records may be illustrated by those of four prisoners consecutively received from Buffalo. The information was sent to us by direction of the judge who sentenced them, and was obtained by his probation officer.

These are typical rather than exceptional. A score of similar ones could be selected from contemporary arrivals, some of them much worse.

They began to come before the courts at a tender age. The reason for it became more and more apparent as they grew older.

It is important to bear in mind that many of the men examined had more than one of the handicaps mentioned. In fact, poor heredity, poor environment, poor health and poor mentality, seem a natural combination, with crime as an equally natural and almost inevitable result.

Their industrial capacity was thus estimated:

Self-sustaining38
Semi-dependant42
Dependent20

In view of the foregoing it is not surprising that Dr. Harding's prognosis was:

Good	35 men, about .04
Fair	342 men, about .34

Poor	162 men, about .16
Doubtful	337 men, about .34
Hopeless	124 men, about .12

We trust that his report will be compared with "A Study of Five Hundred Parole Violators" by Dr. Christian, which we placed before you last year.

These returned men, naturally, averaged even lower than the general population. Dr. Christian found ninety-four per cent of them mentally seriously defective, (subnormal or abnormal), and only seventeen per cent capable of being fully self-sustaining.

In a certain sense the facts disclosed are a subject for congratulation;— it is evident that relatively very few young men of ordinary intelligence and advantages ever become criminals.

While we wish we were supplied with better material for "reformatory" work, we believe that these reports tell the truth about it, and we have to accept the situation and meet it as best we can.

However great the change in our appreciation of them, the problems are probably about the same they always have been.

It is much easier to discover the trouble than to determine what should be done about it.

It obviously is impossible to handle profitably the great mass of such prisoners in a system geared up to fit only the fifteen per cent. who are in good physical condition, and the five per cent. who have good mentality. The handicap and limited responsibility of epileptics, the feeble-minded, and the psychopaths, must be taken into account; but on the other hand, not much should be sacrificed for the twelve per cent. who are hopeless.

When we know the varying needs of all, we must try to adapt the system to the greatest needs of the greatest number.

The general result of such research has been some lessening of effort to make prisoners fit the institution and some increase of effort to make the institution better adapted to the needs of its inmates.

In its general characteristics, the work of the reformatories is growing more and more individualistic.

Obviously, what a majority of such inmates most need is guardianship. For one reason or another they are not fit to before they come into the world. From such homes as these come the feeble-minded, delinquent boys, permanently handicapped by an inheritance which makes them potential criminals.

Elmira — War Memorial Tablet, Made by Inmate Labor

As we learn more of the mental make-up of our inmates, we appreciate more fully that many of them are real subjects for our compassion and help, and that during all their lives such will probably need custodial care. Nor can we close our eyes to the fact that this type cannot be made into useful citizens. They have remained since birth mentally undeveloped, their delinquencies being only a manifestation of this fundamental defect, and neither the most thorough and systematic industrial training nor the most hopeful promptings of sentimentality and its allied activities can cure them of their criminal tendencies.

In medicine, it is said that the diagnosis is half the cure. In delinquency it is no less important. The application of remedies must be futile without first obtaining reasonably accurate knowledge of the conditions and needs of the individual.

So we must know more about the family history of the boy — if possible obtain a knowledge of any mental disease existent in grandparents or other family branches. In making our diagnosis it is more important that we should have a comprehensive knowledge of conditions previous to and contemporary with the conception, pregnancy and birth periods of the delinquent than that we should know the details of his latest wrongdoing. And we should also know all we can of his childhood and school days, sparing no effort to obtain from doctors, school teachers, clergymen and others who may be friends or acquaintances of the boy all possible information to supplement that which we receive from probation and police officials. In a word, we must have a history of his life, from all who can contribute to this purpose, in order, as outlined above, that we may hopefully prescribe for his difficulties, for we must first have the best knowledge obtainable upon which to base our diagnosis.

In the past, much of the effort to lessen delinquency and crime was aimed at the end and not at the beginning of the difficulty, but the passing years bring us nearer to an appreciation of the truth that the possibility of success is greater when we attempt to prevent crime than it is when we attempt to cure the wrongdoer of his criminal tendencies, and, with an increasing realization of the important part which mental disease has in the perpetration of criminal acts, we must necessarily submit to radical and significant modifications of the old order. We know now that many a criminal is the victim of disease, hereditary or constitutional, and is not cured of the tendency to commit future delinquencies by merely placing him in confinement for a certain period. We must, therefore, seek some other solution of the problem of how to dispose of him, and to this end we must primarily direct our energies toward finding out all we can of the truth concerning his condition, physical and mental, and his early circumstances and environment.

In point of fact probably 50 per cent. of the crimes committed can be truthfully attributed to a mental or physical defect or deviation, recognized in medical practice, and we assert that in such cases these defects can be actually demonstrated, and are largely responsible for the conduct of the offender. The mental deviation causes the criminal act, and the nature of the crime is in great measure dependent upon the character of these defects in intelligence.

Upon test of the inmate by our psychological department, it is not uncommon to find retardation of ten or more years; it therefore follows that the moral and ethical senses have not developed beyond this period. With many there appears a condition rather unmoral than immoral, a lack of development of the moral qualities rather than a deterioration. It suggests that the moral center in the brain may not be developed with his years of life, and that morally he is like what he might be physically had the motor centers failed to properly develop. He is lame, morally, as he might have been physically.

We discern the criminal symptoms when we make a close study of the inmate's early life and school days. Delinquency and crime are diseases peculiar to youth, and most appearances in court by boys in their late 'teens have their origin in the petty delinquencies of the childhood period; and while it may be true that a majority of these minor crimes are due to environment, and to special social and economic conditions, still our observations and inquiries have shown us that in very many cases there is an all-sufficient history of heredity to account for the evil doing.

Our records show that to most of these boys school work is distasteful; many of them have been truants. They are generally remembered by their teachers, many of whom, after filling in the questionnaire sent them, tell us much about their former pupils and frequently inclose us transcripts from the school record concerning them.

The number of our inmates who are married men is not large, as the average age of those admitted to the reformatory is but twenty years. But in case the inmate has a wife a letter is sent to her, as above, asking for information as to his home life, habits, character, and his ability to provide for his family:

Letter to Wife

Dear Madam.—, who is at present in this institution, states that you are his wife.

He is in good health.

When a man is sent here we try to find out all we can about him so that we may know better how to help him get along well while he is in the reformatory. Will you please tell us everything you can about him and his past life? It will do him no harm and will greatly help us to know how to help him. We will appreciate it if you will answer the following questions:

Very sincerely yours,

Superintendent.

QUESTIONS

- 1. How long have you known him?
- 2. When were you married to him?
- 3. How many children have you?
- 4. To what extent has he supported you since that time?
- 5. Has he ever been guilty of any crime, or served a sentence in a jail, reformatory or a penitentiary before he committed the crime for which he was sent here? If so, when and where?
- 6. Have you ever thought he had any mental trouble? If so, what were the symptoms?
- 7. Was he ever in an asylum? If so, when and where?
- 8. Did he use strong drink? If so, about how often would he get drunk in a year?
- 9. Do you wish to live with him again?
- 10. Did he ever use drugs, such as morphine, cocaine, heroin, etc.?
- 11. Is there anything else about which you wish us to know? We will highly appreciate anything you may write us in regard to his character as a man and husband.

In many instances the family doctor is well acquainted with the parents, and may have actually aided to bring the delinquent into the world, in which event this close association with and knowledge of affairs often enables him to give an enlightening report. The name and address of the family physician, or of the physician who last treated the inmate, is obtained upon the initial interview with the management.

Letter to Physician

Dear Doctor.— We are making a character study of the prisoners confined here, to ascertain what medical treatment will be most beneficial to them and in what other ways they can be improved to the end that, if possible, they may be restored to usefulness in society. We have learned that you, from your knowledge of the prisoner and his family, can be of material assistance to us in our study of, who is at present one of our inmates.

Is there insanity, epilepsy, nervous disorder, tuberculosis, alcoholism, or other disease in the family?.....

Was his childhood normal in its development?.....

Did he ever have convulsions?..... Was he ever considered feeble-minded or insane?.....

What was his progress in school?.....

What is his reputation in the community for industry, honesty and sobriety?

Did he ever use strong dring to excess?.....

Did he ever use morphine, cocaine, heroin or other habit-forming drugs?

For what diseases or injuries have you treated him, if any?.....

Is he in your opinion mentally or physically incapacitated in any way, and if so, how?.....

What kind of man do you consider him to be?.....

Yours very truly,

Superintendent.

Sometimes the letter we send to the clergyman is the first intimation he has of the boy's wrongdoing, and this knowledge awakens interest which is of material assistance after the inmate's parole. Some clergymen, after furnishing the information requested, continue to write regularly to their former parishioners to encourage and aid them in their difficulties.

But it often happens that in the more densely populated cities the clergymen are unable to assist us; in the smaller cities, however, and in the rural communities we are usually able to acquire from the family pastor information of value to our records:

Letter to Pastor

Dear Sir.—..... is at present confined in this institution.

It is of interest to note that in general more favorable reports of boys are received from their former employers than from their school teachers. We try to obtain the names of two or three former employers and send each a letter and questionnaire. One of the important questions asked is whether or not they would again employ him. An affirmative reply often enables us to place the boy with one of them, upon his parole. The principal objection given by employers is the boys' lack of stability — the frequent desire for a change of position; usually there is very little criticism on the quality of the work performed:

Relatives and friends of inmates frequently give us information both interesting and valuable. It is our custom upon initial interview with the inmate to let him know that it would please us to receive information about him from someone who knows him well, aside from the immediate family, and usually this suggestion secures for us the names of uncles, aunts, cousins, or personal friends who have known the boy in a social way. In many instances we receive long letters about the boy, giving us a résumé of his activities during a series of years prior to commitment here:

Of course probation and police departments constitute important sources from which to obtain data in reference to the prisoner, and wherever possible they furnish us with a history of delinquencies, as well as the standing of the inmate's family in the community in which he lived. Some of the reports from the police and parole officers are so complete and extensive that they can be used as a basis of comparison in connection with all the information received from other sources.

Our records show that at least 60 per cent. of the inmates here have served sentences in other institutions. In such cases we are able to obtain a very good knowledge of their conduct while in such institutions by sending a letter to the superintendent. Sometimes the boy upon interview admits previous confinement for wrongdoing; frequently this fact is discovered from reports subsequently received.

Superintendent.

When all possible data concerning an inmate is collected in the manner hereinbefore described it is used by the institutional psychiatrist in the formulation of classified information for the guidance of the various institutional departments which have directly to do with the mental development of the inmate. The information gathered is extensive in scope and exerts influence upon the reformatory routine in its application to the individual prisoner.

In the disciplinary department it assists in determining where allowance should be justly made for certain shortcomings, and by its aid the mentally retarded boy, only partially responsible for his actions, and with a life history unmistakably witnessing to his limited mentality, is duly recognized and proper allowance made in matters of a strictly disciplinary character.

In the school of letters it is of material assistance in the proper assignment of pupils to the special classes designed for those who are mentally defective, and consequently unable to keep up with the regular routine school classes to which are assigned the more normal major portion of the inmates. The data also aids in the proper marking of school failures, which, if continuous, are referred to the psychiatrist, and upon his recommendation are canceled.

In the trades classes it assists in the same way, but in a less degree, as the feeble-minded boy is invariably more skillful with his hands than with his head. In assigning the inmate to labor, trade, or other institutional work, his qualities of mentality and adaptability receive most careful consideration, based upon our study of the boy and our observations of his reactions to the routine.

Nor does the value of this acquired information cease with the individual's departure from the institution. As mentioned elsewhere, it often assists us to find an employer who will give the boy a position upon his parole. It also helps us to get him into a community where in all probability there will be less chance of his being assailed by the influences which were prime factors in causing his former delinquencies, and it aids us in giving him work at which we may feel reasonably certain he will succeed.

Lastly, we make a synopsis of all the information we have been able to collect, and include with it the boy's institutional record, together with a description of his physical condition and mental limitation, and based upon these our suggestions as to his needs and our recommendations concerning his supervision during parole, and then we forward all this data to his parole officer.

It is surely reasonable to expect that an experienced parole supervisor, having in his possession a complete history showing every side of the inmate's character, his industrial ability, and a probable diagnosis of his case, will be far better equipped to properly supervise this inmate's parole than he would be should the paroled boy, as in former time, simply stroll into the officer's presence with his parole paper in his pocket but with very little additional information concerning himself available.

We are sure that the present plan gives paroled men a far better opportunity to rehabilitate themselves and become permanently reformed.

ONE THOUSAND REFORMATORY PRISONERS AS SEEN IN PERSPECTIVE

JOHN R. HARDING, M. D.

The Elmira Reformatory has maintained a department of research for several years past. The laboratory was first organized as an economic undertaking when a special study of the more obviously dull and defective inmates was begun. These latter constituted a highly selected class who are always in trouble. They do not respond readily to modern methods of discipline, even inside the institution, and have always been a constant source of anxiety to the officials. It was as a result of a careful study of these defectives that the management first came to isolate them from the rest of the reformatory population. Subsequently the advantages of the laboratory became so manifest that a character study of each inmate was instituted. It is with a sincere desire that the attention of every one concerned may be attracted to the great possibilities of the institutional laboratory, rather than an attempt to bring you anything new, that these figures are offered on this occasion.

This summary was compiled from a study of 1,000 reformatory prisoners and includes two consecutive groups. The first 400 examinations were made only a short time before the inmates were paroled. Naturally a postponed analysis gives a more complete record. It also affords the examiner the benefit of data gathered from numerous personal interviews with the prisoner or his relatives during his entire period of confinement. It pictures him as a finished product, after he has undergone the physical, mental and moral changes incident to his reformatory training. This plan of action is preceded by a preliminary physical and mental examination at the time of the inmate's admission, when a tentative diagnosis was made. The other 600 analyses were made earlier in the sentence. All new arrivals were placed in a receiving ward for observation and early diagnosis. Meanwhile, the prisoner's previous life history had been investigated. The officials have since installed a system of correspondence based on the United States army plan of field investigation. This insures a good family history, in conjunction with a full knowledge of the boy's early environment, and usually gives a rational setting for his delinquencies. But only a most thorough analysis of the entire background of the boy's life, one that reveals alike his inherent weaknesses and his own personal efforts to adjust himself to his surroundings, can be of real value to the psychiatrist. As observed by Dr. Glueck, the successful diagnostician must be a "sociologist as well as a clinician."

HISTORY

This tabulation is of particular interest from a eugenic as well as a psychiatric point of view. Only 20 per cent. of the immediate ancestors concerned in this study were strictly abstemious, while 80 per cent. of the cases had an alcoholic or intemperate history. In 72 per cent. there have been in the family those who suffered from insanity, chorea, hysteria or the epilepsies; 18 per cent. had one or both parents illiterate, and 24 per cent., or 239 of those examined, have criminal relatives. Twenty-four per cent. of the inmates themselves were abstemious. But 76 per cent. were alcoholic or intemperate, while 87 per cent. used cigarettes, and 21 per cent. had previously contracted venereal disease. Five per cent. of cases admitted show a positive Wasserman reaction. Seven per cent. were drug addicts. It goes without saying that such a morbid ancestry as we see pictured here would yield, not only a defective heredity, but also, in many of the cases, an environment of ignorance, poverty and neglect, and we should have been surprised if the personal histories had not conformed to lines similar to those of the family history.

Accordingly only 6 per cent. kept good company and good hours. Thirty-seven per cent. were classed as vagrant, including the tramps, truants and train riders, also those who left home to live in furnished rooms in order to be free from the scrutiny and criticisms of their parents. Forty-six per cent. practiced gambling, more often with dice or pool. Ninety per cent. were admittedly immoral, while 56 per cent. are known to have associated with other criminals.

While it is well established that there are many of the feeble-minded who make good citizens, is it strange, in view of the fact that environment is invariably an active agent in the making of a criminal, that so many defective individuals with a vicious ancestry, who have also been thrown into a strongly anti-social environment, should themselves develop criminal tendencies. The reformatory was originally designed to treat only first offenders, yet 707 inmates, or nearly 71 per cent. of the 1,000 cases under consideration, had already served from one to ten previous sentences.

CONDUCT

Now let us glance for a moment at the conduct chart. Education has aptly been styled the "KEYSTONE to CIVILIZATION." The average reformatory inmate's social career has been shipwrecked, partly, at least, through ignorance and lack of moral training. This selected type is largely unteachable. Sixty-five, or 7 per cent., attended high school, while 252, or only 25 per cent. of the whole group, graduated from public school; 32 per cent. had reached the sixth or seventh grade when they left school. Thirty-two per cent. never passed beyond the fourth or fifth grade, and 40, or 4 per cent. of all, could neither read or write.

The delinquent comes to the laboratory, almost daily, with a history of backwardness and of repeated grade failures in school. Sooner or later parents or teachers have added to his discomfort by calling him a "dunce" or a "fool," and it has dawned upon him that he cannot learn like the others—that he is the "black sheep" in the family. Is it to be wondered at that such a boy should become discouraged, and play truant or develop defiant or anti-social conduct? In other words, what is more natural than that he should give up trying to adapt himself to his environment, and automatically abandon himself to the anti-social role which the home, the school, and society itself has pointed out for him?

For obvious reasons the delinquent who fails in school will find it increasingly difficult to adjust himself in the industrial realm. Here as before he proves incapable of living up to the standards of society. Thirty-eight per cent. of the group were independently self-sustaining. Another 42 per cent. are able to earn their living, or to contribute toward it, under favorable conditions. In general, this class have no trade and change jobs frequently. Twenty per cent. were dependent upon others, or at least incapable of earning their living without more or less supervision. Twenty-four per cent. were psychopathic delinquents. As previously noted, this summary includes that abnormal individual with a psychopathic personality in the defective column. Although he is often alert and intelligent, he is suffering from disordered judgment—fails to see things in their proper light—cannot harmonize with society and its conventions. This type of inmate invariably shows poor emotional control, is irritable, unstable, and more or less unbalanced. Moreover, his moral sensibility is defective and he takes rather naturally to criminal activities. Eleven per cent. of the group were epileptic, including sensory and psychic types. The so-called epileptic personality was present in every case. For the sake of brevity, 7 per cent. that were insane and 1 per cent. unclassified were also included in this column of the chart.

The remaining 17 per cent. were defective delinquents. These are not only stupid and unteachable, but show a strong tendency to commit crime. They are the victims of arrested mental and moral development, and 80 per cent. of them have served previous correctional sentences.

DIAGNOSIS

The diagnoses here recorded represent the varying degrees of intelligence as determined by psychometric testing. Only 5 per cent. were considered of a high grade, well balanced intelligence. In reaching this conclusion not only intelligence, so called, but also emotional control, volitional stability, and moral sensibility were taken into consideration. Rated by this standard 15 per cent. were of fair mentality. Twenty-one per cent. were placed in the dull normal class. The good, fair and poor here recorded were all considered within the normal limit and include 41 per cent. of the entire 1,000.

Of the subnormals, testing usually between twelve and fifteen years Binet age, there were 48 per cent. The remaining 11 per cent. were segregable by reason of varying degrees of arrested development and active delinquent tendencies. Prison psychiatrists and penologists are generally agreed that farm colonies should be established in connection with every State prison where this particular type of delinquent may be permanently committed.

Classification here represents an attempt to measure the quality rather than the degree of mental defect. This is determined more particularly by psychiatric methods, which reveal not alone the type of delinquency, but also the presence of neuroses and insanities. Furthermore, it analyzes the character and personality of the individual through his behavior and his ability to adjust himself to recognized standards. From the diagnosis we learn how defective the individual may be, but we turn to the classification to learn the type of his delinquency. Of the 1,000 examinations under consideration, 11 per cent. were accidental offenders, and 29 per cent. were criminally responsible for their offences.

From a physical point of view 70 per cent. showed one or more stigmata of degeneracy. Palate anomalies and speech defects were perhaps the most important of these anatomical variations. Fifty-nine per cent. had irritable hearts, usually with a pulse rate exceeding 100 upon slight exertion, while 50 per cent. had some defect of vision.

Thirty-seven per cent. offered a favorable prognosis, while 16 per cent. were poor and the remaining 46 per cent. rated as doubtful or hopeless. These figures are based upon an estimated capacity of the individual for measuring up to the requirements of an ordinary social environment. Most cases do improve under reformatory treatment. But the fact remains that no amount of education or training can fully compensate for the absence of intelligence or the lack of moral sense. Meanwhile, the ultimate aim of each investigator must be to benefit the inmate rather than add to the convenience of the officials or to the fame of the institution. No psychiatrist has done his duty by the prisoner he examines until he has won the boy's confidence and respect, and at the same time has helped him to solve his own particular life problem.

Nor can we afford to spend all of our energies upon the adult criminal while we ignore the enginics of crime, so to speak. Why, in the name of reason, should the philanthropist use every means in his power to prevent sterilization of the confirmed criminal degenerate in the face of such statistics as these? In other words, why not reach out and deal directly with the most prolific source of crime—the prospective ancestor who has demonstrated his criminality beyond the shadow of doubt?

Another point of interest is the necessity for analytical work in the public school. The Elmira reformatory laboratory sends out a question blank to the principals of the schools where the inmates have attended. The average teacher is compelled to fall back upon the deportment card or upon his memory in order to answer our questions. There is usually no available record of the weaknesses and defects of the backward or incorrigible school boy. What an advantage it would be to all concerned if each investigator here represented would use his influence, and offer his services if necessary, in order to establish a psychological laboratory in connection with the public school system, with a view to eventually bringing about a character study of every abnormal child of school age. This would provide the local department of education with a permanent and valuable record to go by. The retarded child can often be adjusted and trained for citizenship while in school, when once diagnosed. But the defectives and incorrigibles ought to be segregated before they corrupt the manners and morals of others. From those special and ungraded classes the rising generation of potential criminals could readily be transferred to training schools or to colonies for defectives before they commit their first crime. Only thru a practical community interest in such prophylactic measures as these can we ever hope to stem the tide of crime and degeneracy. This is a day of drives and slogans. Let us catch the spirit and establish a laboratory in every prison and every school system in the land.

Moral and Religious

From the report of the Reverend William Henry Chapman, Protestant Chaplain.

..... "My work covers two fields of activity: (1) Religious service with the Protestant portion of the reformatory population. (2) Educational service in connection with the school of letters and the population in general. Both forms of service have been carried on without interruption through the year.

Religious services for the Protestant population have been held every Sunday morning. These services are made as attractive as possible, the men sharing in the congregational singing. The men have maintained a choir and have from their own number, provided a choir leader and organist. The singing has been spirited and stimulating and the men have greatly enjoyed it. There have been religious addresses designed to awaken and develop the personal religious life of the men, with the insistence on the alignment of religious profession with right conduct.

Regular visits upon the sick and convalescing in the hospital, and interviews with the men themselves, have furnished opportunities of helpful contact through a better understanding of their life and temptations and troubles. This part of my service has been particularly gratifying. The belief often expressed that men in a penal institution are not susceptible to religious impressions, or are wanting in the desire to live right, is quite contrary to my long experience with thousands of young men. The discovery of the men's personal needs and helping them to find their better selves has proven through the year a most engaging service, and with it have come many evidences of men yielding to the higher impulses that spring from the Spirit of God and Jesus Christ.

Along with the purely religious work it has been my privilege to teach in the school of letters. Men most advanced have been organized into classes in European history, American and English literature and practical ethics.

It has been an easy matter to interest the men in these subjects during the year because of the intimate relation of our subject matter, to the stirring time in which we have lived — Europe has been so close a neighbor that its history past and contemporary has seemed quite our own.

The same may be said of the study of literature, American and English, which the class has followed with keen interest. It should be said that contemporary literature has been stressed, and often it has been literature that was born of the world war. The first aim has been to awaken interest, and that fully awakened, it has been easy to bring to the minds of the class, impulse that makes for the individual good. Not only this, but a new world of interest and occupation has been discovered to many men who had not before known the treasures hidden in books and magazines and papers, for we have freely used material appearing in all these forms.

The class in practical ethics deals theoretically and practically with human conduct, and questions of right and wrong. Lectures and statements are followed by free and full class discussions. The constantly shifting phases of life during the war, have provided many new and interesting problems, and their consideration by the class has resulted in new and marked awakening of ethical sensitiveness.

I cannot attempt to measure the results of the year's work. To me it has been a year of absorbing interest that has passed all too quickly"

From the report of Rev. A. F. Temmerman, Roman Catholic Chaplain.

"That which must have impressed the minds of thinking men of to-day is the fact that while the great world war raged the population of our penal institutions was reduced almost to a minimum; and that as soon as peace is restored and armies are disbanded, then immediately there is a re-birth of crime and a re-peopling of our prisons and correctional institutions. Is it not paradoxical that military war brings peace and social rest, and that peace brings war of unrest and crime? Social and economic conditions are the immediate causes of such unrest, and social and economic conditions are only the reflection of the philosophic and religious ideas of every age.

To-day, rationalism and materialism dominate the philosophical world, and religion is for the most part but a negative thing, due to the fact that scientists in every field of human endeavor, regard the man as little more than a perfected mechanism, estimating the soul not to be a spiritual, immortal factor, but only the physical composite of the activities of the human brain or mind. Man is idealized. God, if not abandoned, and denied, is at least neglected and his existence doubted. Religion is regarded as a deterrent upon human progress and personal liberty; whereas the true purpose is that of the mile-post to direct men along the road of true success.

It is not marvelous then that men of little or no religious life, who have walked into the very jaws of death during the awful war just concluded,—now returned to peace and relaxation wherein they breathe the poison of irreligion, should conclude, as many do, that, if God is a myth, if His Eternal Law, and the Eternal Sanction thereof, are the creations of men's minds, they will risk the penalties of human law, which are of only short duration, in order that they may live by crime. Do away with the idea of God and of our personal responsibility and there remains no adequate sanction for any law. . . . Religion then must be the primal and essential element in the rehabilitation of human character; for it impresses upon man at once his fourfold duty toward his God, his country, his neighbor and himself. It is by no means my purpose to minimize the other factors that are necessary to human reconstruction. The deficient must be fitted physically and mentally to make his way in life, if he is to be a real success in life. My only contention is that, religion having full play, man can be made safe for society, though he may not attain to the success which the everyday world would hold as paramount.

While on the subject of rebuilding human character, the position suggests itself, why did many of our boys, who served valiantly and most obediently in the army, throw aside all restraint as soon as they were discharged? This question finds its parallel in another; why do those who are the best inmates while in institutions, prove to be the worst criminals on the outside? Is not the reason the same in both cases? Is it not because even while seemingly necessary, human liberty and activity have been greatly and even unduly restrained? Have they not perhaps suffered some injury from authorities, from which there was no redress? In some institutions their speech has been unnecessarily curtailed. They are not permitted to write with any frequency even to a mother who hungers for a word from her wayward boy. These and other things which are unnecessarily repressive cause the inmate, especially the first offender, to go forth from some of our institutions with hatred in his heart, an enemy of society and a ready prey to the eloquence of the malcontent. . . . It is the happy duty of the Catholic chaplain of the reformatory at Elmira to state that at no time has his religious work in the institution been hampered. On the contrary, every courtesy and much assistance has at all times been extended by the management and by the officers. The Holy Name Society which by reason of its principles and its practices, enables the chaplain to best reach the hearts of his boys, has progressed until it numbers now more than half of the Catholic population. Its results are not a matter of institutional record; but its success is to be found in the fact that but few of its members are to be noted on the list of returned men.

During the month of April, a Retreat was conducted for the Catholic boys, by the Rev. Daniel McGillicuddy, C. M. Practically every Catholic boy was in attendance throughout the exercises of the same, and satisfied his religious obligations.

On May 18th, the Right Reverend Thomas F. Hickey, Bishop of the diocese of Rochester, visited the institution and administered the Sacrament of Confirmation to fifty-four applicants for the same.

By personal interview, by visits to the sick in the hospital, and especially through the administration of the Sacrament, the chaplain has discharged the duties of his office.

The health of the Catholic population has been especially good throughout the year. While the influenza epidemic raged everywhere, but a few slight cases were found in our midst. Only one death is to be reported for the year.

Everything being considered, the Catholic chaplain feels that he has every reason to be grateful first to Him who dispenses all blessings, and then to the superintendent, who has seconded the chaplain's every effort and finally to the officers of the institution who have been most courteous and who have rendered every service that lay in their power.

From the report of the Rev. Jacob Pollak, Hebrew chaplain:

"On February 1, 1919, four months after the death of Rabbi Jacob Marcus, I became the visiting chaplain of the reformatory. From the time of the death of Rabbi Marcus, until I assumed charge, Mr. Benjamin F. Levy, of Elmira, gratuitously performed all the services usually rendered by the Jewish chaplain. Thanks are due Mr. Levy for the interest manifested in the Jewish inmates during the time when the institution was without a Jewish chaplain.

"In the death of Rabbi Jacob Marcus, who served the reformatory for more than twenty years as Jewish chaplain, the institution has lost a zealous worker and the inmates a genuine friend. Rabbi Marcus was a quiet, unassuming, saintly man. He loved his work at the reformatory; in the performance of it he gave a great deal of time and energy. He was particularly interested in the welfare and well-being of every inmate who came under his care. No work was too arduous for him: no task too difficult. His was a labor of love.

"That he did not labor in vain, and that his work was appreciated, the officers and the inmates can surely attest. The sorrow and grief caused by his death prove the genuine affection and esteem in which he was held by everybody. Rabbi Marcus, though dead, will live in the fine work he has achieved, and in the splendid influence he has left behind.

"I have attempted no innovations during the five months that I have been chaplain. I have been satisfied to continue to do the good work of my predecessor. Divine services have been held Sunday afternoons and on all important Jewish holidays. The services were enjoyed by the inmates. A brief talk on some vital religious or moral theme was delivered at every service. Almost every Jewish inmate has attended all services regularly.

"In addition to conducting regular services, I have given a great deal of attention to the individual needs of the Jewish inmates. I have always been at the service of these men whenever they needed me or desired to see me. I have endeavored to meet and become personally acquainted with the new inmates as they enter the institution; I have endeavored to counsel and advise all inmates prior to their leaving the institution. At the request of the inmates, I have written to their parents, whenever they have not heard regularly from home, or whenever some misunderstanding or difficulty arose between them. I am happy to be able to report that very often as a result of my communications, parents and children have been reconciled one to another. You can readily appreciate what that means to the inmates."

The School of Letters

From the report of Mr. Abram Deyo, the School Director.

"In so far as education is based upon the immutable laws of human growth and development, there are and must be unchangeable, or constant, elements in our school work.

"The thought thus expressed is applicable to our course of study. The nature of the work does not admit of startling changes either of the subject matter taught, or in the methods used. The three 'r's' must be taught first, last and always. The combination and multiplication tables, the four fundamental operations in integers, fractions and decimals, the principles of percentage, the law of gravitation, the science of the English language, spelling, and the laws of health, are constants in our educational work. The method of presentation may vary slightly but the subject matter must necessarily remain the same.

"There are however a number of variables in present day education. The world war has caused many changes. 'There will be new lessons to be learned in history and geography, in civics and community life, in trade and commerce, in business and industry, in agriculture and gardening, in transportation, telegraphy, aviation and telephoning, in the practice of medicine and of the learned and technical vocations.' New outlines relative to the teaching of the variables will be prepared as soon as possible.

"Class Work.—With the exception of about three weeks in August, the school of letters was in session five days weekly during the past year. The morning class for beginners was continued. This work is supplementary to the regular school work; these men being the only inmates in the institution attending more than one class daily. The regular classes were made as small as possible in order to give individual instruction. Where large classes were necessary an extra teacher lent a helping hand, especially, in the arithmetic classes.

"Normal Class.—Practically all the classes below A and B were taught by members of the normal class which is made up of the best educated inmates of the institution. As a body they have taken a great interest in the work. Considering the classes of men to be taught, I feel safe in stating that the work done compares favorably with that of public school teachers in our grammar schools. The inmate teacher thoroughly understands his pupils; he knows their failings and their individual troubles, consequently, he can get much nearer to them than a civilian. If he is efficient and presents the subject in an interesting manner his success is assured. His pupils will be his loyal supporters in every possible way. Confidence commands respect and attention without which all efforts on the part of the teacher will fail.

"Library.—'Life is now a more serious thing for millions of people than it was before the war. In this there is an added obligation for more serious work on the part of the library.' Who can measure the influence that a book has over those who read it or over those who come into contact with those who have read it? It rolls on for generations, uplifting or pulling down, purifying or contaminating and proving a blessing or a curse.

"The library contains about 8,000 volumes of choice reading matter including the latest fiction, war books and reference books on practically all subjects. More library privileges were granted during the past year than ever before, and per capita, a greater number of books were read. Requests for standard works—fiction and reference—are on the increase. Victor Hugo's Les Misérables has a large waiting list and there are two copies in use. Great care has been exercised in the selection of books. Only those of recognized merit have been purchased.

"Summary.—The summary was issued each week during the year. The editors endeavored to keep the population informed as to important outside happenings. There is plenty of evidence that the inmates were interested and benefited by its publication. It probably gladdened more hearts than any other line of educational work in the institution. A number of editorials received very favorable comment from outside publishers. Hundreds of inmates saved the copies and had them bound in book form to take with them on leaving the institution. The news items and stories were carefully selected; the editorials written in simple and concise language.

"Bulletin board.—As in former years, daily bulletins — Sunday excepted — were placed in the dining room. All important news items were thus given the population at the earliest possible moment. The inmates were kept as well — if not better informed than the ordinary civilian.

"One of the most difficult tasks of the school director was to properly classify the men. This was made more so, by wrong and misleading impressions — relative to the school requirements — having reached the men before arriving at the institution. The majority were inclined to withhold facts concerning their previous education, in order to be assigned to a low class. Information obtained in the psychiatric department of the institution proved of great value, not only as an aid in grading the men but also as a history of their past lives. In other words, we knew our pupils, mentally, physically and morally.

"Entertainments.—A number of prominent returned soldiers gave interesting addresses. Motion pictures, educational and comic — were shown each week. The educational value of motion pictures is being recognized by the best of our educational institutions.

"Results.—These have been very gratifying. I have in mind a class of young men 18 to 25 years of age, who on entering the institution were unable to read or write a word of English — with the possible exception of their names. They were indolent and indifferent; cared nothing for an education, and detested work and books alike. In less than a year's time they completed the first reader, learned to add, subtract and multiply, wrote interview notes and short letters, and conversed freely in fair English. Their whole lives were changed. They wrote to the librarian for books and simple magazines; asked questions about the war, studied maps and located places mentioned on the institutional bulletin-boards and began reading the summary. The future now means something to them. Awakened desires, and the bursting forth of latent energy transformed them into ambitious beings. This may be termed the first step in reformation."

The Trades-School

From the report of Mr. E. E. Clark, Trades-School Director.

"No single feature stands forth as overshadowingly dominant in the activities of trade instruction here throughout the year. If we were asked, though, to name one phase of the work to which a fair degree of prominence might be rightfully accorded, we would mention suspense. Also that term might be not inappropriately used as the subtitle to our report. As a consequence of the diminished population of the reformatory the attendance in the industrial classes has been notably small. The observation may be interesting that the average daily attendance dropped to a minimum not heretofore touched since courses for the exclusive teaching of crafts were organized in this institution, approximately thirty years ago. In our reformatory community the fact is obvious that with a considerably reduced population the number of inmates available for assignment to trades is relatively smaller than with a full population, since the quota of men required to care for our domestic needs remains more nearly constant. The same is true for the current repairs to our plant. We may particularize further by explaining that our low count of artisan-pupils for the year under review is in no slight measure attributable to the numbers withdrawn for paving, and new building construction, while appreciably more of our inmates were occupied at farming and gardening than formerly. Discontinuous periods of class practice arising from such temporary demands for men, have constituted a deterrent factor in the providing of vocational training to all our inhabitants. As may be readily surmised, the necessity for retrenchment in the purchase of supplies, due to restrictions enforced by the economic conditions prevailing at large, have hindered the attainment of best results. Notwithstanding the drawbacks of interrupted attendance and scanty supplies, our records show that of the total number of inmates who were released on parole during the year ended June 30, 1919 (547), the percentage who were qualified at trades as advanced apprentices (294) was 53.8.

"Restrained by the untoward circumstances that have existed for the past several years we have held in abeyance nearly all efforts to replace and to supplement with newer mechanical devices, the physical equipment of our shops that are devoted to industrial education. Our needs in this respect have grown to be of the highest exigency. Not only are many of our workshop appliances antiquated but they have passed the stage of practical usefulness for the kinds and types they represent. Our individual sets of handtools are reduced to the most meagre assortment possible to carry on technical practice with. Entirely new outfits are required by the majority of our classes, if the trades-school department is to afford adequate training in modern industrial pursuits. In the painting craft, which our organization subdivides into the branches of house-painting, sign-painting, hardwood-finishing and frescoing, we have been compelled to forego instruction for a period closely approaching five years, owing to the lack of a building to accommodate this work. The compulsion of rigid economy has weighed so long and heavily upon the trades-school, necessitating the resort to makeshift means and temporizing, that the efficiency of the department is at a very low ebb. What we have written at divers times in earlier reports is more applicable to-day than at any other time since instruction in the handicrafts had its inception here, namely, our needs are new buildings, modern machines and equipment, and more plentiful supplies.

"The foregoing comments pertain mainly to the destructive features resultant from prolonged use and natural deterioration. We have not been, however, wholly apathetic regarding constructive measures to compensate for the decline. Carefully prepared plans, designed comprehensively to provide for our more than a score of distinctive sections in vocational subjects, and worked out in minor detail, have been perfected. The scheme comprises four new shops, conveniently grouped and adapted to the particular requirements of the classes they shall contain. The original project for these improvements, especially that part having reference to the disposition of the proposed buildings, was approved upward of a dozen years ago. Pursuant to the arrangement, one modern shop was subsequently constructed and occupied by our technical classes, though the equipment that was installed in it was old. This building is designated in our plot as Shop No. 1; its location is first in the group as observed in passing westward through the center-gate and central avenue within the reformatory court.

"At the time Shop No. 1 was completed, there stood on the further or westerly edge of the plot which it fronted, another building outlined in our plans as Shop No. 4. It housed our woodworking and painting branches; it was in a state of preservation sufficiently good to make it passably acceptable as one of the four nearly identical units, the combined shop capacity of which would be ample for our technological needs save a few inconsiderable exceptions. Between Shop No. 1 and Shop No. 4 was a miscellaneous lot of old, ill arranged shops some of which had already been condemned as structurally unsafe. They were the heritage from an earlier period when extensive prison industries for profit flourished unrestrictedly in this institution. Under the imperative stress of deficiency in classroom space, the trades-school department utilized these old buildings, though decidedly unsuitable for such a purpose. In our aim for improvement, an effort had been urgently exerted to have them replaced by two modern buildings, that might take their positions in our general scheme, filling the gap between Shop No. 1 and Shop No. 4. where they would become respectively Shop No. 2 and Shop No. 3.

"It was at this stage of our endeavors to effect a rehabilitation, that is, with few tangible results accomplished and the bulk of our aims prospective, that a fire occurred on our premises. It caused the total destruction of Shop No. 4 and the adjoining buildings, sweeping over an area of about one-half the trades-school plot as hereinbefore described. After having made temporary provisions for the resumption of instruction in the most indispensable of those classes that had suffered loss by fire, we bent our energies to the task of replacing the burned buildings. As the most keenly necessitous want inflicted upon us through the deprivation by fire was Shop No. 4, its restoration was undertaken first. The opportunity was then and there presented — it never before having existed, since our technological department grew up year by year entailing an unmethodical separation of its parts — of placing the various classes under a natural and convenient grouping, in buildings that might be constructed for the specific purposes for which they might be utilized, all with the view of forming a compact unification. A study was made to determine an orderly readjustment in floor space allocations, to assemble kindred trades into the same building, and to distribute interdependent ones into as close a proximity as might be. Types of buildings and sketches of interiors were scrutinized in order to adopt the designs that might best facilitate our diversified shop operations. With the essential architectural needs settled upon drawings were executed showing the precise layouts of machines, workbenches, toolrooms, stockrooms, officers' platforms, line-shaftings and of every fixed appliance and tool composing the equipment of the respective classes. So, too, additional drawings, many wrought out in full details, of apparatus to be installed, were at a subsequent period completed. Illustrating by concrete examples the apparatus represented by the last named drawings, we may cite a dry-kiln and a shaving exhaust outfit for the cabinet shop, partitions with a multi-variety of surfaces for housepainting exercises, and pattern storage racks and a crane for the foundry. A portion of these articles it is intended to make in the reformatory shops.

"Plans and specifications for Shop No. 4, incorporating our suggestions concerning adaptation to use and equipment, were duly brought to maturity by the department of the State Architect, at Albany. An appropriation of funds by the legislature, approved in two installments, during the years 1915 and 1916, was obtained, and building operations utilizing inmate labor were commenced. Other appropriations for the reconstruction of Shop No. 2 and Shop No. 3, and for the equipments for these several buildings, were repeatedly sought but were disallowed. More recently, for the equipment for Shop No. 4, funds estimated as sufficient when originally requested but absurdly inadequate now, were granted. In carrying forward the reconstruction of Shop No. 4, slow progress prevailed. This seems to have been owing to a succession of comparatively trivial impeding obstacles, rather than to any especial cause of protracted interruption. There was a hesitancy in deciding whether to repair the old foundation or to build it anew; fortunately the latter course was adopted, since in excavating deeper at one end an unstable subsoil was disclosed and remedied. The framework of structural steel was the first one of capacious magnitude here, in which the erecting (field work) was effected solely by inmate labor. This was done cautiously and satisfactorily. Furthermore, the constructive work proceeded during a highly unpropitious period; everything was then affected by or subordinated to war conditions. However, Shop No. 4 is now well on the way to completion. It will doubtless be ready to receive the equipment as soon as its purchase and assemblage can be brought about. It is a substantial structure of brick, steel and concrete, is provided with a liberal extent of window area, and marks a decided advance in the standard of shops within the reformatory inclosure. Its acquisition, though tardy makes a valued accession to our property.

"We have reviewed the salient facts that have entered into the prosecution of the trades-school work for a few years past because they bear importantly upon the course to be pursued in our contemplated additions and betterments. Our foremost requirements are manifestly new shops. It will be seen that in anticipation of them we have devised in somewhat extended minuteness the technical provisions for their occupancy and use. The deficiency occasioned by their absence primarily and fundamentally blocks our progress, enforcing upon us a suspense, and suspense tends naturally to stagnation — a state not to be viewed with complacency. As a means of auxiliary support in the conduct of class operations during this interval of suspense it may be further remarked that the paucity of supplies doled out for current use, as expressed near the beginning of our report, has been a negative factor; that is, it has augmented the difficulty of maintaining the desired standard. We deplore the long period during which the forces of retardation have been existent and hope they may soon be discontinued. Certain other defects, mostly corollaries of the material ones we have described, have intruded as may be expected under conditions so obstructive. We need not amplify upon them, since their correction, it is trusted, will follow in the cherished reorganization we have outlined. Again, we strenuously urge that renewed and persistent effort be put forth to obtain new trades-school buildings and their requisite equipment."

The Military Organization

From the report of Colonel V. M. Masten, Military Instructor.

"Our schedule calls for from fifteen to twenty minutes of setting-up drill in free air, on each of the drill days, Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday for the entire year; during the favoring months, on the baseball parade, without the enclosure; through the winter months, in the armory, the greater number of the 175 windows of which, are never closed. The exercises are divided into four sets: arm, hand, wrist and forearm, trunk, leg and neck — 512 motions all told; executed, without count, to band accompaniment, and executed with a keen eye for the lad who would violate either form, vigor or rhythm. Every muscle of the body is flexed. * * *

"Talk during drill is particularly subversive of the precise military result, and the military result must be precise to a nicety, or it is as nothing. Pompon, brass buttons, and a bit of turkey-strutting, merely at will, with loosely slung piece, won't harm primary school boys, even if it does not get them very far; but that sort of military thing for fettered young fellows, the very first exaction upon whom is to habituate them to mental and physical concentration, is bald military burlesque.

"Allowance is made as a matter of course, and throughout the military cycle, for the mentally backward, as well as for those, the sum of whose bringing up, crosses the measure of the lad as we seek to remake him. On the other hand, compromise with such conditions as faulty stature, fake effort, and the tramp mind, must not be struck in a single instance, else we establish precedent that invites queries to which there is no adequate answer; moreover, just those lads who need most to have their bodies reshaped and their ideas reordered, are just the lads who have the strongest claim on our patient, untiring efforts. With defectives, when they are not defectives, who were dumped into the gutters of life, we have no choice, either out of heart or in common sense, than to require them to get out of themselves the best military expression of which they are capable. By and large, we do just that; do it at least so that when operating with the brightest and best of the regiment, they may not be singled out, other than by the sharpest military eye, and not commonly by such an eye.

"Facts such as the last named are eloquent of what can be done in all branches of the reform mill, for lads who are susceptible of at least practical training for work-a-day results. The young man who can be taught to execute reliably 512 calisthenic motions, two different manuals of arms, in the silent manual of which, he must effect, consecutively, forty-three changes of the piece, without command; and to execute marching movements in which he must draw accurately to distance, interval, cadence, alignment, step, direction and degree of angle, or obliquity—and do it all, to the finger-tips, true to book specifications, can be taught a trade up to the money-earning point. But if he is a truly graded moron, rather than the victim of never having had a chance, he cannot and will not pace to the pace of his better-equipped comrade. * * *

"Full-dress parade is had on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons of each week, from 3:20 to 3:45; and oftener, on occasion, as the superintendent may direct. In so far as the visiting public is concerned, parades are ornamental. As a part of the institutional regime, they are advisedly ordered for supreme military test as to all-around steadiness, the which embraces everything a soldier should do, or leave undone; everything from the strictest of undivided attention under command, to execution that exemplifies the highest order of muscular reaction to command, of which constantly improving stature is a component exaction.

"The test on parade inevitably trips the lad who is given to mental wanderlust; and that is as it should be, because the tramp mind will make but indifferent use of the best of tools. Such a one is reassigned, usually without further penalty, to the awkward squad, there to be reimpressed with the fact that mental and physical lapse are tabooed where excellence reigns. The retraced path may be a bit tortuous and thorny, but the better equipped lad leaves no stricture on the method.

THE AWKWARD SQUAD

"The awkward squad is, or should be, the solid base of all of military training. Here the soldier is grounded in fundamental military principles. Everything he will be called upon to do further along will be based on those principles. Whether he is belted and buttoned for peace-time parade, or bracing for actual battle, touch-and-touch with the enemy, his body and mind will serve him quite reliably as he schooled them to serve during awkward squad days. Everything being equal he will take on added skill and polish and facility as he goes, yet his successive military paces will but accentuate these he took at military training. Without reservation whatsoever, the superstructure will declare the base. Break a colt badly and he will never be a perfectly mannered horse. Break a soldier badly and he will seldom be absolutely dependable, even at serious work. In training, either for battle or for serviceable citizenship, there are no little things. Habits formed at the knickerbocker stage of instruction are habits which persist. Therefore no compromise should be struck, at squad drills, with curable fault.

"The further aim is that a lad shall make the best use of himself of which he is capable, throughout his progressive schooling. True, a one hundred per cent result is scarcely attainable, but the grand average of the regiment is always good enough to make it possible to single out the lad who elects to subtract from it. While the refractory unit may demand much of military patience, he is not allowed to get by with military faking. * * *

"Specifically, as to military correction within the confines of reform institutions: Assure and maintain the groundwork and the rest will obtain by right of natural sequence."

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE PHYSICIAN

In October, Dr. Jorn R. Harding, our senior physician, left the institution to enter the military service, and since that time the entire medical work has been done by the assistant physician, who was appointed resident physician during Doctor Harding's absence.

INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC

An epidemic of influenza broke out in the institution in October; we had fifty-four cases, fourteen of which developed pneumonia. One patient died. This boy had been in the hospital for some time suffering from advanced pulmonary tuberculosis consequently his death could not be entirely attributed to influenza infection.

A physician and nurse were sent by the department of health, in Albany, to vaccinate the inmates against the influenza. 345 received one vaccination; 288 two vaccinations, and 230 three vaccinations, of the total population of over 700 at that time; but unfortunately the vaccinations were not begun until the epidemic had practically subsided, and consequently we were unable to draw any conclusions, because we had no new cases develop after the third vaccination; and inasmuch as less than half the inmates received this vaccination it would be impossible for us to attribute any immunization to this treatment, as the non-vaccinated as well as the vaccinated failed to develop the disease.

During the year we have established the custom of obtaining a blood-specimen from all inmates received at the institution and these specimens are forwarded to Albany for Wasserman test, for syphilitic infection. Previous to this time only such as gave venereal history were examined in this way.

We have also attempted to isolate and specially treat positive cases and hope to be able to give them better attention in the coming year.

I herewith append the usual medical statistics:

FINANCIAL STATEMENT OF THE NEW YORK STATE
REFORMATORY FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING
JUNE 30, 1919

STATEMENT SHOWING NET COST OF MAINTENANCE

The total cash expenditures for maintaining the institution, including industries, for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919, is $317,634.83, less refunds of $64.92, or $317,569.91. The decrease in inventories during the year is $8,685.77. There are no accounts payable.

The credits to the several accounts for articles manufactured for other institutions, including roasted coffee, sales of old and wornout materials, sales of farm products and fees received for the maintenance of United States prisoners, etc., amount to $28,205.43. The decrease in inventories, $8,685.77, subtracted from the above mentioned credits, $28,205.43, leaves a total net credit of $19,519.66.

The gross cost of maintenance, $317,569.91, less $19,519.66 makes the net cost of maintenance for the year, $298,050.25, as is shown in the following statement:

STATEMENT SHOWING THE GROSS COST OF MAINTENANCE FOR THE FISCAL YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1919

In the preceding statement showing the net cost of maintenance, allowance is made for decrease in inventories, the sale of articles manufactured for other institutions, sales of farm products, old and wornout material, and money received for maintenance of United States prisoners. These several items reduce the net cost. The several amounts received for sales, as mentioned above, have been placed in the custody of the state treasurer, as required by law, and cannot be used by the institution unless especially appropriated by the legislature. Payments on account of such sales have not all been received at this date. Since there are no accounts payable, the amount that has been required to maintain the institution, including industries, is the amount that has actually been expended in cash, $317,569.91. This gross cost is shown in the following statement:

PART TWO

The Eastern New York Reformatory

Appended to my report of the Eastern New York Reformatory are the usual statistical and financial statements.

For the Napanoch institution I respectfully recommend that request be made for the following enumerated special appropriations, reasons for which follow the tabulated list:

1. Continuance of plumbing in cell block, with necessary tools for this work	$7,500
2. Additional farm land.....	10,000
3. New building for ice-storage.....	2,500
4. New piggery	2,500
5. Propagation house	2,000
6. Ordinary repairs	2,000

EXPLANATIONS OF REQUESTS FOR SPECIAL APPROPRIATIONS

1. This item is for the purpose of continuing the work of installation of sanitary plumbing and fixtures, including water closets, lavatories, and necessary pipe fittings and fixtures for eighty-eight of the cells of the west half begin this work and the legislature of 1916, 1917 and 1918 each appropriated the sum of $5,000 to continue same. The appropriations of previous years have completed the work in the south cell block and furnished all the necessary pipe fittings and fixtures for eighty-eight of the cells of the west half of the north cell block. There still remain forty-eight cells of the west half of this block to be provided with fixtures which include a water closet and lavatory, and also all the necessary pipe fittings and fixtures for the 136 cells of the east half of the block.

2. With the small acreage of land now owned by the reformatory it is practically impossible to arrange for a proper rotation of crops, thereby causing materially lessened production. The acquisition of the additional farm land would not only improve this condition, but would enable us to raise sufficient hay and straw for the use of the live stock. At present, practically no hay nor straw is grown on the institutional farm lands.

3. The present building is a small wooden structure, in use for many years and now so deteriorated that a considerable amount would be necessary for repairs, which would be questionable economy by reason of the building's dilapidated condition. The sum asked would provide a suitable concrete building of permanent construction for the storage of the institutional ice supply.

4. The pigs are now housed in a temporary and undesirable building outside the institution yard. A new building should be provided for their accommodation.

5. This appropriation has been asked for the past two years, but disallowed. The institution has no place for starting young plants and flowers at the present time except cold-frames. A severe frost sometimes destroys all the growing plants in these frames, as happened last year, and crops such as tomatoes, which are largely used here, both fresh and canned, are almost impossible to grow as it is necessary to give them an early start in order to have them mature.

6. The usual appropriation to take care of large items of repairs.

PRESENT STATUS OF CONSTRUCTION WORK

Plumbing in Cells

Each room in the south block of the reformatory is now equipped with water-closet and lavatory. The work of equipping the north cell-block in like manner, is progressing satisfactorily. It is expected that eighty or more of the rooms in this block will also have sanitary plumbing during the coming year.

The New Hospital

We have been unable to obtain an instructor in bricklaying, which has greatly delayed the work on this building. However we have been able to do some cornice work and roof-slating on the rear extension of the hospital and will proceed with the brick-work on the main building when we obtain the services of an instructor.

New Horse-barn and Wagon-shed

Both these buildings have been completed, including water and sanitation service.

Grading

In the northern part of the yard, rough-grading about the new hospital building has been completed and a considerable area at the front of the hospital has received its finish-grade.

In the south-yard a roadway to the new barn has been constructed and its adjacent grading completed. Also the high bank in the southeastern part of the institutional enclosure is being graded into terraces which when completed will greatly improve the appearance of this part of the yard.

Religious

From the report of Rev. C. Morton Sciple, Protestant Chaplain:

" * * * A chaplain is a combination of teacher, preacher, and pastor. * * * In the school of letters, during the past year, I have continued my courses in ethics, economics, literature and current topics. Four months, each, are devoted to the first three subjects and the last is naturally carried throughout the year. In teaching these subjects the viewpoint is not merely academic. The emphasis is placed on the practical, and, so far as possible, each major topic is correlated with others and with the student's familiar experiences.

Economics, so far from being the "dismal science" of a former generation, is shown to bear an exceedingly close relation to the practical affairs of everyday life in all stages of social and political development. Ethics is treated, not technically, but as the eternal "ought" in the souls of men — essentially the effort to think out the various problems of human conduct. The literature of any people, in the highest sense, is the ethical and economic history of that people. And current events is history in the making, with all its ethical and economic phases. * * *

Every Sunday during the year, of their own free will and accord, the inmates have assembled in our attractive and well equipped auditorium. There it has been my privilege to direct their attention to those great fundamental truths without which all our other efforts for their benefit must prove futile. The interest evinced in these services of worship and instruction has well repaid my every effort. * * * In addition to the stated services, I am given opportunity for such individual attention as seems advisable. Interviews are held at stated times and whenever the need arises. In these interviews I endeavor to avoid the professional attitude; to be sympathetic, without sentimentality; to make the man realize his dignity and duty as a man and not simply one of the herd. Many, as we get them here, have received little or no religious instruction; their environment has not been such as to develop the ethical sense; and their moral standards are woefully twisted. Some have passed the impressionable age. Their characters have hardened. These are a problem which only the grace of God can solve. But a vessel that has become misshapen can be remodeled so long as the clay is still plastic. It is not given to every chaplain, nor always to any chaplain, to see the definite results of this kind of work. Yet he may rest assured of the divine blessings, and I believe that no form of Christian effort brings larger and more certain results. Thus I have worked in faith endeavoring to minister so far as possible, to both mental and spiritual needs. All have seemed appreciative. Many have admitted to me that detention here has been to them a blessing. Halted in a career of folly, they have expressed their purpose of leading better lives in the future, and the least we can do is to encourage all such to seek divine help.

We have it upon the authority of a Harvard professor that the criminal according to a country-wide census, constitutes less than 1 per cent of the total population. This is well; but he also directs our attention to the fact that it costs more to apprehend, convict and incarcerate this small group than it does to educate the 99 per cent that constitute the good citizenship of the land. Reformatory work pays. It pays the State in dollars and cents. It pays the individual who has been reclaimed from the scrap-heap of human society. It pays the worker who feels that he has had a special call to this particular form of service, and holds his commission from Him who came to seek and to save that which was lost. * * *

From the report of Rev. Thomas B. Dougherty, Roman Catholic chaplain:

* * * It is easy enough to tell of the number claiming our advice and ministrations during the year, but it is impossible to put in words the spiritual good wrought in the hearts and souls of the different types and characters. It is not enough just to treat these men as if all belonged to one class. In fact it is more proper to say that each man is in a class by himself, and must be dealt with more or less as an abnormal individual. Therefore, the special interviews and spiritual ministration through the sacraments have greater and more lasting effects than may appear at first sight. Many of these young men have come from homes and surroundings where religious teachings and Christian morality have been almost entirely neglected, and it is but natural that they should have a distorted view of life. While it may not be true to say that all of these men have defective minds, it would seem that most of them have given to their minds a peculiar turn which makes them somewhat abnormal. * * * In the first interview with the new arrivals I find out if they have been properly instructed in their faith and if not I take them under instruction. The next important point is to get them to live up to their religious duties, because not one in a hundred of these men have lived according to the teachings of the faith they profess; in fact, they admit that they would not be here if they had done so. Here then the foundation for the real reformation is laid and the more lasting will be the reformation if they are faithful in their religious duties and practices. * * *

Family relationship, parish influences, etc., all have a bearing on the work, and I try to find out about home conditions, write to parents, communicate with pastors and in general leave nothing undone that may prove beneficial later on. I have found that a great deal depends on association and companions after they leave the institution, and, therefore, urge them to avoid what may be detrimental and align themselves with some society or persons helpful for the future. We have here as in most Catholic parishes what is known as the Holy Name Society, in which they promise to respect the name of our Blessed Saviour and to try and influence others to do the same. I have found great consolation in knowing that this work is not temporary, but lasting. When they leave here I give to those who wish it, a letter to their pastors that they may be united with the local society of the parish, and I have received many letters telling of the good done in this way. In fact many of the men have told me that if they formed the habit of attending to their religious duties here and kept up the practice on the outside there would be no danger of their going to jail again. * * *

* * * Ancient history, old world geography and civics are the studies in my part of the school work. All in the class get quite interested in these subjects when they are fully explained to them in the lectures. Most of the school period is spent in clear and interesting talk on the matter in hand and concluded with note taking, questions and answers being dictated. Now and then a quiz is held to stimulate attention. Many of the inmates enter the class with the feeling that it will be impossible for them to pass the monthly examination only to admit later on that they have actually enjoyed the study. I can always see a great improvement after the first month, showing that most of these men are not lacking in intelligence, but that the training of their minds has been woefully neglected. * * * It is a great consolation to receive letters from former inmates who have made good and are grateful to the officials of the institution for what has been done for them.

From the report of Rabbi M. Friedlander, Hebrew chaplain:

"* * * I visit the reformatory every second and fourth Wednesday of each month. * * * During my visits I conduct divine service with the Jewish inmates in Hebrew and English, and give a talk on a religious and moral topic, and I interview them individually after the service. In my talk I put special emphasis on their being institutional rule-abiding and aim to arouse in them a desire to lead an upright life, and an ambition to attain a position of respect when they earn their freedom. I also advise them to eagerly and earnestly make good use of the educational opportunities offered them by the institution. I have reason to believe that my counsel is making upon some of them, at least, considerable impression for good."

"Outside the institution, upon the request of an inmate, I visit his relatives, and if I find that they are in need of aid I report the same to the proper charitable society. I also try to obtain employment for the inmate when he is paroled." * *

The School of Letters

From the report of Mr. John B. Brunson, school director:

"* * * There have been no changes made in the course of study during the past year, except minor ones to adapt the work to the men then in classes, and to meet the economic conditions prevailing during the past fiscal year.

"* * * The following general outline of subjects is taught: In the first of the primary standards, reading, spelling and penmanship are taught. Sentence building and definition are introduced in the second primary standard; formal grammar in the third month of the primary group; formal letter writing in the last primary, and first, intermediate standards; geography throughout the intermediate and advanced standards except as hereinafter mentioned. Standard No. 8 is taught by Chaplains Sciple and Dougherty, on alternate days. In that standard, four months' instruction is given in each of the following subjects: Economics, ethics and literature; and also, throughout the year, current topics is taught by Chaplain Sciple, and civic, ancient history, and old world geography, by Father Dougherty. The weekly schedule of classes has remained the same as in past years, viz.: Monday and Wednesday, arithmetic; Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, spelling, penmanship and geography. Especial attention and individual instruction is given to all slow and backward pupils. This plan has caused the slow pupil to show excellent progress during his year in school * * *

"* * * For the past year the selection of suitable men for teachers has been increasingly difficult, owing to the fewer inmates in the institution. This has required more intensive instruction of the inmate teachers in: subject matter and methods of instruction. This work of preparing the inmate teachers is done by the director of the school of letters in actual class room instruction. Notwithstanding the difficulties encountered, the inmate teachers have done very creditable work. * * *"

Medical Department

Concerning the health conditions and hospital department at the Napanoch institution, Dr. Thayer, assistant physician states:

" . . . The reduction in the population of the institution has been directly responsible for a proportionate reduction in the number of men applying for treatment in the "In" and "Out" hospital clinics.

"The record of the reformatory during the recent epidemic of influenza and pneumonia appears to me to be unique, no cases having occurred in the population.

"Aside from two cases of mumps, there has been absolute freedom from other epidemic or infectious diseases. This speaks well for the precautionary measures used, as epidemics of measles, whooping cough and scarlet fever have occurred in nearby communities, and would seem to justify the occasional closure of the reformatory to civilians as practiced during the presence of contagious diseases in our near vicinity."

NINETY-FIFTH ANNUAL REPORT

To the Legislature of the State of New York and to the Corporation of the City of New York:

The Managers of the Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents in the City of New York hereby make their annual report for the year ending June 30, 1919.

The Society has cared for 1,208 boys during the past year. Of this number 534 have left the House of Refuge on Randall's Island to return on parole to their own homes, or otherwise. Since its incorporation by the State of New York March 29, 1824, 34,841 children have been committed to the custody of this Society.

For details concerning the movement of the population during the year as well as for the routine work of the year reference is made to the reports of the Superintendent and the heads of the several departments as well as to the financial and other statistical tables, all of which will be found on subsequent pages of this report.

It is the belief of the managers that the boys in the institution have exceptional advantages. There are school sessions five days a week four hours each day for eleven months of the year. Every morning boys work with competent instructors and mechanics at the various types of work incident to the repair and upkeep of the institution. In this way over fifty occupations are open to the boys along lines of vocational training.

The boys leave their dormitories at 6:25 o'clock in the morning and do not return to them until the day's activities are over.

They are organized and drilled as an infantry regiment with a brass band of forty pieces of their own number and a fife and drum corps.

At page 79 will be found general information concerning the institution, its objects and methods of training; character of commitments, laws, rules and regulations, age limit, districts from which boys may be received, period of detention and an outline of the school and vocational courses followed.

In June, 1916, the Board of Managers of the New York State Training School for Boys suggested to the Board of Managers of the House of Refuge that the latter organization furnish from time to time details of a suitable number of boys to assist in harvesting the crops and performing other labor upon the farms or reservation of the first-named institution at Yorktown Heights, N. Y. This suggestion was caused by the Governor vetoing the appropriation of maintenance of the New York State Training School for Boys, leaving that institution with a considerable quantity of planted land and no means of harvesting it. The Attorney-General of the State having subsequently advised the Board that such proceeding was not contrary to law, the Superintendent made arrangements for inmates of the House of Refuge to be sent to Yorktown Heights in groups of not more than twenty-five boys at one time. These replacements were successfully made during the summers of 1916, 1917, 1918, and 1919, and resulted not only in saving valuable crops heretofore sown at Yorktown Heights and enabling proper attention to be given to cattle and other live stock belonging to the State of New York, but also worked distinct moral and material benefit to the inmates of the House of Refuge.

The value of the crops raised has been reported regularly to the State departments.

In May, 1918, an act to amend the Public Lands Law, in relation to the establishment of a State Reservation at Lake Mohansic, in the town of Yorktown, Westchester county, creating a commission for the management thereof, and making an appropriation for the purposes, was passed and approved and became a law. Section 133 of Article XII of said act provided among other matters that the Commission of the Mohansic Lake Reservation should have the power to grant to the Managers of the Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents in the City of New York the right to use all or any part of such reservation lying south of Lake Mohansic for agricultural purposes by means of the labor of the inmates of the institution of such society now located on Randall's Island; but that such right should only be granted upon the express condition that not more than fifty individuals, including inmates, employees, guards or other persons should be lodged on such land at any one time. Section 134, however, provided as follows:

“Purpose of Reservation.—The reservation at Mohansic Lake shall forever be reserved by the state for the purpose of preserving it in its natural condition and kept open and free of access for all mankind without fee, charge or expense to any person for entering upon or passing to or from any part thereof.”

During the winter of 1918–19 the Executive Committee entered into negotiations with the Mohansic Lake Reservation Commission for the purpose of carrying out the obvious intent of chapter 543 of the Laws of 1918, and suggested amending section 134 so that the control of such portion of the reservation as should be set aside for the House of Refuge should be vested in the Board of Managers of that organization.

Mr. Wm. Fellowes Morgan, chairman of the Mohansic Lake Commission, expressed himself as wholly opposed to the amendments above outlined as their enactment would deprive the Commission of the power to exercise any control over the Society's use of the property if in their opinion such use would endanger the water supply and that he would not relinquish the Commission's right to exercise such supervision.

Under these circumstances the Executive Committee submitted that it would be far better to abandon any further effort to establish a model farm on the site in question, although they still believed that such an enterprise would be of great benefit to a considerable number of our inmates and would also result in a great saving of money to the State. The Executive Committee is of the opinion that absolute independence in the control of the property is necessary if the Society is to hope to accomplish the purposes it had in mind when it originally took charge of the farm; that the retention by the Reservation Commission of any authority and control over the use of the property would give rise to many complications, some of which can be foreseen and many others which would be sure to develop.

The Executive Committee, therefore, recommended to the Board that it be directed to make arrangements to discontinue the occupancy of the farm at Yorktown Heights on or about the first day of October, 1919, or such other date as the Executive Committee may determine unless arrangements satisfactory to them for continuing our work there can be made in the meantime.

On motion, duly seconded, it was

Resolved, That the chairman of the Executive Committee and Manager D. Crawford Clark be and are hereby appointed a subcommittee of the Executive Committee to confer with the Mohansic Lake Reservation Commission with a view to arrange for the occupancy of the training site free from the objections stated above.

These recommendations were approved by the Board on April 3, 1919, and a copy sent to Mr. Morgan with a letter of which the following is a copy:

April 4, 1919.

WM. FELLOWES MORGAN, Esq., Chairman, Mohansic Lake Reservation Comm.,
Merchants' Association, 223 Broadway, N. Y. City.

Dear Mr. Morgan:

I have been directed by the Board of Managers of the Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents (House of Refuge) to forward to you the enclosed copy of the action of the Executive Committee which was approved at the Board meeting on April 3d.

I beg to assure you that this action has been taken with sincere personal regret by the members of the Board who have looked forward to the development of their plans with the greatest expectation that their efforts would meet with general approbation.

Very respectfully yours,

(Signed) E. W. BLOOMINGDALE

On September 25, 1919, the chairman of the Executive Committee received the following letter from the secretary of the Mohansic Lake Reservation Commission:

September 25, 1919.

Hon. E. W. BLOOMINGDALE, 158 Broadway, New York City.

Dear Mr. Bloomingdale:

I am instructed by the Board of Commissioners of the Mohansic Lake Reservation to ask what action has been taken by the Board of Managers of the N. Y. Society for the Reformation of the Juvenile Delinquents upon the recommendation of its Executive Committee that the Society terminate on October 1, 1919, its occupancy of the portion of the Mohansic Lake Reservation known as the Training School tract.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) A. C. MACNULTY,

Secretary.

And replied as follows:

September 26, 1919.

A. C. MACNULTY, Esq., Secretary, Mohansic Lake Reservation Commission, 220 Broadway, New York City.

My Dear Sir:

I beg to acknowledge receipt of yours of September 25th asking what action had been taken by the Board of Managers of our Society upon the recommendation of its Executive Committee that the Society terminate on October 1 its occupancy of the Training School site at Mohansic Lake.

If you will refer to my letter of April 4th to Mr. Morgan which enclosed an extract from the minutes of the Executive Committee meeting held to consider the matter, you will see that its action was approved by the Board on April 3d. This I believe is a categorical answer to your inquiry.

We are prepared to give up the custody of the site as soon as proper arrangements can be made. These include the removal of our personal property, disposition of the live stock and such other details as may be found necessary.

Furthermore, we were disinclined to abandon the farm until informed that the Mohansic Lake Reservation Commission was prepared to take it over and for this reason the date of our discontinuance was fixed for October 1, 1919, or "such other date as the Executive Committee may determine."

We have never received any word from the Commission excepting a bare acknowledgment of the receipt of our communication and therefore have taken no further action.

If you will indicate what your pleasure is in the matter we are ready to take it up at once with a view to discontinue the occupancy of the farm at the earliest possible date and turn it over to the Commission.

Very truly yours,

(Signed) E. W. BLOOMINGDALE.

No answer to the above communication has been received by the chairman of the Executive Committee or any other officer of the House of Refuge.

On November 3d the Superintendent addressed a letter to Hon. F. R. Utter, Fiscal Supervisor, Albany, N. Y., part of which is as follows:

November 3, 1919.

Hon. F. R. UTTER, Fiscal Supervisor, Albany, New York.

Dear Sir:

For your information and that of the Attorney-General, I am enclosing with this letter pages from the 92nd Annual Report of this Society. On these pages you will find copies of the correspondence and the resolutions which established the relations between the then Board of Managers of the New York State Training School for Boys at Yorktown Heights and the Board of Managers of this institution. On page 11 you will find the resolution under which our operations at Yorktown have been conducted. As you are aware we have expended a good deal of labor, time and funds on the Yorktown Farm Colony having in mind probable permanent occupancy as a farm colony with the profits accruing to the boys at this institution, the New York House of Refuge. The developments of the past year, however, make it advisable for us to withdraw from these operations and we therefore plan to do so by December 15 next or as soon thereafter as satisfactory adjustments can be made. We feel that for our work and expenditures from Refuge appropriations and other Refuge funds, this institution should receive some value at this time. It is with this in view that we give you below a record of the Holstein herd and other live stock on the property. I have in mind, too, the expenditure of funds of this institution for the general maintenance and upkeep of this Training School or Reservation farm and the sustenance since July 1, 1916, of not only the live stock on hand at that date but that of all the increase since that date.

We will be glad to have your department and the other State Departments interested examine the proposition made hereunder and determine whether it is fair and a proper return to the House of Refuge for value expended.

* * * * *

Very truly yours,
(Signed) E. C. BARBER.

This matter is still in abeyance awaiting an opinion from the Attorney-General.

It is with much regret that I have to record the death of Mr. D. Crawford Clark, an esteemed and valued member of this Board. Mr. Clark was an active member of the Executive Committee and devoted much time and energy to the work of the committee. His death occurred on April 19, 1919. The resolution of the Board will be found at page 103.

For the general maintenance of the institution for the year beginning July 1, 1920, $317,485 will be required, divided among the various subdivisions, as shown in the statement given below:

1. Personal service	$117,160
2. Food	83,525
3. Fuel, light and power.....	27,400
4. Clothing	29,900
5. Furniture, household stores, etc.....	25,700
6. Medical, surgical supplies, care and equipment..	2,700
7. Farm and garden.....	1,300
8. Roads, grounds and walks.....	400
9. General administration	8,550
10. Office expenses	3,000
11. Traveling expenses	3,800
12. Fixed charges, etc.....	1,550
13. Repairs and alterations, etc.....	12,500
Total.....	$317,485

For the year ended June 30, 1919, we had requested an appropriation of $20,000 for fuel and $17,000 was appropriated. Because of the universal high prices it became necessary to ask for a deficiency appropriation, and $7,000 was appropriated. The entire amount, $24,000, was expended. For the fiscal year of 1919-20 we estimated at the date our budget was prepared that we would require for:

Food	$69,550
Fuel.	32,000

The Legislature appropriated for:

Food	$64,000
Fuel.	24,000

At this date, because of the continued high prices, we have been compelled to revise our estimates. We now estimate we will require for:

Food	$75,900
Fuel.	27,200

We therefore respectfully submit a request for deficiency appropriations for these two subdivisions as follows:

Food	$11,900
Fuel.	3,200

In addition to this request our revised estimates compel us to submit requests for deficiency appropriations in other subdivisions as follows:

4. Clothing	$2,800
5. Furniture and household supplies, etc.	7,200
6. Medical, surgical supplies and equipment.	1,200
8. Roads, grounds and walks.	250
9. General administration	1,550
10. Office expenses	400
11. Traveling expenses	500
12. Fixed charges, etc.	1,000
13. Repairs and alterations.	2,100

These requests are respectfully submitted after a very careful analysis of our year's necessary expenses. Most of the increase over previous estimates and appropriations made is occasioned by the high prices. The amount requested under Item 5 is for the rehabilitation of officers quarters. Nothing has been expended on these quarters for a number of years. The State inspectorial departments have severely criticized the present condition of the quarters and have urgently recommended the renewals to be provided by this requested appropriation. Members of the legislative budget committee and State officials have visited these quarters and are conversant with the present condition. The detailed explanations accompanying our budget will, I am satisfied, convince the Legislature of the need there is for not only the deficiency appropriations requested but the appropriations requested for the general maintenance of the institution for the year 1920-21 to properly feed, clothe and care for the State's wards.

Aside from the appropriation requested for general maintenance our budget includes a request for $15,000 to alter and repair the roof of the south wing of the main building; $6,500 supplementary to the amount made available a year ago ($8,500), which was found insufficient for the necessary roof repairs and alterations to the north wing, main building, and $3,500 for the installation of the new 150-horsepower boiler in the power plant.

In considering all these requests we beg that increased cost be kept in mind when comparisons are made of amounts asked now with amounts asked in former years.

Visitors to the House of Refuge are always welcome. The ferry boat "Refuge" conveys passengers free from the foot of 125th street and Harlem river hourly during the daytime.

Respectfully submitted,

ISAAC TOWNSEND,

President.

GORDON KNOX BELL,

Secretary.

REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT

To the Board of Managers of the Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents in the City of New York:

GENTLEMEN.—I have the honor to submit herewith my annual report for the year ending June 30, 1919.

On June 30, 1918, the population was 624. We received during the year 584 boys. Paroles were granted to 472; died, 8; otherwise disposed of, 54; total, 534; leaving in the House on June 30, 1919, 674.

The capacity of the institution is 1,000. Of these 824 would sleep in open dormitories, and the balance, 176, which would be the older and more difficult class, in cell rooms.

The age limit act (chapter of the Laws of 1919) authorizes us to receive the juvenile delinquent who has been paroled by the court, and who after he has reached the age of 16 years violates his parole and renders himself subject to the jurisdiction of that court again. This law also authorizes us to receive misdemeanants 16 years of age and under 18 years from courts of competent jurisdiction in any county in the State.

The State Charities Law authorizes us to receive boys under 16 years of age for juvenile delinquency from the counties of New York and Kings and from any rural county in the State.

General information concerning commitments, methods, industrial, vocational, military and grammar schools, schedule, etc., will be found on pages 67, 79 et seq. of this report.

PAROLE DEPARTMENT

The number of boys on parole and still under the jurisdiction and supervision of the Society is 1,255. Of this number 70 per cent are doing well.

The total number of boys paroled since January 1, 1905, is 4,410. Of this number 56 per cent plus are doing well. No boy has been dropped from our parole supervision until he attained his majority, unless released through death or transfer because of physical or mental incompetency. No boy is counted as "doing well" of whom there is no definite data. Therefore, it will be noted that the 56 per cent plus represents the net result of the work of the institution— i. e., that 56 per cent of the boys committed to our care have been re-established in the paths of good citizenship. For details concerning these statistics reference is made to the report of the Parole Agent on page 53.

HEALTH

During the country-wide prevalence of influenza last winter we had 139 cases. We only lost one case, due to pneumonia. This result was due very largely to the energetic and efficient measures adopted by our attending physician, Dr. Craw, supplemented by the untiring vigilance of our staff of nurses with the assistance of our teachers. It was impossible to engage extra nurses. We closed the schools and the teaching staff volunteered their services. Under direction of doctor and nurse the teachers worked in our hospital, part of the force on day duty and part on night duty, until all recoveries were assured. The schools were closed for a period of four weeks.

The general health of the boys has been good and the somewhat unusually high total of deaths recorded for this year was due to exceptional circumstances and not to any general condition. (See the Physician's report, page 61.) Dr. Craw devoted much time to the various cases requiring medical attention.

The reports of the Attending Physician, Ophthalmologist, the Rhinologist and the Dental Surgeon will be found on pages 57, 60, 62 and 61, respectively.

SCHOLASTIC AND VOCATIONAL

Reference is made to the report at page 67 of the Director of Vocational Training.

THE FARM COLONY

Reference is made to the statement on page 27, giving the result of last years' crops. This year we have under cultivation the following stated products and expect to harvest a good crop:

Rye	10 acres	Buckwheat	10 acres
Oats	20 acres	Wheat	4 acres
Beans	7 acres	Cabbage	1½ acres
Potatoes	10 acres	Onions	½ acre
Corn	20 acres	Carrots	½ acre
Special forage	4 acres	Garden truck	1 acre
		Orchard

We have had from fifteen to thirty boys at the farm, averaging the year round.

By direction of the Executive Committee I am planning to discontinue operations at Yorktown this year.

DISCIPLINE AND MILITARY

The general conduct of the boys is good. All cases of discipline have been dealt with judiciously and in such a manner as to maintain general good order.

Our military organization has continued to reflect credit on the institution. This is evidenced by the testimony of boys visiting on their return from active duty in various branches of the service, and by the testimony of others concerning them.

On June 5th Brigadier-General George R. Dyer, commanding the First Brigade, N. Y. C., with his staff; Major George A. Daley, Major Loughman, Captain Barbour, Captain Donahue and Lieutenant Torney reviewed our regiment, which is known as the 103d Regiment Corps of Cadets, State of New York, and made a general inspection of the institution. The reviewing party was received and accompanied by Mr. Isaac Townsend, president of the Board of Managers, and other members of the Board. General Dyer expressed himself as highly pleased with the military showing of our boys.

WAR ACTIVITIES

During the progress of the war every effort was made to stimulate interest among the boys concerning the experiences of our troops. All the regular and special patriotic days were suitably observed in our schools and military organization. Our band gave patriotic concerts and in the schools patriotic and national music was freely used in connection with the training in singing. Reference to our parole statistics, page 51, will show that out of 1,505 boys on parole during the period of the war 496 joined the colors of this and allied countries. Many of these have written very interesting letters of their experiences, and scarcely a week has gone by without a visit from one or more of these lads on their way to or from the front. The letters have been eagerly listened to as read in our schools and the visiting boys have related their stories to the boys in our classrooms with much graphic effect. Many boys eagerly enlisted on parole. Officers of the institution also who were called to the colors, have sent many written messages from the front and contributed largely to the war stimulus within the institution. The signing of the armistice on November 11th last was appropriately and enthusiastically celebrated, as has the stated patriotic holidays to welcome the returning victorious troops. And it seems fitting that I give testimony of record concerning the splendid patriotic spirit exhibited by our boys in cheerfully complying with the many restrictions imposed upon them throughout the war period, especially in the division of food conservation.

Five of our boys in the service won the golden star of the supreme sacrifice and four others died of disease in the army hospitals. This honor roll would undoubtedly be much longer if we had record of those who had passed beyond the age of supervision and who gave their lives for freedom on the battlefield.

RELIGIOUS

Our services have been faithfully continued during the year by those charged with their conduct, and here, too, patriotism has occupied a prominent place. Rev. John F. X. Murphy of our Catholic service, Mr. Thomas Topping of the Protestant service and Dr. Isadore Frank of our Hebrew service have not only preached the faith but have constantly interwoven with it the value of love of country. Our Sunday-school work has also been actively followed up and I desire to extend our thanks to the teachers of our day schools who so willingly volunteered to teach in our Protestant Sunday-school and who have so efficiently rendered this service throughout the term.

REPAIRS AND IMPROVEMENTS

This work has chiefly consisted of preparation for more future permanent repairs as occasion offers. For example, we have gone through all the dormitories and hallways and made plaster repairs to walls and ceilings preparatory to painting same. Some of these walls and ceilings we have already painted, but others we will reach in turn as our class in painting progresses in its round of the institution.

We have laid a rubber interlocking tile floor of pleasing design in the main hall of the primary building preparatory to the complete renovation of this department as to entrance, reception rooms and quarters.

The construction market was in such an unsettled condition during the summer of 1918 that evidently our invitation for bids to repair and reconstruct the roof over the north wing of the main building was not sufficiently attractive. No bids were submitted. An effort will be made again this summer to let this contract. (Since the above was written and while this report was on the press, bids were invited. Three were submitted. All three bids were several thousand dollars more than the appropriation, ranging from twelve to nineteen thousand dollars. Hence the item in our budget for supplementary amount for this repair and reconstruction work.)

HOSPITAL

In connection with the overhauling and renovation of the hospital wing we have tiled the floor and side wall wainscot of two lavatories and one operating room. This will make these rooms, with their new equipment, perfectly sanitary.

POWER PLANT

The additional electrical equipment, provided for by the appropriation in chapter 181, Laws of 1917, has been installed by our chief engineer with the class in pipe and steamfitting. This called for the extension of our engine house to provide space for the new dynamo and engine. This extension, which is 20 x 40 feet, was built by our own trade classes and most of the material used in its construction was salvaged in and about the institution, including the brick. We have rearranged the entire dynamo room, relocated the two old dynamos and engines; also the ice machine and switchboard. All this has involved a lot of work for our class in pipefitting under the supervision and tuition of our chief engineer in making new fittings, altering old and running new pipe and cable lines, connecting up switchboard and otherwise adjusting the department to the enlarged work required. We have installed power motors in the vocational class departments and electric cooking ranges in the various kitchens, thus replacing gas, as our gas plant is not in use at present.

RECLAIMING AND GRADING

We have furthered materially our plans to reclaim all low-lying land to the east of the institution and the construction and grading of a walk and roadway around the southern end of the island is well under way.

GENERAL

We have accomplished a great deal of general repair and renovation work throughout the institution. The greenhouse benches and roof were repaired and put in good condition last fall; the rotunda, bakeshop, machine shop, kitchen, dining rooms, division lavatories, some of the dormitories and halls have been painted; the sanitary, steamfitting, carpentry and other repair work incident to the ordinary upkeep of the institution has been closely followed up and accomplished so far as funds would permit.

The blacksmith shop walls have been cement wainscotted and new anvil blocks have been built.

MISS DELANO

Within the pages of this report I desire to make record of the lamented death while on active duty in France, of Miss Jane A. Delano, who was the matron of our former Girls' Department from February 15, 1900, to February 15, 1902. For some years Miss Delano had been executive head of the Army Red Cross Nurse Service. I believe the efficiency of that branch of the service in the recent world war was undoubtedly largely due to Miss Delano's proficiency in her high calling of nurse and to her executive ability as an organizer and director. She had entered the service of her country some years before the war began and the conduct of her department throughout the period of her incumbency reflected great credit on herself and furnished an efficient and valuable army branch for service. We are glad to have been associated with her during the period of her service as matron here.

It is most gratifying to make record here of the very active support of the Board of Managers in working out the many problems of the year encountered in furthering the policy of the Board and in attaining the very successful result indicated in the earlier paragraphs of this report. In all this, the Department of the Fiscal Supervisor and other State departments have helpfully cooperated. I desire to express my appreciation and thanks to these for counsel, direction and support and to my staff of officers, teachers and others for willing and efficient assistance. It may be said that in many ways the year has been a trying one. It has been difficult and in some cases impossible to accomplish work planned owing to the abnormal conditions which exist. We trust, if spared, and when things become more normal, to be able to make greater progress during the year to come in the important work of our institution.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

EDWARD C. BARBER,
Superintendent.

REPORT OF THE LADIES' COMMITTEE

To the Board of Managers of the Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents in the City of New York:

GENTLEMEN.—The work of the Ladies' Committee during this year has been somewhat interrupted owing to the absence of the chairman in Washington and as one of the members was abroad. Lately, however, the Refuge has been visited a number of times and conditions found much the same as usual.

Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson and Miss Olivia Leventritt have consented to join the committee. Mrs. Gibson's wide experience in the Children's Court and Miss Leventritt's on the Board of Education and other important institutions, will be of great value to the committee, and an active service is planned for the winter.

Respectfully submitted,

MARION MASON BELL
(Mrs. Gordon Knox Bell),

Chairman.

June 30, 1919.

REPORT OF THE PAROLE DEPARTMENT

EDWARD C. BARBER, Superintendent:

SIR.—I have the honor to submit herewith my report for the year ending June 30, 1919:

Classified as follows:

Still reporting	684
In United States Army and Navy.....	201
Delinquent	192
In other institutions.....	178
	1,255

Divided as follows as to religion:

	Still reporting	Army and navy	Delinquent	In other institutions	Total	Per cent
Protestant.	142	47	56	35	280 or	22.31
Catholic.	440	128	113	119	800 or	63.75

	684	201	192	178	1,255 or	100.00

Since the last report the total number of boys on parole has decreased 95, making a total of 1,255; of these 1,077 are under supervision and 178 are in other institutions.

Tables XIII–XVIII in this report relate to the work of the Parole Department since its inception January 1, 1905, a period of fourteen years and six months, and in analyzing them we find the following:

Sixty-seven, or 56.78 per cent of the 117 boys returned for violation of parole during the year were returned for crimes committed after being paroled.

Three boys returned voluntarily to the institution, requesting that they be taken care of until such time as suitable employment, or a home could be provided for them again.

Sixty-four, or 55 per cent of the boys returned for violation of parole were out longer than six months, 42, or 36 per cent, were out over one year.

Four thousand four hundred and ten individual boys have been under parole supervision since January 1, 1905. They are recorded to-day as:

Doing well	2,504 or 56.78 per cent
Not doing well.....	1,079 or 24.47 per cent
Unknown	827 or 18.75 per cent

One thousand three hundred and twenty-nine boys are still under twenty-one years of age (1,077 under supervision, 74 in the institution for violation of parole, and 178 in other institutions). Eight hundred and eighty-five, or 70.52 per cent of the 1,255 out of the institution are doing well.

Three thousand and eighty-one boys are beyond the age of supervision; 1,619, or 52.55 per cent were doing well when supervision expired. No definite data is available concerning 635 of the total (3,081), and they are therefore considered as not doing well.

Four hundred and fifty-eight individual boys were paroled during the past year; 346, or 75.55 per cent, are doing well.

Three thousand four hundred and seventy-three, or 78.75 per cent, were arrested, and 2,168, or 49.62 per cent, of the total (4,410), were in other institutions previous to their commitment to the Refuge (1,829 were in corrective and 240 in non-corrective institutions).

THE YEAR'S RESULTS

During the past fiscal year we have had 1,808 individual boys on parole. The present status of the 1,808 is as follows:

Now reporting	684
Now in army and navy.....	201
Were doing well when supervision expired.....	263
Died.	18
Were not doing well when supervision expired.....	12
Were in other institutions when supervision expired.....	67
Returned*.....	117
Were in other institutions July 1, 1918, and are still there.....	64
Sentenced to other institutions during the year.....	90
Now under arrest.....	24
Were delinquent July 1, 1918, now supervision expired.....	74
Became delinquent since July 1, 1918, now supervision expired.....	16
Were delinquent July 1, 1918, are still delinquent.....	84
Became delinquent since July 1, 1918, are still delinquent.....	108

From the foregoing it will be seen that 63 per cent of those under parole during the year are apparently doing well, 21 per cent are known failures and 16 per cent are those of whom we know nothing.

The department has endeavored to follow up all cases as far as possible but we were handicapped in making as many visits or investigations as in the previous years, due to the fact that for seven months a vacancy existed in the department, one member of the department being in the United States Army, and it being necessary at other times to detail parole officers to fill vacancies in the institution.

A summary of the number of investigations and the number of homes and other places visited is herewith given, the two previous years being cited for comparison:

	1917	1918	1919
Home examinations	828	674	769
Miscellaneous investigations	2,006	1,375	1,033
Visits.	5,876	5,352	3,861
Totals.....	8,710	7,401	5,663
Boys accompanied to and from the institution.....	935	935	900

* Fourteen of this number are also counted under one of the other headings.

To accomplish the above it was necessary to make:

	1917	1918	1919
Visits to public schools.....	56	17	24
Visits to courts.....	1,023	1,747	1,391

DELINQUENTS

At the present writing we have 192 or 15.30 per cent of the 1,255 boys out of the institution whose whereabouts are unknown. Of the 192, 150 have forsaken their homes, and their parents or friends claim they know nothing of them. The following table gives the data as to the number on parole at the beginning of each fiscal year and the number whose whereabouts were then unknown:

TRANSFERRING OF INMATES

Nine hundred boys were accompanied to and from the institution during the past year. The Parole Department takes care of the returning of all boys for violation of parole, the taking of boys to court, to funerals of immediate relatives, securing employment for some when ready for parole; and accompanying them for any other reason which necessitates their leaving the institution.

IN MILITARY SERVICE

The institution has been well represented in the army and navy of the United States during the world war.

Of the 1,505 boys that were under parole supervision from July 1, 1917, until November 11, 1918 (when the armistice was signed) 496, or one-third, were in the service.

During the past two fiscal years 2,119 boys were under supervision; 513, or 24 per cent, have been in the service.

At the present time 201, or 16 per cent, of the boys on parole are still in the service.

No accurate record has been kept of those who are beyond our supervision, and entered the service, but the number is large. We know of three who received their commissions as lieutenants, one of whom was awarded the Croix de Guerre and the Distinguished Service Cross.

Almost daily boys call or write and tell us interesting stories of their experiences at the front, and invariably they mention the fact that their military training they received at the Refuge aided them materially to advance rapidly.

We have to record the death of nine of our boys while in the service, five of whom were killed in action in France, and four died of disease in the army hospitals.

RECEPTION AND PAROLE COMMITTEE

The committee held forty-one meetings during the past year. All boys previous to their being paroled appeared before it and were advised in reference to their future conduct. All newly committed boys were questioned in reference to the causes leading to their commitment, their previous history, and family relations. All boys who were returned for violation of parole appeared before this committee with as complete a record as possible of their behavior while on parole. After hearing them the committee decides how long their stay in the institution should be.

During the year "Special Paroles" were granted to 33 boys; four, or 12 per cent, violated the conditions imposed; three have been returned and one is now delinquent. In the previous fiscal year (1917-1918) 51 "Special Paroles" were granted, 20, or 39 per cent, violated the conditions imposed, 10 were returned, one was sentenced to another institution, and nine remain delinquent.

A summary of the committee's work is herewith given:

Meetings held	41
Cases heard	1,177
Interviews had with boys.....	941
Investigations ordered	65
Parents or friends of boys interviewed.....	40

Average length of sessions, four hours and forty-two minutes.

Seven persons interested in reformatory and parole work were present at various meetings of the committee.

Each boy is given printed instructions upon release and is required to make monthly, bi-monthly or quarterly reports upon a blank form which is mailed to him each month. For the facsimile of a report blank and parole instructions, see pages 74 and 78.

We owe thanks to the many volunteer workers, the several Big Brother Movements, the Children's Aid Society and many others for their kind help and cooperation during the year. They have been of valuable assistance to us.

Respectfully submitted,

FREDERICK C. HELBING,

Chief Parole Officer.

REPORT OF THE PHYSICIAN

To the Board of Managers of the Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents in the City of New York:

GENTLEMEN.—Permit me to respectfully submit the following report for the year ending June 30, 1919:

During the year the institution has taken care of 1,208 inmates, of whom 1,029 have required hospital treatment.

The following table shows the most important hospital cases:

Disease	Officers	Inmates
Pneumonia (acute lobar)	18
Bronchitis (acute)	3	66
Tonsilitis (follicular)	1	118
Pleurisy	17
Rheumatism (acute inflammatory)	1	26
Valvular heart disease	5
Appendicitis	6
Diabetes mellitis	1
Diphtheria	2
Parotiditis	1
Scabies (admitted with)	30
Tinea circinata	31
Heroin addict	1
Gonorrhea (admitted with)	20
Acute catarrhal jaundice	2
Impetigo	17
Herpes	3
Immersion (attempting to escape)	6
Erythema	6
Psoriasis	6
Epilepsy	3
Hemorrhoids	3
Influenza	4	135
Pulmonary tuberculosis	5
Positive Wassermans	12
Eczema	11
Hyperthyroidism	1
Acne vulgaris	10
Intestinal toxæmia	21
Enuresis	2
Orchitis (traumatic)	6
Balanitis	1

Disease	Officers	Inmates
Epistaxis		2
Intertrigo		4
Urticaria		1
Adenitis		11
Anal fissure		1
Cerebral concussion	1
Minor injuries	7	193

Fractures:

Carpal bone		1
Metacarpal bone		1
Fibula		1
Ulna		1
Radius		1
Humerus		1
Jaw		1
Skull		1

The following minor surgical operations were performed:

Abscess		15
Carbuncle		1
Cyst		4
Gangrene of toe (diabetic)	1
Furuncles		36
Cellulitis		24
Cervical adenitis		1
Ingrowing toenail	1	1
Phimosis		8
Hydrocele	1	1

The following major surgical operations were performed:

Appendectomy		4
Empyema		1
Hernia (inguinal)		1
Compound fracture of ulna and lacerated tendons		1

Separate and distinct quarters, visited only by necessary attendants, are set aside for new boys. Regular period of quarantine is two weeks but at times a longer period is deemed necessary. During this time both physical and mental measurements are taken and recorded; vaccinations performed when necessary; Wasserman test, typhoid immunization, and diphtheria cultures on all admitted.

Frequent inspections have been made in all departments with especial reference to hygiene and sanitation.

Notwithstanding due care and special precautions, we were visited by the recent epidemic of influenza, beginning October 18, 1918. In rapid succession there followed 139 cases, of which one died. During this time daily inspections of the entire personnel of the institution were made and suspected cases held in a large ward set apart for this purpose. At this time it seems fitting to extend an expression of appreciation to the officers for their kindly cooperation, to the nurses for their unflagging energy and devotion to duty, and finally to the school teachers who volunteered for nursing duty and worked both day and night under the supervision of our trained nursing staff.

During this year there were seven deaths, one of which was due to a fractured skull, resulting from an unavoidable accident. Three were due to pneumonia and the remaining three to pulmonary tuberculosis after having been transferred from the institution.

Attending specialists in eye, ear, nose, throat and dental departments have performed their special work in a most creditable manner.

The food has been ample, well cooked and well served; and the diet lists well proportioned.

Seasonable clothing to a generous degree has been provided.

The general good physical and mental appearance of the inmates reflects credit to those in charge of the management of the institution.

Respectfully submitted,

NELSON A. CRAW, M. D.,
Attending Physician,

302 Alexandria Avenue, New York City.

REPORT OF THE OPHTHALMOLOGIST

To the Board of Managers of the Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents in the City of New York:

GENTLEMEN.—During my past year's service as attending oculist at the House of Refuge the following cases have been treated:

Anophthalmus	1
Aphakia	1
Blepharitis marginalis	6
Chalazion (tumor of lid)	2
Conjunctivitis, acute	10
Conjunctivitis, phlyctenular	2
Conjunctivitis, chronica	6
Conjunctivitis, traumatic	4
Examination for refractive errors	140
Ecchymosis of the conjunctiva—black eye	6
Hordeolum (stye)	4
Keratitis phlycentular	2
Trachoma	15
Ulcer of the cornea	3
Wound of the cornea	1

All these cases did well under treatment, as did also those who were operated on.

The following operations have been performed:

Chalazion (tumor of lid)	2
Hordeolum (stye)	3
Foreign body on cornea removed	2
Tenotomy for divergent strabismus (squint)	1
Tenotomy for convergent strabismus	1

REPORT OF THE VOCATIONAL DIRECTOR

Col. EDWARD C. BARBER, Superintendent:

DEAR SIR.—Herewith I beg to submit a report on the vocational education feature of the House of Refuge, together with other scholastic data, for the year ending June 30, 1919:

The boys entering our schools during the year came from thirty-four counties of the State. Twenty-four nationalities were represented. One hundred and fifty-four pupils were sent to us from the Borough of Manhattan, and 154 were received from the Borough of Kings; thirteen came from the Borough of the Bronx, while the Borough of Queens was represented by eight and Richmond by two. Erie county was represented by 71 and Monroe county by 18. From some counties but one pupil was received.

The previous school grades of the pupils ranged from the first elementary school grade to graduates of same, and first year high school pupils. However, we received but few first year high school boys, and the number of elementary school graduates was small.

A few pupils came to us without any lapse in their scholastic careers. In a large number of cases pupils were out of school six months to three years.

Our schools are organized on the elementary school plan. Upon entering the schools, the pupils are examined by the principal and placed in grades for which they seem fitted.

The majority of teachers are graduates of State normal schools, and those who are not hold either State certificates or similar credentials. All are required to possess experience in public school teaching.

The subjects taught are the common English branches. Special efforts are made to have the instruction as practical as possible.

Music receives due attention. Lessons by a competent teacher are given the classes in each division. The teacher of music directs this work for all denominational services, and acts as organist Sundays. She supervises all music for entertainments, etc., held in the chapel and in the schools, and also conducts such work Saturdays.

Much is done in library work, with gratifying results. Each class has a library suited to its grade. Books may be drawn once each week. A system of reading aloud to classes selections from good authors has been introduced. The teachers also read to their classes current news which is fitting and proper appearing in the daily papers.

A general promotion is made on the first day of the new school year in September. A partial promotion is also made in January. At any time during the year any boy showing qualifications for a higher grade may be placed in the same.

There is a correlation between the academic school classes and the industrial shop classes to strengthen the vocation feature of education. The second assistant superintendent is director of this phase of the school work.

The director holds conferences with the principal and teachers of the schools. The teachers visit the shops and observe the practical work of repair and construction in and about the institution.

Our educational problem is of a somewhat different type as relates to the elementary school. Theoretically an elementary school pupil continues his educational work through the several grades of that type of school until graduation. Boys come to us with a greater or lesser gap in their school careers, and remain with us but approximately sixteen and one-half months. Again, a large number of our boys will never again attend school. Hence, we are attempting to solve the problem of appropriate subject-matter. This resolves itself into a determination on our part as to what we should teach in history, English, geography, etc. The same relates to mathematics.

Education proves most helpful when it is made to fit the need of professions, trades, etc.: First, as a general educative influence; second, as the theory for some specified activity, and third, when education is afforded at one and the same time in trade practice and theory with a view to most efficiently preparing workmen for a career. Educators the country over are coming to recognize the fact that affording practice in a given trade without offering at the same time instruction in theory of that trade is a makeshift as relates to vocational training. Hence the vocational school came into being. This type of school is one which houses the shop and a school subordinated to the shop. Academic teachers in vocational schools have as their subjects, vocations. With this end in view, we attacked the problem of vocational education through methods indicated hereunder. Utilizing the printing trade as an illustration, it will suffice to demonstrate what we are endeavoring to accomplish with pupils engaged in that and in other trade activities.

The boys employed in our printing shop were organized into a class for receiving theoretical instruction on printing trade theory. A teacher was selected from the regular teaching staff. She has as her official class for afternoon and evening work the boys learning printing. The teacher was afforded the opportunity to frequently visit the printing shop, confer with the instructor, and learn through practice the fundamental operations of the trade. She became fairly proficient as a compositor. She learned to cut paper, card, etc., and became conversant with sizes and weights of same. She learned to "impose forms," "make ready," etc. She entered upon the study of arithmetic as relates to the trade. In due time her plan of work for beginning this type of instruction was evolved. This teacher is capable of teaching all arithmetical operations, and all grades of pupils, in printing trade arithmetic. She teaches English, history, geography, etc., as applied to printing. The teacher and the shop instructor work in harmony. The beginner in the trade receives in the shop practical instruction in the trade. The same pupil in the class-room receives theoretical instruction benefitting the beginner in the trade.

During the year four teachers were engaged in correlated work as outlined in the foregoing. The institution was fortunate in having in its employ a teacher who possessed considerable experience in manual training. She was selected as teacher for boys engaged in advanced carpentry work, electrical and other vocations. The boys of the art and sloyd classes are receiving instruction allied with their activities. Other boys, selected, are taking this work.

In some cases boys are assigned to vocational classes before entering shops. While there is no doubt that one should first get practice in a given trade, followed by theory, yet some practice can be afforded in the school-room. Also, there are types of theory in which instruction can be offered in the school which does not conflict with pedagogy. A pupil who is to be assigned to carpentry can receive instruction with profit in architectural drawing before he enters the shop. This applies to making calculations in board measure, and to other mathematics. A boy who is to be assigned to the printing shop can receive in the school-room much instruction as relates to the point system (the method of type measurement) before entering the printing office. The class-room teacher's equipment consists of much material upon which such instruction may be based. Other instances might be cited.

The teacher of architectural drawing instructs the boys employed in the construction departments in drawing applicable to their work. Boys employed in the machine and forge shops are afforded practice in mechanical drawing.

It will be observed that the methods we are practicing involve the teacher's training for the work. This does not mean that each teacher has been under continuous tutoring. However, in order that we could work out the vocational plan, utilizing the present teaching staff, it meant in cases a re-education.

It is gratifying to be able to report that, once the teachers teaching vocational subjects grasped the full import of such activities, each began educational work to fit herself for the task. This is the spirit which makes vocational education a success.

The pupils in the higher grades are not being neglected as relates to practical education. Teachers of these grades have taken up work with their classes dealing with the elements of trade practice and theory, as installation of metal ceilings, computing lumber, excavating, masonry, etc.

During the year an addition to the power house was erected. A new engine and dynamo were installed, together with other equipment. A general rearrangement of the entire plant, exclusive of boilers, was effected.

Under direction and supervision of their vocational instructors, the boys of the classes in masonry, sheet metal, electric wiring and installation, machine shop and forge practice, performed the construction and repair work. The boys engaged in steam and electrical engineering, under supervision of their instructors, installed the new equipment, and dismantled and re-erected the old. This “job” and many others, afforded excellent practical problems for the teachers teaching vocational subjects. A briefly itemized estimate of the costs entailed in the erection of the structure are appended. When this problem was given to the teachers the teacher of drawing was instructed to keep in close touch with them on the work.

Those possessing no experience in architectural drawing are thus enabled to do drafting, read plans, make estimates, teach trade terms, measurements and values. In turn, the teachers impart such knowledge to their pupils.

We are now well beyond the beginning of vocational education at the Refuge. The work should be extended. While this type of work is a step in advance, it is not an experiment. It is merely practical education.

Respectfully,

HOWARD E. PARKER,

Second Assistant Superintendent.

STATE OF NEW YORK

Chapter 416, Laws of 1919

An Act to amend the state penal law, in relation to sentence to House of Refuge, State Industrial School and New York State Training School for Girls.

Became a law May 5, 1919, with the approval of the Governor. Passed, three-fifths being present.

The People of the State of New York, represented in the Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. Section two thousand one hundred and eighty-four of the penal law is hereby amended so as to read as follows:

§ 2184. Sentence to House of Refuge, State Industrial School, and New York State Training School for Girls. Where a male person under the age of twelve years is convicted of a crime amounting to felony, or where a male person of twelve years and under the age of sixteen years is convicted of a crime, the trial court may, instead of sentencing him to imprisonment in a State Prison or in a Penitentiary, direct him to be confined in a House of Refuge under the provisions of the statute relating thereto. Where the conviction is had and the sentence is inflicted in the city of New York the place of confinement must be a House of Refuge established by the Managers of the Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents in the City of New York; where the conviction is had and the sentence inflicted outside of said city the place of confinement may be in the State Industrial School. Where a male person of the age of sixteen years and under the age of eighteen years has been convicted of Juvenile Delinquency or of a misdemeanor, the trial court may, instead of sentencing him to imprisonment in a State prison or in a Penitentiary, direct him to be confined in a House of Refuge established by the Managers of the Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents in the City of New York under the provisions of the statute relating thereto. Where a female person not over the age of twelve years is convicted of a crime amounting to a felony, or where a female person of the age of twelve years and not over the age of sixteen years is convicted of a crime, the trial court may, instead of sentencing her to imprisonment in a State prison or in a Penitentiary, direct her to be confined in the New York State Training School for Girls, under the provisions of the statute relating thereto, but nothing in this section shall effect any of the provisions contained in section twenty-one hundred and ninety-four.

2. This act shall take effect immediately.

INSTRUCTIONS TO PAROLED BOYS

1. You will continue on parole until your twenty-first birthday.
2. You may be returned at any time for misconduct or for violation of instructions given you herewith.
3. You are to go at once to the employment selected for you and must not change your work without permission of the Superintendent. If for any cause you lose your position you are to notify the Superintendent at once by telephone, letter, or in person.
4. You must not frequent saloons, poolrooms or other places of questionable character. You are to shun bad company and must not habitually run the streets at night.
5. You must notify the Superintendent at once concerning any change of your address or any difficulty with your employer or other person.
6. You must report to the Superintendent in person whenever you are sent for.
7. You must make your monthly report between the 1st and 10th of each month. These will be sent to you and should be returned at once. Should you not receive one by the 10th of the month, advise me and another one will be sent. They must also be signed by one or both of your parents or your employer.
8. Paroled boys will be given every encouragement and help possible as long as they themselves are putting forth their best efforts.
9. You are at liberty to consult the Superintendent personally at his office on any important matter that concerns your welfare any day between 8 and 10 A. M., except the first Saturday in the month.

E. C. BARBER,
Superintendent.

NEW YORK HOUSE OF REFUGE

General Information

For the information of committing judges, justices, and magistrates and of parents and friends of boys committed, and of others, this statement, concerning the institution, its history, object, work, industrial and educational facilities is prepared.

The House of Refuge is a reformatory institution, maintained by the managers under the provisions of chapter 126 of the Laws of 1824 (see section 4 of said act) and the acts amendatory thereto (chapter 241, Laws of 1860, and chapter 172, Laws of 1865).

It is located on Randall's Island, city of New York, and the ferry at the foot of East One Hundred and Twenty-fifth Street can be reached at all hours of the day, either by elevated, subway or surface railroads. The institution is best reached from the Jersey railway terminals by the Hudson Tube to Thirty-third Street Station, then Sixth Avenue Elevated to 125th Street, then 125th Street Crosstown car (so marked), eastbound, to the Refuge dock at the foot of 125th Street and Harlem River. Parties arriving at the New York Central Railroad Station at Forty-second Street, should take the Lexington Avenue Subway to 125th Street.

ITS OBJECTS

The New York House of Refuge under the incorporated "Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents in the City of New York" is the oldest reformatory for children in the United States, if not in the world, having been chartered in 1824. It was founded, as stated in the act of incorporation, chapter 126, Laws of 1824, for "the reformation of juvenile delinquents," and the act of incorporation was further declared to be a public act, and was directed to be construed in all courts and places benignly and favorably for every humane and laudable purpose therein contained.

METHODS

The institution is not a place of punishment, nor a prison, but a training school, where the inmates receive such instruction and training as are best adapted to form and perpetuate an upright character; to establish habits of industry, and to advance them in the branches of knowledge taught in the common schools of this State.

COMMITMENTS

Commitments are made to the House of Refuge from the first, second, third and ninth judicial districts of the State of New York—of boys under the age of 16 years, for juvenile delinquency, no proper guardianship and disorderly conduct, and from any judicial district of the State of boys over 16 years of age and under 18 years who have been convicted of a misdemeanor in a court of competent jurisdiction. The first three and the ninth judicial districts comprise the following counties:

First District, New York and Bronx counties; second district, Richmond, Suffolk, Queens, Kings and Nassau; third district, Rensselaer, Schoharie, Columbia, Sullivan, Albany, Greene and Ulster; ninth district, Westchester, Rockland, Dutchess, Putnam and Orange.

Juvenile delinquency covers all crime, both felony and misdemeanor, for boys under 16 years of age. This is governed by section 2186 of the Penal Law.

The principal statutes under which commitments are made to the House of Refuge will be found in the Penal Laws of the State of New York, chapter 88 of the Laws of 1909, being chapter 40 of the Consolidated Laws of the State of New York (1909), sections 486 and 2184, as amended by chapter 607 of the Laws of 1913, and 2186 (see also the State Charities Law, chapter 57, of the Laws of 1909, being chapter 55 of the Consolidated Laws of the State of New York, 1909), as amended by chapter 449 of the Laws of 1910.

The principal sections of the Penal Law violated by boys committed are as follows:

No proper guardianship is covered by section 486 of the Penal Law and includes vagrancy, begging, frequenting places of ill-repute, etc.

Disorderly conduct is covered by section 720 of the Penal Law.

Boys over 16 years of age and under 18 years are committed under section 2184 of the Penal Law as amended by chapter 416 of the Laws of 1919, of which a copy will be found at page 75.

TERM OF COMMITMENT

Under the law, all boys committed to the New York House of Refuge remain subject to its jurisdiction during their minority.

For the purpose of the reformation of the children committed to their care, the managers under section 6 of chapter 126, Laws of 1824, have established a system for determining the period of detention of the inmates, which in substance is as follows:

A debit and credit account of marks is opened with each inmate as received, under which an inmate of ordinary and average good conduct becomes entitled to a parole after a detention for a period of eighteen months; excess is due to the inmate's own conduct, which has resulted in the balance of marks being against him. Misconduct lengthens the time of detention. The average period of detention for those serving their first commitment is between twenty and twenty-one months.

Boys returned for violation of parole are held for such period as may be determined necessary to again fit them for parole. This period varies from a day or two, for the investigation of their case, to three months of good conduct or to the full period of seventy-eight weeks of good conduct, as the nature of their violation and the circumstances of their cases may justify.

By a system of commutation an inmate for faultless conduct is given two weeks for every thirteen, which makes it possible to reduce the full period of eighteen months by about two and a half months. Thus in one year he may earn a total credit of sixty weeks. When he has seventy-eight weeks to his credit, he becomes eligible for parole, which is granted if he is provided with a proper home and suitable employment.

For every five demerit marks one week is added to the time of his detention. These weeks have to be redeemed before any commutation time can again be earned. A boy can redeem one week by going four consecutive weeks without demerits and so on. Ten or more demerit marks in one week, or five marks each in two consecutive weeks, or assignment to the squad or discipline division take a boy out of the class of honor. He may regain the class of honor by eight consecutive weeks of good conduct. In the disciplining division credits cannot be earned.

Each boy's record is made up at the end of each week.

This period of detention has been established by the managers as being in their judgment productive of the most permanent and beneficial results in the reformation of the character and habits of the children committed to their care.

The foregoing system is never departed from except in cases presenting very special features. In such cases the discharge is only had by a vote of the Board of Managers. Furthermore it has been found that any departure from this system is productive among the children of a sense of favoritism or unjust discrimination, with the result that feeling themselves to be unjustly treated, their conduct, and consequently their mark account, become demoralized.

On entering the institution all boys are interviewed by the Superintendent and assigned to such division as he deems advisable, governed by age and former record. They are instructed as to the objects of the institution and what is expected of them while they remain here and are furnished with a leaflet of instruction for their guidance.

They are assigned to quarantine, where they are segregated for a fortnight under medical supervision with a view to the detection of any contagious diseases which they might have contracted prior to commitment. A throat culture is taken and submitted to the department of health of the city and a report from that department as to the nature of the culture is awaited before the boy is allowed to mingle with the other inmates. While in quarantine a very thorough physical examination is made by the physician ophthalmologist, dental surgeon and other measurements taken and the Binet-Simon test applied for mental rating.

Parents, guardians or relatives of boys sent from New York City and suburbs are permitted to visit them once a month, on the first Saturday between 9 A. M. and 3:30 P. M.

No inmate may be visited by friends from outside until he has been in the institution two weeks. In cases where the first visiting day occurs during those two weeks, visits may not be had until the following regular visiting day.

Inmates are permitted to write to parents or friends once a month if in the class of honor. They are permitted to receive letters from home. In case of serious illness of any boy the next of kin will at once be informed.

RECREATIONS

There are many privileges enjoyed in common when the general conduct warrants, such as swimming during the summer months, freedom of the front lawns frequently during the summer and fall months, and others.

During the summer we have baseball games with outside teams.

The institution owns a moving-picture machine, which is used frequently to entertain the boys, and we have frequent song services and musical exercises.

HEALTH

The food, clothing and sanitary arrangements throughout the institution are such as are most conducive to the health of the children. A physician visits the institution daily, and a dentist and oculist bi-weekly, and a rhinologist and laryngologist weekly, and as occasion demands, thereby insuring careful attention to the physical condition of the children.

TRAINING

The training of the boys is accomplished in four ways, as follows:

First. By religious instruction. Services and teaching are given by a Protestant clergyman, a Roman Catholic priest, and a Hebrew rabbi. chosen and maintained by their respective churches.

Second. By scholastic instruction in a common school. The scholastic work is all done under the direction of women teachers.

Classes are conducted during eleven months in the year in all branches usual in schools for boys.

Third. By vocational instruction in which the boys are taught some useful trade or other method of earning an honest living. This instruction in manual training teaches the concentration of mind as nothing else does in addition to fitting them for work in the outdoor world. All shops and classes are in charge of competent teachers, all of whom are men. The domestic work is under the direction of both men and women. Classes are conducted in painting, printing, carpentry, blacksmithing, plumbing, tinsmithing, masonry and steamfitting where the instruction is theoretical and practical, and lessons in drawing, designing and sloyd work are given. There are also classes in tailoring, shoemaking, cooking, laundering, electric work, barbering, steam-firing, gas making, farming and gardening. The boys also furnish the crew of the steam tug. The clothes of the institution are made by the boys, who also do the housework.

In fact, all the work of the institution is done by the boys under the direction of their instructors. The buildings now occupied by the institution were erected in 1854 and necessarily required much repair work as painting, carpentry, plumbing, plastering and the like. For some years no outside contractor or mechanic has been employed at the institution to do any of the necessary work, all of which, as stated, has been done by the boys. This work has been of the utmost value as supplemental to classroom and shop instruction. It is the usual practice to assign boys when they first enter the institution to some of the domestic departments. After three or four months in such departments they are given an opportunity to take up industrial work, being assigned to that for which they seem best fitted.

Fourth. By military instruction. The boys are organized as an infantry regiment with arms and a band; their drill, while including company and battalion drill and the evolutions of the regiment, pays special attention to physical drill, which gives a smart carriage to the boys and the system inculcates habits of neatness and respect for discipline and esprit de corps. This curriculum with its variety appealing to common sense, intellect, development of earning power and physical improvement, does away with the deadening influence of routine so depressing to the youthful mind.

INDUSTRIAL AND DOMESTIC DEPARTMENTS

Training is afforded in the following stated trade classes and occupations for vocational education.

The routine and trade work of each department is organized into graded steps or stages of progress from the simplest and least difficult task to the more complicated problems and those presenting the more advanced features of instruction. These graded stages serve as guides to present routine shop work and practical repair work of the institution as motives for the new apprentice and for those who are advancing. These steps or stages are partially indicated under the heading of each department given in the following synopsis of trades and occupations taught.

CLASS IN ART

Work in this class intended to encourage the mind and hand toward useful occupation in which success is the result of persistence.

Drawing

1. Figures composed of straight lines.
2. Figures composed of curved lines.
3. Figures composed of combined curved and straight lines.
4. Free hand drawing from simple objects.
5. Light and shade.
6. Free hand drawing from geometrical models.
7. Free hand drawing from cast (ornament in relief).
8. Preparation and use of color inks and crayons.
9. Lettering.
10. Drawing of tiles.
11. Demonstration on the blackboard.

Modeling in Plaster

1. Simple objects.
2. Geometrical models.
3. Ornament in relief.
4. Heads, animals, scenes, etc., in relief.
5. Art craft pottery in cement, and applied design problem.

Carving on Plaster

1. Simple carving.
2. Cutting letters.

Miscellaneous

Foundation in art history, perspective and constructions, harmony of colors, making enlargement of pictures, scales, etc.

1. Preparing the model.
2. Making the mould.
3. Preparing the mould.
4. Casting.
5. Care of tools.
6. Simple wood carving.
7. Practical wood carving.

BAKING AND COOKING*Bread*

1. Getting pans in proper shape.
2. Troughs cleaned and put in good order.
3. Flour well sieved.
4. The temperature of water.
5. Proper amount of salt and yeast.
6. Mixing of dough.
7. Kneading the dough in proper time.
8. Forming into shape.
9. The right temperature of the oven for baking.
10. Grade of flour and how to work.
11. Baking bread.
12. Baking buns.
13. Baking rolls.
14. Baking biscuits.
15. Making pies and cakes.

BOYS' KITCHEN

1. Personal cleanliness.
2. Cleanliness and orderliness of kitchen.
3. Care and cleanliness of cooking utensils.
4. Making tea and coffee.
5. Preparation and cooking of cereal fruits.
6. Preparation and cooking of eggs.
7. Preparation and cooking of soups.
8. Preparation and cooking of meats.
9. Carving and distributing of meats.
10. Preparing puddings for baking and steaming.
11. Proper allotment of foods per individual.
12. Preparing menus.

BARBER SHOP

1. Personal cleanliness.
2. Cleanliness of shop.
3. Care of and sharpening tools.
4. Instruction in shaving.
5. Instruction in haircutting.
6. Instruction in shampooing.

CLASS IN BLACKSMITHING

1. Cleaning and keeping shop in order.
2. Building the forge fires.
3. Simple forge work, as staples, hooks, hangers, clamps, holdfasts, bolts, nuts, hoes, rakes, slicing bars, grate bars, lazy bars, chisels, flat and diamond point chisels, bull nose chisels, cape chisels, punches, wrenches, etc.
4. Plumber's tools: Chisels, punches, corking, and pricking tools made and repaired.
 For power plant: Hoes, rolling bars, rakes, slicing bars, lazy bars made and repaired.
 For gas house: Slicing bars, rakes, hoes, grate bars made and repaired.
 For steamer Refuge: Rakes, slicing bars, hoes, lazy bars, wrenches and punches made and repaired.
 For mason class: Chisels, points, tools, hammers and bars made and repaired.
 For steamfitting class: Flat chisels, drill chisels, diamond point chisels, punches, drills, hangers, clamps made and repaired.
 For farm. Shoeing horses, repairing carts, plows, harrows, staples, hooks, drills, etc.
5. Repair work about the institution.

This class makes all tools for the blacksmith shop and department; makes and repairs all iron gates, iron railings, plain and ornamental; makes and repairs all iron bedsteads and bed springs.

CLASS IN CARPENTRY

1. Planing and squaring to a given width and thickness.
2. Planing to a given bevel.
3. Squaring a piece to four equal sides.
4. Boring exercise; three pieces.
5. Slip tongue.
6. Rabbeting.
7. Matching and blind nailing.
8. Dadoing.
9. Plain, return and center beads.
10. Mitre joints.
11. Halved-together joints.
12. Open mortise and tenon joint.
13. Dowel joint.
14. Five-piece dowel joint.
15. Blind mortise and tenon joint, full size.
16. Mitre joint with open mortise.
17. Mitre and open double mortise and tenon joint.
18. Double mortise and tenon joint.
19. Dovetail joint.
20. Blind dovetail joint.

21. Rabbeted window frames.
22. Square box post, stop-champed, full size.
23. Frame house window frame.
24. Post illustration square and octagon mitre.
25. Bracket shelf.
26. Press board.
27. Gable ornament for wood cottage.
28. Chair caning.
29. Repairing furniture.
30. Making new furniture.

CARPENTER SHOP

In addition to the instructor in carpentry two carpenters are employed, their whole time being given to making necessary repairs about the institution. Each has under his direction six or eight boys for daily instruction.

ELECTRICAL CLASS

1. The names of tools used in the electrical trade and the use of tools.
2. The size of conductors and different kinds of insulation.
3. Wiring, alarm-bell work and electric lighting work in all branches.
4. Practical electrical work.

This class has a good field of instruction in practical work of the trade. There are 2,500 electric light outlets, a large fire alarm and a watchman's clock system. All new and repair work in this trade about the institution is done by this class.

FARM AND GARDEN

1. Spreading the manure on the farm.
2. Ploughing the soil.
3. Harrowing the soil.
4. Sowing.
5. Planting.
6. Irrigation.
7. Hoeing.
8. Weeding.
9. Harvesting.

We have eight acres under cultivation. Crops raised consist of tomatoes, sweet corn, beets, onions, celery, lettuce, spinach, cabbage, parsnips and beans.

GAS HOUSE

1. Preparing retorts.
2. Firing.
3. Pulling fires.
4. Instructions in the use of water.
5. Pumping.
6. Testing.
7. General all around practice in operating the plant.

CLASS IN HORTICULTURE

Inside Work

1. Flower-pot cleaning.
2. Preparing potting compost.
3. Propagation by cutting, division of roots and seeds.
4. Potting, watering and fertilizing in the different stages of growth.
5. Greenhouse ventilation and shading.
6. Handling of cut flowers.
7. Care of hot-water system.
8. Florist flowers grown: Carnations, roses, chrysanthemums, lilies, snap dragons, mignonette, pansies, and also numerous annuals. Thousands of the general run of bedding plants are grown.

Outside Work.

1. Digging and manuring.
2. Making flower beds.
3. Planting—arranging for effect.
4. Taking care of flower beds, lawns and roads.
5. Taking and making cuttings of various plants.
6. Proper methods employed in taking care of trees and hedges such as pruning and spraying to kill insects.

LAUNDRY DEPARTMENT

In this department the entire laundry work of the officers, matrons and inmates is done. The average number of articles that pass through the laundry weekly is about 25,000, washed and ironed.

The operation of the steam washing machines is taught. Boys are taught also to run and understand the different parts of the engine and extractors, to lace and adjust belts and to keep all machinery in proper running order.

Practical work on the steam mangle, where are ironed all kinds of flat work, such as tablecloths, napkins, handkerchiefs, counterpanes, sheets, pillowcases, etc., and to fold, check up and deliver same.

A dryroom tumbler has been installed in which all the inmates' work is dried. The boys are taught to properly dry all work and keep dryer in perfect working order.

Operation of the dryers, where the boys are taught to properly dry all kinds of work, and fold, check up and deliver same.

Hand washing department, where boys are taught to wash all the different kinds of goods, such as cottons, woolens, mixed and colored goods.

They are also taught to make starch and bluing and to properly use same.

Instruction in ironing as follows: Aprons, inmates' coats, napkins and handkerchiefs, night dresses, petticoats, white duck suits, white shirtwaists, colored shirts, white shirts, collars and cuffs, white vests.

CLASS IN MACHINERY

1. Names of tools and machines used in the department.
2. Bench work: Chipping, filings, scrapings, fittings, tapping and threading; making such tools as calipers, inside, outside; flat wrenches are made and bolts of many sizes are threaded with stock and die.
3. Instruction is given in machine work on drill-press, shape planer, lathe, milling machine and grinder and a number of tools and appliances are made.
4. At drill-press work the different speeds for different kinds of metal to be drilled are explained, also the grinding of twist and flat drills suitable for the work.
5. Work on shaper and planer includes the working of parallels, leveling plates, etc.
6. The instruction in lathe work is very thorough and the making of a number of articles, such as mandrels, plum bobs, reamers, taps, and dies, and the cutting and fitting of "V" and square threads are fully demonstrated.
7. The boys are also instructed how to care for and run a steam engine.
8. After a boy becomes proficient in shop work he is taken out to assist in the general repair work of the institution. The eight steam engines and all machinery, including printing presses, laundry machines, shafting and belting conveyor belt (which conveys coal from the river front to the fuel house, a distance over 300 feet), and all locks and locking devices throughout the institution are under the direct care of this class, and other repairs in which they assist, gives them practical work.

CLASS IN MASONRY

1. Name of tools belonging to the trade.
2. Proper handling of tools.
3. Making lime and sand into mortar.
4. Method of preparing cement for brick, laying cement floors and sidewalk.
5. General repair work about the institution, such as resetting and lining boilers, resetting gas retorts, brick and plaster repairs, cement work, etc.
6. Plastering and installing metal ceilings.
7. Practical work.

MILITARY BAND

1. Demonstration of the staff.
2. Demonstration of the scales, chromatic and natural.
3. Technique of the instrument.
4. Instruction in scales with instrument.
5. Exercises.
6. Simple melodies.
7. Chromatic runs.
8. Orchestral practice.
9. Professional band instruction.
10. Band parade practice and general band instruction.

HOSPITAL

1. Personal cleanliness.
2. Care of ward.
Cleanliness.
Ventilation.
Arrangement of beds.
3. Care of patient.
Temperature.
Pulse.
Respiration.
Baths: Bed and tub, hot, cold and tepid.
4. Allotment and administering medicines.
5. First aid to the injured.
Position of patient.
Tourniquetting.

CLASS IN PAINTING

House Painting

1. Proper care of brushes and other tools.
2. Binding brushes.
3. Shellacing and priming new work.
4. Puttying and sandpapering.
5. Painting second coat one-half gloss.
6. Painting third coat; flat-cutting in joints.
7. Enameling.

8. Tracing window sash.
9. Glazing.
10. Filling hard wood.
11. Shellacing hard wood.
12. Sand papering and puttying hard wood.
13. Varnishing hard wood.
14. Rubbing hard wood.

WALL PAINTING AND DECORATING

1. Cutting out and stopping up cracks.
2. Shellacing cracks and stains.
3. Sizing walls and ceiling.
4. Kalsomining ceiling.
5. Painting walls, first coat three-quarters gloss.
6. Painting walls, third coat flat.
7. Stippling walls.
8. Stenciling.

Wall Decorating in Water Colors

1. Preparing wall and ceiling for water color.
2. Use of straight edge and lining brushes.
3. Drawing one-inch lines.
4. Drawing fine lines.
5. Drawing beveled squares with fine lines.
6. Technical instruction in color mixing in water and oil.
7. Stencil borders, flat treatment.
8. Stencil borders, shaded with relief.
9. Decorative panel stencil design.
10. Decorative panel free-hand design.
11. Laying out paneled ceiling with stiles, borders, lines, etc.
12. Coating paneled ceiling with different shades.
13. Decorating paneled ceiling with stencil and pounce design.
14. Shaded molding.
15. Cutting stencils.
16. Making pounce designs.

All the painting, decorating and glazing in the institution is done by the pupils of this class.

CLASS IN PHOTOGRAPHY

1. Practical instruction in all branches of photography.
2. Photographic manipulation.
3. Compounding of chemical solutions.
4. Operating under studio light.
5. Out-door photography.
6. Photographing interiors.
7. Flashlight photography.
8. Copying, enlarging, reducing.
9. Lantern slide making.

10. Modern dark room.
11. Developers and development.
12. Development of plates.
13. Intensifying and reducing of negatives.
14. Retouching, modeling, etching.
15. Printing and vignetting.
16. Development of prints, fixing, washing, drying and mounting.

All the photographing of identification and Binet test pictures, as well as the views and interiors of the institution, are done by pupils of this class.

PLUMBING CLASS

On completion of course below advanced work will be undertaken, namely, setting up sinks, basins, boilers, washtrays, closets and bath tubs, making bottle traps and other miscellaneous work.

1. Seams.
2. Overcasting.
3. Cup joint.
4. Calking.
5. $\frac{5}{8}$ -inch round joint, horizontal.
6. $\frac{5}{8}$ -inch branch joint, horizontal.
7. $\frac{5}{8}$ -inch round joint, upright.
8. Quarter bend.
9. $\frac{5}{8}$ -inch branch joint, upright.
- 10 Stop cock.
11. Floor flange.
12. 2-inch ferrule.
13. Bath plug.
14. $\frac{5}{8}$ -inch branch joint, vertical.
15. Wall flange.
16. Soldering nipple, small.
17. Soldering nipple, large.
18. 4-inch ferrule, upright.
19. 4-inch ferrule, horizontal.
20. Tank seam, upright.
21. Tank seam, horizontal.
22. $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch round joint, horizontal.
23. $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch branch joint, horizontal.
24. $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch joint, upright.
25. $\frac{1}{2}$ -inch branch joint, vertical.
26. $\frac{5}{8}$ -inch round joint, oblique.
27. $\frac{5}{8}$ -inch round joint, overhead.
28. Plain bib, vertical branch.
29. 2-inch round joint, horizontal.
30. 2-inch round joint, upright.
31. 2-inch branch joint, upright.
32. 2-inch branch joint, vertical.

33. 2-inch short bend, with ferrule.
34. 4-inch short bend, with ferrule.

Lectures are given on the following subjects:

Subjects

1. Drain, soil and waste pipes.
2. Trapping the ventilation of drain, soil and waste pipes.
3. Supply pipes.
4. Boilers.
5. Tanks.
6. Fixtures.
7. Trapping of fixtures.
8. Pumps.
9. Miscellaneous.
10. Mechanical drawing for plumbing.

CLASS IN PRINTING

1. Demonstration of type measure.
2. Demonstration of the point system.
3. Demonstration of the type case.
4. "Setting" the case.
5. Demonstration of spaces and quads.
6. Practical work in the uses of spaces and quads.
7. Composition and distribution.
8. Book and newspaper composition.
9. Distribution.
10. Proof taking and proof reading.
11. Practical work in statistical matter.
12. Locking forms for presses.
13. Press-feeding.
14. "Making-ready" forms for printing.
15. Demonstrations in justification of 18-point and display type.
16. Composition of simple jobs.
17. Job type distribution.
18. Composition of leader work.
19. Composition of ruled jobs.
20. Composition of rule and leader jobs.
21. General jobbing and commercial printing.
22. General work of the office interspersed with proofreading; "making ready" the presses and press feeding; practical work covering all the ground thus far.

CLASS IN SHOEMAKING

1. Names and use of different tools.
2. Hand-sewing, cutting and fitting tools.
3. Nailing heels and taps on repair work.

Upon concluding this course, pupils are assigned to the different benches and machines for the manufacture of shoes, as follows:

1. Cutting the upper leather; how and where to cut the vamps, quarters, back stays and tongues to the best advantage.
2. Putting eyelets in upper with eyeletting machine.
3. Machine-sewing quarters and backstays of uppers together.
4. Machine-sewing on vamps and stiffening. This completes the sewing of the uppers.
5. Hooks put in uppers with machine, for lacing.
6. Uppers laced together ready for lasting.
7. Sole leather cutting; insoles cut with dies, ran through skiving machine to even thickness.
8. Outer soles and taps cut, skived to even thickness and run through rolling machine.
9. Shank pieces cut. This completes bottom stock, and when put together is called "stock fitting."
10. Stock fitted on shoe, making ready for nailer.
11. Last removed and shoes made ready for heeler.
12. Shoes level by hand; made smooth inside and out.
13. Shoes edged, trimmed and heeled.
14. With machine, shoes sand-papered.
15. Shoes inked.
16. Heels and edges burnished.
17. Bottom finished.
18. Shoes shaped with treating machine and uppers polished.
19. Instruction as to sizes of nails and tacks; different grades of leather used in uppers and soles, etc.

CLASS IN STEAMFITTING, BOILER AND ENGINE ROOM

This department is under the Engineering Department and boys are transferred from the engine room at the power house to this place for proficiency in work there. The training the boys receive here is all practical in repairs to all steam, water and gas pipe of the entire institution. This shop also has the care of all the radiators, valves, coffee urns, steam kettles, steam tables, hot-water heaters, steam traps, and the several engines in the different parts of the institution. A boy assigned from this department runs the coal hoisting engine and belt conveyor engine when needed in unloading coal from the boat. They are taught to cut and thread and make their own measurements of all pipes needed and the names, sizes and brands of all the fittings.

They are taught to repair valves, pack valves, make gaskets and joints.

Boys when assigned to this department first work removing the ashes and supplying the coal in front of boilers, and as they show proficiency and vacancies occur in firemen and in the engine room they are promoted.

Also as vacancies occur in the force of steamfitters, transfers are made to that department.

Boys when working on coal and ashes are taught the different valves of boilers, how to clean boilers, how constructed, and how to maintain proper water level; how to produce proper combustion, and a spirit of friendly rivalry obtains as to which one is the most proficient for the next post of firemen.

In the engine room they are taught how to clean, start up, shut down, pack, fill lubricators and general care of engines. They are taught to cut in and out one dynamo with the other on switchboard and the use of meters on board also; when circuit breaker opens circuit how to put circuit breaker in again. There are also the boiler feed pump and fire pumps which must receive their share of care by engine room boys, and all in all they must keep their different posts as clean as possible.

Twenty-four hours of continuous operation of the plant is divided into three shifts. This operation is under the direction of the two assistant engineers.

TAILORING AND CLOTHING DEPARTMENT

1. Operating sewing machine.
2. Sewing straight seam, curved seam, cord seam, plain edge and picked edge.
3. Making plain pockets, flap pocket and welt pocket.

MILITARY DEPARTMENT

All boys on reception are assigned to the awkward squad and instructed in the school of the soldier, in accordance with the drill regulations of the United States army (revision of 1911).

The course of instruction is generally completed in three weeks, when the cadets are graduated from the awkward squad and assigned to a company in the regiment.

While in the awkward squad cadets are informed as to the house rules and carefully instructed as to their deportment while here.

The hours of drill for the awkward squad are from 8 to 11 A. M. and from 1 to 3 P. M.

An hour each school day, from 3:40 to 4:40, is set aside for military instruction, when company drill, manual-of-arms, setting-up exercises, battalion drill or dress parade is held.

The regiment comprises the entire population, and our daily routine is based on and carried out according to the principles of a military school from reveille to taps.

DISCIPLINE

It is the duty of every officer of the institution to report such cases of infraction of rules or breaches of discipline as fall under his observation.

The reports of misconduct are made in writing, on cards provided for that purpose, and are delivered to the disciplinarian.

The disciplinarian may dispose of cases in his discretion as follows:

1. By reprimand and admonition.
2. By giving a "hold open"—putting a boy on probation for a certain length of time. If during this time he offends no further, the report is canceled, otherwise whatever penalty has been imposed will be executed.
3. By giving demerit marks. Five marks entail one week extension of time in the institution; ten marks, two weeks; fifteen marks, three weeks, etc.

4. By assignment to the "squad." Such assignment deprives boys of school and work, during their stay in the "squad." The "squad" is under the immediate supervision of an officer, who is detailed to assist the disciplinarian. Boys in the "squad" are given the setting up exercises, with proper periods of rest. They go to the dining-rooms and bathrooms with the other boys.

5. By transfer to a division known as "F." Those assigned to this division are denied the recreation period on the yard with the other boys. They are employed at work in and about the institution, most of it outside. They receive full rations of the regular fare at all meals. While not at work they are required to remain in their rooms under supervision.

6. By transfer to the discipline division. Here they are kept under constant supervision, in good-sized, well-lighted and well-ventilated cell rooms with open fronts so that the view of the officer in charge is not obstructed (he is able to see the whole interior of each cell). Boys in this division are required to stand at ease or at attention during the working hours of the day, 7:30 to 11:30 A. M., 12:30 to 5 P. M., and 6 to 7:30 P. M. They are given setting-up exercises fifteen minutes each hour during these periods. The length of time boys remain in this division depends partly on the gravity of the offense and partly on their conduct while there, and is subject to the discretion of the disciplinarian.

The basis of the discipline is the deprivation of privileges. The most important privileges enjoyed by the boys are:

A. Ability to earn a parole within a minimum period of about fifteen and a half months if conduct and work justify.

B. Monthly visit from parents and relatives. Parents are permitted to bring candy and some other delicacies. Absolute freedom between boy and parents at such times is permitted, subject only to a general supervision of the visiting room.

C. Letter-writing privilege for boys in the class of honor—a monthly letter.

D. Privilege of play, averaging about an hour and a half daily, with at least a half a day on Saturday and Sundays.

PAROLE

The Parole Committee of the Board of Managers meets each month to consider the cases of all boys who are eligible for parole and frequently during the month for friendly talks with new boys, to get in touch with them and to make them feel that they have come among friends; to interview returned boys; hold hearings on investigations of cases and determine periods of detention. As it is the intention that inmates shall remain a sufficient time to receive such training and discipline as will serve to establish in them correct principles of citizenship, the managers are guided in their decisions as to the periods during which the inmates shall be retained in the house, by their conduct and scholarship. Application for parole of inmates cannot be entertained until the managers have satisfactory assurance of reformation, and that work and a proper home will be provided.

The superintendent will advise parents or guardians by letter in due time as to the date on which boys will be eligible for parole, stating when the cases will come up and that they are desired to appear before the committee. At this meeting of the committee reports are made by the parole officers giving results of investigation concerning the condition of the boy's home and if the house is found to be suitable for the boy the parents are informed that proper employment must be secured, and that a letter from the employer must be sent to the superintendent for investigation before parole is granted. If such a letter is received, an officer investigates the employment offered before the parole is granted.

After the release of a boy on parole, the parole officers keep in touch with the boy and keep the boy during his minority in communication with the superintendent. This is accomplished through a system in which personal visit to the boy by parole officers are combined with a monthly report in writing to the superintendent from the boy himself, indorsed by his parents or employer. These reports are filed and each boy's record is accurately kept and immediately accessible.

Paroled inmates are subject to return, during minority, if, after investigation, they are found to have relapsed into bad habits. This return may be had at the instance of the House or upon request of parents or guardians.

Every boy as he leaves the institution on parole has a parting interview with the superintendent and receives from him a printed form of parole instructions, which are further explained orally to the boy by the superintendent, as follows:

1. You will continue on parole until your twenty-first birthday.
2. You may be returned any time for misconduct or for violation of instructions given herewith.
3. You are to go at once to the employment selected for you and must not change your work without permission of the superintendent. If for any cause you lose your position, you are to notify the superintendent at once by telephone, letter or in person.
4. You must not frequent saloons, poolrooms, or other places of questionable character. You are to sun bad company and you must not habitually run the streets at night.
5. You must notify the superintendent at once concerning any change of your address or any difficulty with your employer or other person.
6. You must make your monthly report between the first and tenth of each month. They must also be signed by one or both of your parents or your employer. Failure to make such report promptly, and in a satisfactory manner, will subject you to return to the institution as a delinquent paroled boy.
7. Paroled boys will be given every encouragement and help possible.
8. You are at liberty to consult the Superintendent personally at his office on any important matter that concerns your welfare any day between 8 to 10 A. M., except the first Saturday of the month.

INSTRUCTIONS TO NEW BOYS

In sending you to the House of Refuge, the court places you in the custody of the institution until you are twenty-one years of age.

If your conduct is good, if your school and other work is satisfactory, if you learn to obey promptly and pleasantly all orders given you, if you keep yourself and your habits clean, you have the privilege of earning your parole in about fifteen months and a half. The Board of Managers have the authority to grant you a parole after you have earned seventy-eight credit weeks, and the Board will parole you when you have earned these weeks, if the superintendent has confidence in your ability and your intention to go out from the institution to lead an honest and decent life. Parole simply means that you are sent out from the institution on trial, returned to your home, placed at work, and that you can remain outside only as long as you continue to obey the parole rules. When you disobey these rules you will be brought back to the institution and kept for an indefinite time, if necessary until twenty-one years of age.

Any misconduct by you while you are in the institution will hinder you in earning your good marks and will lengthen the time you remain in the institution. The more a boy misbehaves the longer it takes him to earn his parole. You will be expected to obey without questioning any order given you by any officer, doing whatever may be given you to do promptly, and the best you know how, and do everything pleasantly.

For every week a boy goes straight, that is, without bad marks, he is credited with one week. If he goes straight thirteen weeks, he has two additional weeks given him. Any boy who makes a perfect record has two extra or commutation weeks given him for every thirteen weeks of good conduct; he can thus earn the full seventy-eight weeks necessary for his parole in about fifteen and a half months. But if a boy fails to go straight, and it becomes necessary for the disciplinarian to give him bad marks, then he cannot earn his extra weeks, and for every five bad marks he receives, he will lose one week. These lost weeks he will have to make up by good conduct before he can be paroled. If after a boy has had a number of bad marks he goes straight for four consecutive weeks he will have one week of lost time restored to him. For example, if a boy comes to the institution on January 1st, and goes straight until April 1st, he will have thirteen good weeks and two extra or commutation weeks, being fifteen in all. If during the first two weeks in April he receives twenty bad marks from the disciplinarian, he will lose four weeks, or, in other words, he will not be credited with any good weeks for that month; if he should receive fifty marks, he would lose ten weeks and these would be taken from those earned during his first three months. But any boy who, after receiving such bad marks, goes straight for a sufficient length of time to redeem them, will have these lost weeks restored to him one for every four weeks of continued good conduct.

He can thus redeem all of his bad marks, but during the time he is engaged in thus redeeming, he cannot earn the extra or commutation weeks.

Any boy who is assigned to the "squad" will forfeit his next monthly visit. Any boy who receives ten marks on one report, or a total of ten marks within two consecutive weeks, will be taken out of the class of honor and thereby will forfeit the privilege of writing a monthly letter.

When the class of honor is once lost it may not be regained except by a continued good record of eight weeks. Every boy as he enters the institution is placed in the class of honor and will lose it only for bad conduct.

A daily record is made of the industrial work, conduct, school work, and military work of each boy. These records are presented to the Board of Managers when a boy is considered for parole, and if the Board is not satisfied with his standing they will order that he be not paroled until his record is satisfactory. A boy may be assigned to the disciplining division for continuous bad conduct or for any serious infraction of the rules.

During the time he is in the disciplining division he can earn no credit and will lose the class of honor and with it the letter-writing and visiting privileges. Boys are prohibited from having in their possession, or using tobacco in any form. They are prohibited from having money or any other article, the possession or use of which is contrary to good order, discipline and safety of the boys generally.

Boys! When you come into the institution forget the past; think only of the future; obey the rules; don't indulge alone or with other boys in any bad habits; be truthful and obedient; and above all, cultivate self-control.

When a boy does this, he makes it much easier for himself and for others who are interested in his welfare. You should not worry about the future, but master to-day and to-morrow will be mastered when it arrives.

To achieve success and become good men, you must conquer yourself.

DESCRIPTION OF THE BUILDINGS

The New York House of Refuge, under the incorporated Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents in the City of New York, is located on the southern part of Randall's Island, fronting on Harlem River, between 115th and 120th streets.

The premises embrace thirty-seven and one-half acres, divided into lawns about six acres; yards and building sites, about ten acres; about ten acres in vegetable garden, about seven acres outside parade and recreation ground and the balance in marsh. A sea wall is built along the front on Harlem River, and around the southern boundary on Little Hell Gate. The buildings, of brick, were erected 1854 and form a façade of nearly 1,000 feet, having accommodations for 1,000 inmates. The land was secured from the city for the use of the Society, and the cost of the buildings was nearly $500,000. There are two main buildings, the larger building, 590 feet front, and the smaller, 250 feet front, providing accommodations for four distinct divisions.

The divisions are each entirely separate. The buildings for shelter and recreation in inclement weather; the school house, with dining-rooms in the first floor, and kitchen, bakery and storehouse, are conveniently arranged in the rear of the boys' main building, and adapted to the general system of classification.

In each of the yards of the first and second divisions for the boys is a commodious workshop, 150 feet long, 30 feet wide, three stories of brick, supplied with necessary tools, machinery and material to give the boys industrial training suitable to their ages and capacity.

The dormitories and officers' quarters for the senior divisions are in the main building and those for the junior divisions and the matrons are in the south building.

RESOLUTION

Extract from the minutes of the Board of Managers, held on the 1st day of May, 1919:

On motion, duly seconded, it was Resolved, That Managers E. W. Bloomington and John J. Townsend be and are hereby appointed a special committee to draft an appropriate resolution concerning the death of the late Manager, D. Crawford Clark.

The committee submitted the following resolution:

"David Crawford Clark, one of the Managers of the Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents in the City of New York, departed this life on April 19, 1919.

"Mr. Clark was elected to membership in this Board May 3, 1917, and served on its Executive Committee from December 7, 1917, until his death.

"In this assignment he displayed qualities which not only endeared him to his colleagues, but which were of importance and of great value to the work in which we are engaged.

"From the first he took a deep interest in the institution, evidenced only in part by his regular attendance at board and committee meetings and his contribution to the discussion of its many various problems.

"His grasp of essentials in the consideration and determination of the policies of the House of Refuge and its Yorktown Heights annex justify the expression that in the death of Mr. Clark this institution has sustained the loss of one of its most devoted and efficient workers, while the members of this Board have lost an esteemed friend and a willing and helpful associate.

"At a regular meeting of the Board held on the 1st day of May, 1919, on motion, it was Resolved, That the Managers of the Society for the Reformation of Juvenile Delinquents in the City of New York convey this expression of appreciation of the character and works of their colleague, together with the assurance of their sincere sympathy, to the family of Mr. Clark, and they direct that the same be entered upon the records of the Society."

During the year just ended the number of children cared for by our Institution exceeded that of any other in its career. We are indeed proud of this fact and doubly so because of the exceptionally good health enjoyed by our young wards. Were it not for the epidemic of influenza, from which the whole country suffered and of which about 304 of our children had an attack, we would be almost justified in saying that they passed through a year entirely free from sickness. And here, I am pleased to be able to say, that the success our Institution had in warding off the fatal results of influenza was due to efficient and continuous nursing received by the children who had been attacked by it.

Owing to the greatly increased cost of food, clothing and fuel, our Board of Managers found it absolutely necessary to be most careful in the expenditure of money in order to provide our children with what were real necessities. How well they succeeded in this difficult task is best evidenced by the good health of our children mentioned previously in this report. It is hoped that the authorities will grant our Institution an increased allowance in order that our income will be such as to permit us to take proper care of our boys and girls without having to deprive them of some of those little things, dear to the hearts of children.

During the year, through the use of private funds, alterations, additions and repairs have been made to the buildings and grounds connected with the Boys' Department. The play-yard has been enlarged and enclosed with a new steel wire fence.

As heretofore, strict attention is being paid to Vocational Training in the Boys' Department, where they are being taught the several trades under most favorable conditions.

In the Girls' Department, the children are receiving a thorough and practical education, along lines which will be of great service to them after they have left our Institution and taken their place in every day life.

At the Lincoln Agricultural School the boys are making great strides in farming and dairy work. As a matter of fact the work done by them is such as to warrant and receive words of highest commendation. And it does — not only from our own city and state, but from others — and from some very far distant places. They are doing well and our Institution is proud of them.

The number of boys who are availing themselves of the advantages furnished by St. Philip's Home is very encouraging. They are indeed fortunate to be possessed of sufficient foresight to place themselves under the supervision of this branch of our Institution and their interest in it speaks well for their appreciation.

I would like very much to say a few words concerning the good work of the Reverend Brothers and Sisters, the Physicians, Dentists and all others who are responsible for the good results obtained and referred to in my report, but space will not permit of it.

In closing, the sincere thanks of our Board of Managers is extended to the State Board of Charities, Children's Courts, Department of Charities, Department of Finance, and all other State and City Departments with which we have had dealings, and it is our earnest wish that our relations with them, which have at all times been most pleasant and satisfactory, may continue so at present.

Respectfully submitted,

THE NEW YORK CATHOLIC PROTECTORY,
MYLES TIERNEY,
President.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR OF THE BOYS' DEPARTMENT

NEW YORK, June 30, 1919.

*To the President and Members of the Board of Managers of
The New York Catholic Protectory:*

GENTLEMEN.—The scholastic year of 1918 and 1919 will go down in history as one of the most successful in the life of the Protectory.

You, gentlemen of the Board, are so well in touch with our daily life, that you need but little by way of a report to put you completely en rapport with the minutest details of all that relates to the welfare and best interest of those who have been so providentially placed under your beneficent and paternal management.

The Protectory has had to care for a large number of children during the past year. The numerous admissions and discharges have largely increased the extent and variety of our efforts and have made many demands upon us which would have been more seriously felt if the Protectory had not already been extended on such generous lines. Since we cannot change these conditions, but must accept them, we have put aside our personal predilections in the matter and have made provision so that each boy coming into the institution, no matter for how short a time, will receive such care, training and education as will make him a wiser, more useful and better boy on leaving than when he entered it. That such is the case with the majority we are assured by many. That we cannot do so for all, is but recognizing the freedom of the will which can frustrate the finest schemes of the wisest and best in the world.

Because we receive such large numbers it might be inferred that the individualization of the boy might be slighted or that the personal touch so necessary would be wanting. Such however is not the case. Religious educators, recognizing that each boy has a bright future before him, if he realizes his advantages, look upon each boy as he really is, a child of his Maker, responsible for all his thoughts, words and actions. While the cultivation of the mind and the development of personal power are sought, the dominant thought regarding each individual must be the inculcation of sound moral, and religious principles, the formation of a good character and the inculcation of respect for law, order and the rights of others. Catholicity with its teachings is the firmest and soundest bases for national advancement and security. Patriotism and loyalty to constituted authorities are the constant themes of our teachings, therefore all the great national events and festivals are duly celebrated to emphasize their importance and to convey their lessons.

Notwithstanding the high price of building materials, we have been able, thanks to the generosity of kind friends, to make many improvements that help us in our work and conduce to the well-being of the boys. The dormitories have been partially painted; bedsteads have been renovated, new springs have been put in, new thoroughly up-to-date toilets have been installed in many of the dormitories. Some of the lavatories have been painted and improved. The dining rooms have been touched up, many fine pictures have been hung on the walls, and an added air of refinement given to the rooms by the use of some fine china-ware. The outside toilets have been enclosed, in all the different departments. Throughout the entire institution efforts are being made to make its rooms, social halls and playgrounds more cheerful, home like and suitable, so as to insure the earnest co-operation of the boys in their own training and improvement. The assembly hall and chapel which have been recently painted and decorated, present a very attractive appearance. To keep the social halls in fine condition requires constant care, owing to the disposition of some of the boys to think lightly of the care of property, and not to give suitable attention to the games provided for their pleasure. Our libraries have been increased by over 1,000 volumes, given mostly by friends. Large numbers of the current magazines are received, and add to our reading material. Through Father Fleming, Chaplain of the Knights of Columbus, we received a large collection of books, a very handsome statue, contributed by the boys of the Naval Reserve, and several articles of church furniture.

We strive to cultivate and direct the reading habit. The lectures under the Board of Education were in the main very good — the best we have had in years. These lectures were supplemented by others on subjects most needed by the boys. Several organizations have given us entertainments, and throughout the entire year there has been a succession of moving pictures, lectures, entertainments, baseball games and athletic meets that have brightened the atmosphere of the institution, infused a happy spirit among the children, and added to the knowledge and training of the boys.

The formation of the Tierney Park, with its gymnastic and play ground apparatus and handball and tennis court, adds another recreation field for our out-of-door amusements. Our athletic field has served not only as a baseball field for our own boys, but also for some of the high schools of the city. Owing to the number of contests among outside teams, the boys have opportunities of seeing other games than those played by themselves.

Our constant change of population has forced us to work strenuously and continually to carry out our scholastic scheme. During the summer months we have a lessened amount of school work in connection with the usual vocational training so as to keep the boys occupied, and at the same time giving them plenty of opportunities for sport. Many of the boys are sadly lacking in their elementary school training. It is imperative to push them ahead as recent legislation contemplates an intelligent electorate. It behooves those having charge of youth to do all they can to prepare their charges for the scholastic demands made on future voters. While our health rate during most of the year as usual was very good, the influenza exacted its sad toll of death. Out of our large population nearly one-third were stricken with this dreadful disease, but owing to the prompt and skilful attention the sick received from both Doctors and Nurses the death rate was low, though many of the cases of those who recovered were of a very serious character.

It gives me great pleasure to thank the clergy of the neighboring parishes for their assiduity in assisting the institution. Owing to the transfer of the two clergymen who had been ministering to the spiritual wants of the Protectory, the institution availed itself of the kindness of the Benedictine Fathers of St. Anselm's Church, Bronx, who have been very faithful in attending to our spiritual needs. We find it difficult to express in a fitting manner our sincere gratitude to the Very Rev. Prior, Father Bernard, for his generous and very opportune assistance. The good Lord will reward him, and his zealous priests, for their sacrifices in our behalf. The value of religion as a moral and upbuilding force is recognized even by those who do not follow its teachings. The Catholic, who realizes the power and spiritual efficacy of the Sacraments, knows full well that youthful lives can be made or preserved clean and wholesome only when Catholicity becomes a vital force, through the frequentation of the Sacraments, supplemented by sound instruction, good example and a mild efficient supervision.

To the many friends who have contributed to our welfare we are extremely grateful. To our whole-souled President, and his generous wife, Mr. and Mrs. Myles Tierney, we owe more than words can express. We pray God to bless them for what they have done for us personally and for the institution. To Dr. Francis J. Quinlan, who has shown such personal interest in the institution in so many ways, we are deeply grateful. Mr. Joseph P. Grace, by his munificent gift of a Dodge automobile, has again manifested the intensely practical interest that he has always had in the welfare of us all.

Mr. William F. Heide and Mr. James Clarke by more than their usual large-hearted generosity, have formed new cords that bind us still more tightly in the bonds of sympathy and fraternal gratitude. To all our other managers who have so splendidly showed their interest in the Protectory we are very thankful. It is always a great pleasure to be associated with gentlemen, whose every moment is valuable and who yet find time to bestow their services so generously upon us and upon the work so dear to their hearts.

Respectfully submitted,

BROTHER CLEOPHAS,

Director.

Epidemic streptococcic Septicemia (so-called "Influenza").	6

The pandemic of so-called "Influenza" which included the Protectory in its onslaught upon humanity constituted the first epidemic of magnitude experienced by this Institution since the occurrence of dysentery in 1896.

In considering the above list of deaths and the responsible agents it will be noted that, aside from the fatality due to accident, the mortality was entirely an outcome of the prevailing world visitation of Septicemia.

Appearing first in October some 280 cases developed. These cases, treated in the light of current medical conception ran a course common in severity and in the percentage of deaths to similar institutions and to the outside community. An attempt was made to combat the spread of the disease by means of specific vaccines, but it was found that the barrier of natural immunity present in the majority of the boys effected a more satisfactory check to the further progress of the infection.

After about six weeks duration, having attacked such boys as were prone to contract the illness and causing three additional deaths, the septicemia came to an end.

There was a virtual freedom from the septicemia in the succeeding five or six weeks, when a recrudescence set in. The boys among whom the second outbreak took place were recently received, and as was the case in the initial onset of the epidemic, represented subjects lacking in the protective antibodies in the blood referred to above as a "barrier of immunity."

The devotion of the Infirmarian, Brother William, and his assistant, Brother Edmund, merits the highest tribute.

The usual examinations of the eyes were made on admission, and at regular intervals; and frequent inspections by physicians of the Board of Health took place, and all ocular defects noted and recorded on cards. When I considered them necessary, glasses were furnished.

Contagious cases were isolated most carefully, and communicable diseases were never allowed to spread.

About twenty percent of the boys had, when admitted, mild forms of conjunctivitis. Most of these were completely cured in quarantine, before being sent to the yards.

Nine boys were received suffering from a mild type of trachoma. We have never had so small a number in any year. I wish to render my most grateful tribute to the untiring and devoted zeal of Reverend Sister Eugenia, Reverend Brother William and Reverend Brother Edmund. And to Reverend Sister Antoninus, Reverend Brother Cleophas, Reverend Brother Henry and their Assistants I offer my sincere thanks for their unvarying kindness and good will.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTRESS OF THE GIRLS' DEPARTMENT

NEW YORK, June 30, 1919.

To the Board of Managers of The New York Catholic Protectory:

GENTLEMEN.—At the beginning of another year in the annals of The New York Catholic Protectory, our predominant sentiment is one of thanksgiving to Divine Providence for the dawn of peace, and also of deepest gratitude for the many special blessings of which we have been the fortunate recipients.

Although we were obliged to practise economy and self-denial during the trying period of the war, through the kindness and forethought of the gentlemen of the Board of Managers, comparatively few sacrifices were demanded of us. Owing to the loyalty and co-operation of the Managers, the institution has been an agent in caring for, educating and training to usefulness and good citizenship, in large numbers, the weak and helpless little ones of Christ. Their keen sense of responsibility, the higher ideals, the singular unselfishness of these kind guardians are admirable.

Many children in institutions start life severely handicapped. Heredity and environment mark them prior to their admission. In this Home, the religious and moral training of the children is provided for so that the character may be formed and the will strengthened before being subjected to the rude blasts of temptation.

The children enjoy exceptional advantages in physical care. There is a system of daily health inspection by which ailments of the children are noted and receive prompt attention. The sanitary accommodations and conveniences provided are incentives to seek in future clean and hygienic surroundings.

In their scholastic work, the children have made notable progress. On June 24, 1919, twenty-eight pupils were graduated, eighteen of whom earned the Regents' Preliminary Certificates, and ten were awarded diplomas for having finished the subjects prescribed for the commercial course. The donors of prizes on that occasion were: Mr. and Mrs. Myles Tierney, Dr. and Mrs. Francis J. Quinlan, Mr. Hugh J. O'Donoghue, the Class of 1918 and Rev. John F. Quinn. A touching and beautiful address was delivered to the graduates by Dr. Francis Quinlan.

During the year, inspections of the institution were made by city and state officials. All the children underwent an inspection regarding their physical condition and were also examined in their studies. The inspectors paid particular attention to the card system of addresses of relatives and approved of the same.

Many of our former pupils have now excellent homes. Through systematic work of the placing-out Bureau, we are in constant touch with these children. They are engaged in many different avocations; some are nurses, others are stenographers and typists holding civil service and government positions, telephone operators, pupils in high schools, etc. Twenty-one of the girls now under supervision attend school; two of them are in public commercial high school, three were graduated in June, 1919. Many have bank books which are kept for them at the institution. These show deposits ranging from $20 to $120. Many others have bank accounts, the pass books of which are not kept at the institution. Twenty of the pupils have Liberty Bonds. The State Inspector found the records of supervision of the Placing-out Bureau complete and satisfactory.

In vocational training, the children are taught plain and fancy sewing. Many hundreds have learned to be self-supporting and later, in their own home circles, have trained and taught their children as they themselves were taught under the sheltering roof of this home of their childhood.

During the year, the classes in domestic science have been very satisfactory. In cooking, twenty-four pupils in two sessions receive an hour's lesson daily. In order that all children of sufficient age may profit by the lessons, the course is arranged to extend over a period of three months. The pupils receive instruction in plain cooking suitable for the three ordinary meals. They are taught how to prepare, to cook and serve a meal.

Lessons in ironing are given to twelve girls daily in two sessions. They are taught to iron articles of plain clothing. This helps toward efficiency in household duties.

There is every opportunity for recreation, the children living largely out of doors. In our recreational park, lawn, boat and rope swings are provided for their summer amusement. Picnics in the fields, outings to places of local interest, are diversions which the children enjoy.

The evening recreation of the older girls is of a varied character. They are at liberty to spend a quiet evening in the Reading Circle, perusing books donated by kind friends or loaned by the New York Public Library. Many books have been procured through the generosity of our Board of Managers. During the recreation period, those who prefer, may have contests in the parlor games provided for them. Some of the girls prefer to spend this time chatting with their companions, while their hands are busy embroidering, tatting or crocheting for their own amusement or benefit. In order to promote the social spirit and create a home atmosphere, the girls are formed into groups, and at regular intervals, assemble for an evening's enjoyment. A victrola, the gift of a former pupil, is brought into requisition and concerts of select and popular music are given frequently. The records provided are the gifts of Mr. George B. Robinson and other friends. At these social gatherings, the instruction given in singing and elocution is brought into play.

From the foregoing report, it may readily be seen that our young charges receive religious together with a good elementary education in the secular branches and are trained in habits of industry in good environment. The example of lives devoted to their spiritual and temporal welfare is an inspiration to them. To be the instruments of Divine Providence in providing and caring for the poor and neglected is, indeed, a noble work which cannot fail to bring blessings on all those engaged therein. "What you have done for the least of these, ye have done it unto Me."

Our grateful appreciation is due to our attending physicians, Doctors R. A. Joyce, J. Droogan, John P. Lynch and A. H. Xiques. To their devotion, skill and efficiency, can be attributed, in great measure, the excellent health of the children.

Again we thank our honored President, Mr. Myles Tierney, and the gentlemen of the Board of Managers for their paternal solicitude, their kind co-operation, their aid and sympathy in every enterprise undertaken for the benefit of the institution.

Daily prayers ascend to Heaven for all our kind benefactors that they may be blessed in time and rewarded in eternity.

Respectfully submitted,

SISTER M. ANTONINUS.

REPORT OF THE ATTENDING DENTAL SURGEON, GIRLS' DEPARTMENT

PORT RICHMOND, N. Y., June 30, 1919.

To the Board of Managers of The New York Catholic Protectory:

GENTLEMEN.—The following is the report of dental services rendered the Girls' Department during the year ending June 30, 1919.

	<hr style="width: 100%; border: 0.5px solid black;"/>

Due to the unusual condition prevailing during the past year, our work shows a slight decrease inasmuch as every precaution was necessary to insure against any outbreak or contagion of the dreadful malady which befell so many children this year.

The condition of most of the mouths of the children upon admission has been such as to render immediate extraction of several permanent teeth an absolute necessity, showing a decided lack of attention regarding teeth previous to these children coming to the New York Catholic Protectory. No doubt the war deprived other institutions of their dentists and for this reason the poor condition was encountered in the mouths of the girls.

It is almost impossible to cure or remedy all defects within a short period and for this reason it has been erroneously thought by some that perhaps this or that girl should have her teeth in better condition, when no doubt she was under my care and in due time would be in first class shape.

It sometimes takes months of treatments before we can accomplish this, for we do not care to subject children to sittings of too long a duration and their work necessarily is prolonged.

Notwithstanding the enormous increase in cost of materials, we have continued to supply to the children the same as in previous years what was necessary, and thanks to the able assistance rendered me by the good sisters we have encountered no complication so common among children due to usual neglect on the part of parents.

As usual the children continue to voluntarily report to me for attention, thereby showing the good services rendered them by the New York Catholic Protectory is appreciated by them.

Respectfully submitted,

A. H. XIQUES, D.D.S.

REPORT OF ST. PHILIP'S HOME FOR INDUSTRIOUS BOYS

NEW YORK, June 30, 1919.

To the Board of Managers of The New York Catholic Protectory:

GENTLEMEN.—It is with pleasure that we submit to you the annual report on St. Philip's Home.

There are at present, forty-nine boys in the Home. All are employed, and are enjoying excellent health.

Since our last annual report, we received sixty-four boys. Nothing is left undone to prepare those who are sent to us to take their places in society and become useful members of the community.

During the winter we secured the services of Mr. Charles McNamara, as athletic instructor; Sergeant James P. Doyle, a member of St. Philip's Society, to put our boys through military drill; Miss Mary Powers and Miss Kathleen Warren, to give singing lessons once a week; and Miss Anna Rotchford to instruct the boys in dancing. All these friends have given their services gratis. Every Sunday evening we have young ladies come to St. Philip's Home to entertain the boys. By these means, we not only instruct our boys and keep them occupied, but they are kept off the streets at night.

On account of the very high cost of living, it has been difficult to find boarding places where the charge for board was in keeping with the boys' income. We succeeded, however, in sending out twenty-five of them.

Owing to so many of our graduate members having followed the call of our country, it was found necessary to discontinue holding meetings of St. Philip's Society. Many of them have now returned and we hope soon to bring them together again.

We are pleased to state that the report of the examiner of The State Board of Charities is most gratifying. The report places our Home in Class 1.

We wish to express our thanks to the members of the committee on St. Philip's Home for the assistance and good advice given the Brothers in charge and the interest they have taken in the boys. We wish to thank Doctors Otto C. Thum and James J. Grady, who have so promptly and cheerfully attended to our boys. To Mr. Charles McNamara, our instructor in athletics, to Mr. James P. Doyle, our military instructor, and to the Misses Powers, Warren and Rotchford, we also wish to express our sincere thanks for their faithful services.

Respectfully submitted,

BROTHER BONITUS,
Director.

REPORT OF PLACING-OUT BUREAU BOYS' DEPARTMENT

NEW YORK, June 30, 1919.

To the Board of Managers of The New York Catholic Protectory:

GENTLEMEN.— We submit our report of the work accomplished by The Placing-Out Bureau for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1919.

The Bureau has been conducted in every respect as in the past five years. The conditions existing during the period of the war have changed our programme from the work of placing boys up to 17 years of age to that of finding homes for children between the ages of 7 and 14 years. We have made every effort to secure suitable homes for such children and have attained considerable success. As in former years, a number of children have had to be transferred during the year. This work has been carried on to meet the requirements of the State Board of Charities and we have also fulfilled every regulation in the matter of the semi-annual visits to all the children under supervision.

Our records indicate that a number of our boys are now approaching manhood after having received the care of the families under the supervision of the Bureau for a period of three to ten years. As representative of the assistance given such boys, the facts in the cases of several of our charges are selected from our records:

Arthur M.— This boy is now approaching his nineteenth birthday and has been under the supervision of the Bureau for the past six years. He has been in the home of one family during this time and his foster-parents, Mr. and Mrs. C., have become deeply attached to him, always reporting to the Agent that his conduct was all that could be desired. A brother of Mrs. C. who is now engaged in the garage business in East Orange, N. J., has taken Arthur into his employ at wages of $25.00 per week. The boy is very trustworthy; stated that he would keep closely in touch with the family who have done so much for him and will not forget the help they have given him to make a start in the world. This boy had been in another Institution before coming under care of the Protectory. His parents are dead and no inquiry has been received from any relatives since he was placed in 1913.

Joseph C.— Joseph has been under the care of the Bureau since March, 1917, and has been in four homes during this time. His conduct has shown constant improvement until it was finally decided to give him an opportunity at employment in the city. His sister was married two years ago, has established a home and has applied for the boy's discharge to her, the application has been approved and the boy will be permitted to go to live with his sister next month. Joseph had been in another institution, before his commitment to the Protectory, for about ten years. He is eighteen years old, states that he now appreciates the efforts that have been made in his behalf and will make his best attempt to progress well in the home of his sister and brother-in-law, reporting to the office of the Bureau from time to time.

Joseph K.— This young man will be twenty years old in October next and has been under the supervision of the Placing-Out Committee for the past three years. He came to the Protectory in 1912. He has now left the family who have cared for him since 1917 and has gone to live with his sister in Springfield, Mass. While the boy has been in two homes, his conduct has always been excellent, the only reason for his transfer being that he believed he could earn better wages than he was receiving at the time. It has been reported to the Bureau that the boy will be employed at Cleveland, Ohio, as helper in a steel mill at wages of $4.00 per day. Joseph has grown big and strong, is evidently anxious to do well and it is hoped that he will make an excellent reputation for himself in his new surroundings.

Arthur H.— Mr. and Mrs. W. have been the best of foster-parents to this young man since November, 1911. He is now over twenty years of age and has left his farm home and gone to Utica, N. Y., to learn the carpenter trade. Rev.

Father J., who was consulted regarding the boy's progress, says he has known him well for many years and has always regarded him as a good, Catholic young man. Arthur remains in touch with the family who have been so kind to him, bringing him through a serious illness and giving him all the advantages at their command. The Placing-Out Committee have given consent to the boy's plan to make a start in Utica at wages of $3 per day and has been instructed that he may return to the W. family whenever he wishes to do so.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR OF THE LINCOLN AGRICULTURAL SCHOOL, LINCOLNDALE, N. Y.

LINCOLNDALE, N. Y., June 30, 1919.

*To the President and Gentlemen of the Board of Managers of
The New York Catholic Protectory:*

GENTLEMEN.—I have the honor to submit my fifth annual report of the Lincoln Agricultural School, Lincolndale, N. Y., for the fiscal year just ended, June 30, 1919.

The work of all institutions each year, as a rule, is nothing but a repetition of other years, but I hope and trust that the coming year will be no repetition of the past year. We lived happily in Lincolndale until the influenza struck us, and that visitation will be remembered by all who were here at the time. One hundred and eighty of our little ones were stricken, five were taken away from us through death, and one of our Brothers who worked hard among our afflicted ones, contracted the disease and within three days was called to his reward. My sincere thanks are extended to Dr. Edward Burke, who came all the way from Providence, R. I., and acted as nurse for one week; also to Rev. Brothers Andrew, Aloysius, and Thomas, who came from Newburgh, N. Y., and remained here two weeks to care for the sick and the dying. Frank Earle died October 20, 1918; James Reilly and William Healy died October 27, 1918; Brother Clementian John died October 28, 1918; John McNulty died November 4, 1918; and James Kane died November 14, 1918. During this most trying time all our laundry boys and all our dairy boys were sick. How we ever managed in these two places I do not know and cannot explain.

The ice crop at Lincolndale this year was almost a complete failure. We succeeded in harvesting some from Lake Amawalk, but this lasted with economy only two months. The pond from which we usually cut our ice had not seven inches at any time during the winter. We did try to cut some when it was five and one-half inches, but we had to stop as a thaw set in and killed our chances. We got about thirty tons off the pond but it was of poor quality.

Then, to put the climax on the winding up of the year, our horse barn was burned to the ground May 27, 1919. However, we have everything to be grateful for to Almighty God, for worse things could have happened.

Lectures were given every week during the year on various topics for the benefit of the boys. The following is a list of the lectures given:

Lectures Presented to the Boys of the Lincolndale Agricultural School at the Lincoln Hall, as a Part of the Night School Course, 1918-1919

September, 1918, Service-flag Raising. Six speakers.

October, 1918, Liberty Loan, etc., by military officers.

January 8, 1919, Soils: Sand, Clay and Loam. Brother Oliver.

January 14, 1919, Ben. Franklin, with slides. Brother Joseph.

January 21, 1919, The Bermudas, with slides. Bro. Oliver.

January 25, 1919, The Red Cross Night. Four speakers.

January 28, 1919, Northern France, with slides. Brother Oliver.

February 4, 1919, Military Training in N. Y. State, with slides. Brother Joseph.

February 10, 1919, Abraham Lincoln, with slides. Brother Oliver.

February 12, 1919, Lincoln's Day. Many speakers.

February 18, 1919, Washington City, with slides. Brother Oliver.

February 22, 1919, George Washington, with slides. Brother Bonaventure.

February 25, 1919, Panama Canal Zone, with slides. Brother Oliver.

February 28, 1919, Farming problems. By Mr. Curtis and Mr. Nicholas.

March 4, 1919, Connecticut Valley and White Mountain, with slides. Brother Joseph.

March 11, 1919, The American Navy, with slides. Brother Oliver.

March 19, 1919, The Yellowstone National Park, with slides. Brother Joseph.

March 24, 1919, Road Building in the War Zone. By Captain Fraser, U. S. A.

March 26, 1919, The Religions of India, with slides. Brother Oliver.

March 28, 1919, Alaska, with slides. Brother Bonaventure.

April 3, 1919, Birds of Orchards and Gardens, with slides. Brother Joseph.

April 9, 1919, South America, with slides. Brother Oliver.

April 16, 1919, Schools and Home Gardens, with slides. Brother Joseph.

April 25, 1919, The Mississippi Valley, with slides. Brother Bonaventure.

Total, 27 lectures.

I wish to extend my sincere and grateful thanks to the following members of our Board who helped us out in different ways: Mr. William Heide for his present of $120 and a trip to the Hippodrome to be given to the most worthy boys of the Pine Cottage. To Mr. Joseph Grace for his gifts of one hundred dollars to help the boys feel happy during the Christmas festivities. Dr. Francis Quinlan and Mrs. Quinlan for their donations of books, pictures, candy, prizes for Lincoln Day, etc., to the boys of the different cottages. Also to Mr. Edmund Curr, Mr. John Fallahee, Mr. John Pulleyn, Mr. Wm. Hurst, who donated prizes for the boys on Lincoln's birthday. To the Brothers and boys of Lincolndale I am deeply grateful for the great work they did during the past year.

We put new drains in the boiler room, which necessitated the drilling of rock, the straightening out and the covering in of same. These drains take away the dampness which heretofore had been prevalent in the engine room.

The steam headers on top of the boilers were tightened and we took in leaks on same.

We communicated with the Brunswick Refrigerating Co., New Brunswick, N. J., who sent us an engineer to overhaul our ammonia system. This system has inconvenienced us greatly, due to great care requisite in operating the ammonia engine.

There were extensive repairs at Lincolndale during the year. The engine room force gave their plant a general overhauling, which is done about every two months. They cleaned out the engines, reducing the brasses on same. Tightened counter balance crank. Cleaned the generators. They gave the boiler feed pump a general going over. Tightening the bushings, grinding the valve gears and putting on new springs.

They repaired the meat grinding motor. Testing the armature and field and putting the motor in first class condition. The laundry also got an overhauling, the motor on the mangle being cleaned and the belts repaired and replaced. The sewage system was inspected and found in perfect condition.

Mr. Colgan, the carpenter, with his assistants, repaired over seventy-five chairs belonging to the dining rooms, reseating them and replacing any broken legs or frames.

He also repaired the doors and locks where needed in the different cottages. As we have had an extraordinary mild winter with no high winds, there was little glass to be put in.

In the blacksmith shop Mr. Colgan shod over fifteen horses, complete. He also calked their shoes a number of times during the winter season. Wagons were overhauled. Tailboards, floors, sides, whiffletrees and wheels were put on where needed. Two wagons were painted.

The plumber had a busy year repairing leaks in pipes, and radiators and keeping the toilets in good conditions. The plumber does all the repairing of tin ware, pots, pans, milk pails, milk cans, etc., which is quite a saving; as he can turn out a milk pail, or can, formerly consigned to the junk heap into a good serviceable can, worth seven dollars.

The Sacrament of Confirmation was administered to a number of boys on May the second by His Grace, Most Rev. Patrick J. Hayes.

A Mission by the Rev. Father Branton was given to the boys just before Christmas to prepare them for that great festival of the Church.

Holy Communion is received on the second Sunday of the month in honor of the Holy Name. On the first Friday in honor of the Sacred Heart; on the 25th of each month in honor of the Holy Infancy.

STATE OF NEW YORK

ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

Schools in Institutions for the Deaf

For the School Year 1918-1919

ALBANY
THE UNIVERSITY OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK
1920

ALBANY, April 24, 1920

TO THE HON. THADDEUS C. SWEET, Speaker of the Assembly:

SIR.—Pursuant to law, the annual report of the Institutions for the Deaf is herewith submitted to the Legislature.

Very respectfully yours,

JOHN H. FINLEY,

President of the University and Commissioner of Education

ANNUAL REPORT

NAMES AND LOCATIONS OF THE INSTITUTIONS

1. New York Institution for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb, 99 Fort Washington avenue, New York City.
2. Institution for the Improved Instruction of Deaf Mutes, 904 Lexington avenue, New York City.
3. St. Joseph's Institute for the Improved Instruction of Deaf Mutes, Westchester, New York City.
4. Albany Home School for Oral Instruction of the Deaf, 98 North Pine avenue, Albany.
5. Central New York Institution for Deaf Mutes, Rome.
6. Western New York Institution for Deaf Mutes, 1545 St. Paul street, Rochester.
7. LeCouteulx St. Mary's Institute for the Improved Instruction of Deaf Mutes, 2253 Main street, Buffalo.
8. The Northern New York Institution for Deaf Mutes, Malone.

PRIVATE CORPORATIONS

These institutions for the deaf are legally private corporations, managed and controlled by boards of trustees. They are maintained in part by per capita appropriations of the Legislature and thus come under the supervision of the State Education Department. The term semi-public, perhaps, applies as well as any to the relation of these institutions to education. Their tendency is to rely more and more on the State for financial support.

DUTIES OF THE COMMISSIONER OF EDUCATION

The duties of the Commissioner of Education in regard to these institutions are thus defined by law.

1. To inquire into the organization of the several schools and the method of instruction employed therein.

2. To prescribe courses of study and methods of instruction that will meet the requirements of the State for the education of deaf pupils.

3. To make appointments of pupils to the several schools; to transfer such pupils from one school to another as circumstances may require; to cancel appointments for sufficient reasons.

4. To ascertain by comparison with other similar institutions whether any improvements in instruction and discipline can be made; and for that purpose to appoint from time to time suitable persons to visit the schools.

5. To suggest to the directors of such institutions and to the Legislature such improvements as he shall judge expedient.

6. To make an annual report to the Legislature on all matters before enumerated and particularly as to the condition of the schools, the improvement of the pupils and their treatment in respect to board and lodging.

REPORTS

The Department inspector visits the schools each year, often several times, and reports upon them. The principals have submitted written reports for the school year 1918-19. The statistics have been tabulated and are included in this report.

EXTRACTS FROM REPORTS OF SCHOOL OFFICIALS

WASHINGTON HEIGHTS

The Institution was incorporated April 15, 1817. It began its work in May, 1818, and has continued it without interruption up to the present time. There are no radical changes to report. Our system of instruction remains what it has been, an eclectic system, designed to afford each pupil the benefit of all methods of instruction, oral or visual, which he is mentally capable of utilizing; supplemented by manual training in the trade schools in printing, carpentry, painting, etc., together with physical exercises of various kinds. In addition to this mental, physical and moral training, the directors decided some years ago that it would aid in inculcating habits of neatness and economy if the girls were dressed in a uniform costume of simple and appropriate design and the boys in a military uniform. It was also believed that military drill could be introduced to advantage by organizing the boys into a battalion of three companies and giving them instruction in infantry drill. It was expected that this would improve their physique, increase their quickness of observation and add to the habit of discipline and subordination which are essential in any proper system of education of youth. These expectations have been fully realized and the system of military drill first used at this Institution more than twenty years ago has been maintained with constant popularity and success, especially since the organization among the students of their own military band. In short, the instruction is designed to give such mental training as the individual is capable of receiving, such manual training as will aid him in gaining a livelihood, and such discipline, neatness, upright bearing and physique as can be acquired only by military drill, uniform clothing and physical culture.

The strictest economy has been enforced in every department. But, notwithstanding every effort on the part of the directors and the officers of the Institution, it has not been possible to keep our expenses within the amounts paid by the State and the counties. The directors, therefore, have no alternative but to appeal to the Legislature for relief. We fully recognize the generous support which the Institution has received from the Legislature and in the confident belief that this policy will not be changed we ask that the per capita allowance be so increased as to allow us to maintain our present standards and to meet existing conditions without depleting our capital.

The Institution is entirely free from sectarian bias. Its pupils represent many varieties of the Christian faith and also many of the Hebrew belief. But it has not failed to include morality in its educational scheme and to inculcate belief in God as the fundamental principle of life. Its teachers and pupils are free to worship God in their own houses of worship or to attend the religious services conducted within the Institution every Sunday. On the board of directors there are and always have been more than one minister of the gospel and, following an immemorial custom in these annual reports, we desire to make acknowledgment of the infinite blessings which Almighty God has bestowed upon this Institution during its long and beneficent history and to pray that he may so guide our thoughts and acts that we may do that which is best for these children who have been committed to our care and that we may bring into their lives, partially crippled by lack of hearing and speech, that love of cheerful and willing work which is the fruitful source of wholesome content and happiness.

We also desire again to express our thanks for the fostering care of the Legislature for the Institution and to ask its thoughtful consideration of its existing needs.

Deaf children who are merely backward in mental development are encouraged and benefited by association with those of superior mental attainments. The association of sub-normal or feeble-minded deaf children with those of normal mentality for purposes of instruction usually tends to retard the development of the weaker intellect. It would appear, therefore, that the sub-normal deaf should be taught in schools where proper provision may be made for their special needs. It would appear also that facilities for industrial training adequate to the requirements of present conditions are not now being provided. The great outstanding fact is that the equipment of these schools must be increased and centralized in order to be of any appreciable value as a means of instruction. It should be borne in mind also that the sort of industrial training required for the deaf aims not merely at mechanical expertness but is regarded as an integral part of our general scheme of education and should be so presented that deaf children may become as familiar and as skillful with the language of any trade as they are with the mechanism and the materials upon which they operate. Boarding schools must, therefore, continue to be the chief agencies through which certain very necessary practices in the work of instructing deaf children are carried on. During the earlier years of instruction, a portion of the work now being done in boarding schools might, perhaps, in certain sections, be acceptably done in day schools, or in day classes, reasonably near to the child's home, but the results of experiments in widely different parts of the country make it apparent that day schools which undertake to cover the entire period of instruction, attempt to do an impossible thing in an impossible way, and so become a real menace to the future welfare of the child.

Surveying the general features of our work from the viewpoint of both state-wide and community interest, it becomes increasingly apparent that a more comprehensive plan of organization than we now have is needed in order to provide an adequate general education for all the deaf children under the complex conditions of our day. Under the system now in use, it seems improbable that the whole ground may ever be covered in a way that will satisfy those who are actively engaged in doing the work or the authorities upon whom the responsibilities of its supervision and regulation now rests. It would appear that the time has now arrived when concerted effort should be made to forecast the needs of the future and to avail ourselves of the possibilities for advancement that seem to be open before us and invite us to a reconsideration of the fundamentals which underlie our plan of procedure.

Whatever view one may take in regard to the means of bettering our present system of educating the deaf children of the State, it seems certain that the first step must be the taking over of the whole problem of supervision and regulation by the State education authorities. The State now apparently disregards the educational interests of all her deaf children until they have reached the age of twelve years. Previously to that age, their interests are placed entirely in the care of county poor officers, and the overseers of the poor in the different counties still continue to authorize all appointments for children under the age of twelve years who apply for admission to our school. Overseers of the poor are not primarily concerned with educational matters. The interests of the State in deaf children of good mental ability and social standing are entirely foreign to their other official duties and are a burden to them. These officials work exclusively under the poor laws which are often in direct conflict with the educational policies of the State. Their policies change with the frequently recurring changes of the individual holding office and are more or less subject to the deviating current of political expediency. The welfare of the child and the public interests both continue to suffer through such an arrangement. The State is a much more stable authority and its policies reflect a broader outlook and a deeper and more lasting concern for the interests at stake. The adoption of a sound and comprehensive State educational policy for these schools would inspire a new confidence in the workers engaged in this field of instruction and would, in my opinion, constitute the initial step towards a future of much greater usefulness than is promised in the present outlook.

LEXINGTON AVENUE

Realizing the importance of equipping our pupils for the practical affairs of life, increased efforts have been made to better and enlarge our industrial department.

Printing has been added to the industrial work.

A field worker has been employed. Her duties are to investigate the home conditions of children to ascertain how the parents and children may be brought into closer relationship, to follow up former pupils in regard to their financial and social activities, to give advice to parents of deaf children too young to enter school and to follow up absentees.

A moving picture machine with a full modern equipment has been installed.

The pupils have been roughly classified as, (1) practically totally deaf, (2) able to hear vowels, (3) able to hear words. Those who can hear vowels or words are placed in small classes and given auricular instruction, the teacher using electrical or other instruments as best adapted to the needs of the various pupils. Some, who at the beginning could not distinguish vowels, have been able within a few months to understand whole sentences through the ear. The general improvement in the hearing of so many pupils and the corresponding improvement in their voices have amply justified the continuance of auricular instruction.

All the pupils for a number of years have received systematic instruction in rhythm in connection with the piano or other musical instruments. This work has produced results beyond the expectations of everybody. The pupils have learned to control the pitch of their voices much better, to give their voice more resonance and to give their speech more flexibility, to overcome to a large degree the monotonous quality of the deaf voice.

During the year the teachers have studied the Muller-Walle method of lip reading under Miss Mary Dugane. Many are attending lectures of an educational nature and pursuing courses of reading that bear on their work as teachers. General teachers' meetings are held whenever there is anything of interest or importance to be announced or discussed, while group meetings of teachers of similar grades or activities are held at frequent intervals. A week rarely passes without one or more of these meetings.

The institution pursues the policy of providing religious instruction for the pupils in accordance with the faith of their fathers. Out of school hours Jews, Protestants and Catholics receive religious instruction from members of their various faiths. Teachers and household officers co-operate in teaching good morals and manners.

The progress of pupils in sign painting has met the expectations of all and the wisdom of adding this industry is likely to be fully demonstrated. The class in carpentry is making material progress. The older pupils can draw their own plans and make blue prints. The cooking schoolroom is well equipped. Each pupil has a gas stove and they cook dinners for themselves.

There are six classes in physical training and each class meets twice a week.

ST. JOSEPH'S

Printing seems to be the occupation most in favor with the boys. Its educational advantages are so great that, if only one industry could be provided in our estimation, printing should be the one chosen. It is said to rank fifth, among American industries, and thousands of persons are employed in its various branches. Even in other industries there is an increasing demand for young men who have a practical knowledge of the fundamentals of printing.

Carpentry, tailoring, shoemaking and repairing offer additional opportunities to boys who may prefer one of these trades.

The girls are given a full course in domestic science, plain and fancy needlework, dressmaking and the many useful accomplishments that go toward the making of a good home.

No changes have been made in our methods. Speech is the medium of instruction in nearly all the classes. Writing is used pretty much as in schools for the hearing, only to a greater extent. It is an invaluable help in impressing more deeply on the pupil's mind the information already obtained through lip-reading. Signs are not used in the classrooms, but they are not prohibited in the shops or on the playgrounds, though the children are encouraged to use the speech they have acquired, especially with hearing persons. Many parents report gratifying progress in this respect.

We are becoming more and more convinced of the value of musical vibration in teaching speech to the deaf. Through it a better quality of voice is secured and the children gradually come to speak more naturally. But rhythm work would be simply a pleasant pastime were it not preceded by systematic exercises in sounds, syllables and words. Little dances and action songs add zest to the lessons and cause the children to look forward with eager delight to the quarter hour in the rhythm room.

Realizing that the English language is the basis of education for the deaf as for the hearing, we place it first on the list of studies. Instruction in ordinary school subjects is not attempted until the pupil has sufficient language to understand a simple text-book. A graded course in reading has been prepared and is very helpful. The libraries of the three schools are well stocked with attractive books and there is a liberal supply of the best magazines for young people. Thus encouraged, most of our pupils acquire a taste for good reading.

We have long felt the need of modern playground equipment for the boys. There is no lack of space for outdoor activities; our young athletes continue to make a good showing on the gridiron and the diamond, but something more is needed to provide a means of healthful and enjoyable exercise for boys who do not take part in those strenuous games. To obtain the funds necessary for making a start, the boys gave an entertainment and with the proceeds, augmented by donations from a few kind friends, a part of the apparatus has been purchased. It will be installed as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

The girls' playgrounds are already equipped with summer houses, swings and suspended rings.

The increase in the per capita allowance granted by the last Legislature has enabled us to raise the salaries of our teachers and thus retain their services. They are an experienced and devoted body of workers and could not easily be replaced; but with prices still soaring, it is not hard to foresee that another raise will soon be necessary, if we would keep these teachers in the schools.

ALBANY HOME

This school is geographically well located and there is no reason other than lack of room why it should not enroll a hundred pupils.

The older children go to public school for industrial training by an arrangement with the city superintendent. They enter the classes of hearing children. The girls are taught cooking and sewing and the boys cabinet and tin work. The teachers speak very highly of their aptitude and progress. The younger children are taught sewing one afternoon each week.

ROME

In the primary department there are seven classes under the supervision of a teacher who devotes part of her time to outlining and directing the work of this department. By placing the backward pupils in special classes where they can receive individual instruction the classification has been greatly improved. The mentality of the beginning class at the present time is above the average, due largely to the possibility of elimination.

The grading of the upper classes has also been materially improved and the work of this department is advancing in a very satisfactory manner. An expenditure of a few hundred dollars for the better classroom equipment, such as stereopticons, maps, globes, books and pictures would give the teachers the tools most essential to the best results.

The difficulty of teaching children to read the lips and to articulate makes the work arduous and requires teachers scientifically trained. The demand for better trained teachers keeps the supply so completely exhausted that it is causing the schools very grave concern. This State would do well to make provisions for the training of its own teachers for the great number of special schools to which it so generously gives material support.

To maintain a standard of efficiency in keeping with that of the better class of schools we shall have to raise the maximum salary to a standard commensurate with the skill required in the work demanded.

The uneducated deaf child is, so to speak, a foreigner in a foreign land, and it is only by the instrumentality of language that the world which surrounds him can be revealed. Without this knowledge of language he must inevitably remain in a realm of profound mental and moral darkness. Language, and language alone, is the only bridge that can effectually span the wide gulf that separates the uneducated deaf child from the world of hearing and speaking people. This being so, the concentrated efforts of all teachers of the deaf, whether they employ the pure oral, the manual or the combined method of teaching, are employed to place the deaf child in possession of such a command of language as will enable him to express himself intelligibly and intelligently and to comprehend the language of hearing people.

We not only give to our pupils the fundamental rudiments of a literary course, but teach each child some practical branch of manual work so that he may rely upon it as a source of remuneration after his school days are over. The fact that the child does not follow the trade learned at school does not minimize the importance of learning to do some particular thing well.

The younger boys are taught rug weaving, basketry, plasticine modeling and drawing. From this department they are later transferred to the trades department where they are taught practical printing, barbering, and wood working, which includes the use of ordinary tools, lathe work, chair caning and cabinet making.

The younger girls are taught the rudiments of stitching which lays the foundation for dressmaking and plain sewing. This department is in charge of a competent teacher and the enthusiastic spirit with which the girls enter upon their daily tasks is indicative of the splendid work being done in this department. A limited number of girls are taught ironing.

In addition to the above the older girls are given lessons in plain cooking. Their lessons consist in making out and preparing a simple menu and as the "proof of the pudding is the eating" these classes are taught to serve the meal at the close of the lesson, which gives excellent opportunity for instilling proper table manners as well as the care of the table and dishes. The importance of thus training the girls for practical housekeeping is frequently emphasized by the letters received by our matron, who has charge of this department, in which our former pupils, who have become their own housekeepers, tell how they are following the simple recipes and economic suggestions in their own home.

ROCHESTER

Before a graduation certificate is given the pupil is required to pass the regents' examinations in preliminary subjects and he must also have completed some elective high school work.

The low cost per pupil is due to having had large stores of household supplies purchased in previous years, which are now exhausted; and to the fact that as little outlay as possible has been made on buildings, a new plant in the near future seeming to be a necessity.

ST. MARY'S

For the past five years we have followed a revised course of study through the first eight grades. This was arranged so as to be carried along in connection with the course in speech and speech reading which was begun at that time. It begins with a preparatory year in which the Montessori ideas are used. The work covers a practical course in language, geography, arithmetic, United States history, hygiene and civics. The graduates of 1918-19 had regents' preliminary certificates.

TYPES OF SCHOOLS

There are three types of schools in institutions for the deaf, differentiated by the relative emphasis put upon teaching speech reading and speech and upon the use made of them as means of communication. The first type includes schools that make speech reading and speech the primary means of communication. They are commonly known as pure oral schools. The second type gives precedence to finger spelling and gives speech a secondary place in the classrooms. The third class employs signs in addition to speech and finger spelling. The various schools are thus known as oral, manual spelling and combined. The combined type predominates in institutions of this State.

Each type has its advocates. While it is generally conceded that speech reading and speech is best for the pupils, it is maintained by some that many pupils cannot master this means of communication and that mental development is retarded by the exclusive use of it. Finger spelling is defended on the ground that it is accurate as a language and helpful in the promotion of general knowledge. The oralists rest their case on the relatively great importance of a normal means of communication and insist that in the long run, there is no loss of time in acquiring knowledge or promoting mental development. The sign language is easiest for the pupils and is considered the best means of communication in large gatherings.

The use of these various means of communication in the classroom is very confusing and does not seem to lead to the mastery of any of them. It seems desirable that the three types of schools should be clearly differentiated and the general public informed regarding them so that parents may know the nature of each and choose the one that suits them best. This would in the end lead to the survival of the fittest.

SCHOOLS NOT ASYLUMS

Institutions for the deaf originated as charities. Education seemed to be regarded as a matter of secondary importance. Children were committed to institutions by the poor officers. Up to the age of twelve, they are still admitted as town, city or county charges. When the State took the matter up it fixed the age for entering school as a State pupil at twelve years, where it still remains. It may have been thought when the law was passed that twelve was young enough for a deaf child to enter school. It is now generally recognized that children should enter school at six and that institutions for the deaf are properly schools, not asylums. It is claimed that deaf children have a right to an education at public cost and, inasmuch as it has seemed necessary to send them to a boarding school, that board as well as instruction should be provided. Clothing, when parents cannot furnish it, must still be regarded as a public charity. It seems hardly wise, however, or just to subject deaf children to the humiliation of being regarded as objects of charity, in the matter of education. If all the children of all the people are to receive an education at public cost, there seems to be no good reason why deaf children should be an exception.

THE CHILDREN

The pupils in institutions for the deaf include children of five years of age and also mature youth. A large percentage of them are normal except for deafness but some are below normal, mentally and physically. Some are totally deaf, others have some hearing, while a small percentage have perfect hearing but are defective in other respects. It is not possible to educate all classes of children in a proper way together in one school. Applicants for admission should be assigned to schools best fitted for their needs. The feeble-minded deaf should not be sent to schools for normal children.

THE CURRICULUM

It is evident that a course of study for the deaf should contain the educational material best fitted to meet their particular needs. It should be good enough to merit adoption by all the schools, in other words be uniform. Such a course should be based on study and experience and worked out with the utmost care. In the wide range of human knowledge, thought and emotion some things are worth much more than others as mental and spiritual food. Deaf children, least of all, can afford to use time and energy on relatively less valuable material. The selection of subject matter should have as much attention as the presentation of it. The curriculum of a school should plainly state what is required and no more. It should not be a mere catalogue exhibit for show only. It should not be an imitation of the regulation course for hearing children. Such a curriculum of study as the proper and systematic education of the deaf demands is not in common use. Here and there a school has worked the problem out with a fair degree of success but there is no common standard representing the best that has been attained.

Twelve years is about the average time a deaf child is in school. The kind and quantity of educational material having been determined, it may be divided into twelve parts, each part representing the minimum amount of work for a year. The work for the deaf should be differentiated from that of the hearing child and proper allowance should be made for slower development. It is folly to claim that the deaf child advances pari passu with hearing children. It cannot be truthfully said that a course of study for the deaf should be identical, year by year, with that of hearing children. The best that can be said is that in a longer time it can be made equivalent. It is suggested that classes for the deaf in the elementary course of twelve years have a distinct nomenclature. Let the first four classes be designated as A B C D and the following eight as 1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8. This nomenclature recognizes the slower development of the deaf and indicates that, after the first four years, the work of the deaf becomes more nearly like that of the hearing and reaches an equivalent result at the end of the twelfth year.

The general acceptance of some such distinctive classification would be an important step ahead in the education of the deaf. Nothing is gained by pretending something that is not so. The proposed arrangement, which is now in operation in some of the New York schools, would give a substantial basis of comparison of the work of the various schools of the State and of the country. The D class in one school could be fairly compared with a D class in any other school. A standardized curriculum, with a uniform and distinctive nomenclature of classes, would help to check the aimless drift that an observer sees in many schools. It would focus effort on the method of procedure in teaching to get the best results in the shortest time.

The intent of this plan is not to destroy initiative, as some profess to think, but to give it more effective play; not to adjust a machine but to enable a human organism to function more fully. The too common criticism of a reasonably rigid curriculum is that it prevents the soaring of teaching genius. This criticism is often an effort to cover or excuse failure to secure tangible results in the classroom. The best teachers need some landmarks to guide them through the fascinating and bewildering forest of knowledge, thought and emotion. There is opportunity enough to follow pleasant bypaths without losing the main road to the destination.

TEACHERS

But a small percentage of the teachers in institutions for the deaf are college graduates. Most of them have had high school or normal school training, supplemented by some special professional instruction in schools for the deaf. A college course or its equivalent is none too much scholastic preparation for teaching the deaf. Children deprived of one of the most important senses should not be farther handicapped by the bungling efforts of incompetent teachers. There is no more technical and difficult task than teaching speech reading and speech to the deaf. It is no work for a novice in the art; even the best fall short of what is desirable and seems attainable. Some of the teachers have made up in part for the lack of adequate preparation by hard work and long experience. Many are anxious to improve. Help in the way of special instruction and guidance might be profitably extended to this class. The qualifications of teachers hereafter appointed should be materially advanced.

METHODS OF INSTRUCTION

Methods of teaching the deaf are commonly referred to as oral, manual or combined. These terms, however, seem to more properly apply to the means of communication rather than to the method of teaching given subjects. The means of communication seems to be itself a subject to be taught by some method, good or bad. Speech reading and speech are in fact the most important branches taught in schools and the most difficult to teach effectively. Finding and applying the best method that science and human ingenuity can devise for giving deaf children the normal and usual means of communication with parents and associates is the great task of teachers of the deaf.

At present but a small percentage of pupils who pass through the schools acquire facility in speech. One of the chief reasons for the meager results of speech teaching undoubtedly is the limited use made by the pupils of the ability gained day by day in speech classes. Principal Frank W. Booth of the Nebraska school very truthfully says: "We learn the language we depend upon and there is no other way. A language is learned by using it to the exclusion of all others." The effort to teach speech and use finger spelling and signs in recitation seems futile.

Individual instruction predominates in teaching the deaf. The classes are therefore necessarily small and seem to be growing smaller. The average number in a class in the United States is less than eight; in the schools of New York it is between ten and twelve. It seems possible to do more mass teaching than is being done in many schools.

TRAINING SCHOOLS FOR TEACHERS

There is no special training school for teachers of the deaf in this State. Some schools train their own teachers to a limited extent but the main reliance is upon outside sources of supply. It seems desirable that there should be some means within the State of fitting teachers for their work, especially in view of the fact that New York has more schools and needs more teachers than any other. The need might be met by maintaining a training class in one of the existing normal schools. It might possibly be better met by maintaining a training class in one of the institutions for the deaf which would afford the advantage of actual teaching to observe and practice. A substitute for these means of meeting the demand for teachers and one that might be put into operation very quickly would be a peripatetic teacher to go about among the schools and instruct the teachers by precept and example. In some respects this would be the best way to solve the problem and it is at least an experiment worth trying.

MANUAL TRAINING

The tendency seems to be to lessen the number of manual occupations of pupils in schools for the deaf. It does not seem feasible to provide vocational training of all kinds for which there may be some demand. The schools cannot provide equipment and teachers for them. Moreover, it seems better to concentrate on a few manual occupations and do better work in them. The rather common practice of having the pupils work for a purpose by doing what needs to be done about the buildings and grounds seems to be a good one. Wood work of various kinds, sign painting, printing and plain sewing are generally accepted as the best forms of vocational and trade instruction for the deaf. However, what is best in one locality is not always as profitable in others.

HEALTH AND PHYSICAL TRAINING

The health of deaf school children is better looked after than ever before. Medical attendance is promptly provided when needed. The New York Institution for the Deaf and Dumb has the throats of pupils examined twice every day. The teeth of children are cared for and hospital accommodations are provided.

Physical training has received a new impulse during the past year. The State requirements are fully met in many cases and more than met in some instances. The New York institution has won many prizes in competition with hearing organizations in military drill.

The physical needs of the children seem to be well looked after in all the schools. The pupils are well fed and clothed. The dormitory capacity is adequate. Protection against fire is all that could be asked. The State Board of Charities evidently looks after these matters with commendable thoroughness. It is not desirable from the educational point of view that extravagance should be manifested in the case of children.

RELIGIOUS INSTRUCTION

All the institutions provide for the moral and religious instruction of pupils. Various faiths are represented in the schools and parents can select for themselves. Pupils of every faith are free to attend such church services as they or their parents desire. Religious exercises are conducted in most of the schools and Sunday schools are maintained.

RECOMMENDATIONS

1. That the age of admission into institutes for the deaf be changed from twelve to six years.
2. That the school attendance law be made to apply to the deaf.
3. That some provision be made for preparing teachers for the technical instruction of pupils in speech reading and speech.

ANNUAL REPORT

HUDSON, N. Y., July 1, 1919

To the Legislature of the State of New York:

The board of managers of the New York State Training School for Girls, as required by law, respectfully submit the following report for the year ending June 30, 1919.

During the past year there has been one change in the membership of the board. At all meetings a quorum has been present. The managers have also visited the School at other times. Every meeting of the board has been held at the School.

For the information of those persons interested in the School, the statutes under which the School has been developed are appended to this report. The School exists for the training of destitute, neglected, or delinquent girls who have been committed by the courts, when between the ages of twelve and sixteen years, and placed under the guardianship of the board of managers until their twenty-first birthdays. The State pays every expense incurred for these girls while at the School and pays for travelling expenses to and from the School, for necessary medical care and for parole supervision when girls are away from the School on parole.

The School property, of one hundred seventy acres of wooded ravines and plateaus, is situated thirty miles south of Albany on the east bank of the Hudson river opposite the Catskills, is partly in the city of Hudson and extends from the Bay road near the river east to the New York Post road. The pupils and officers of the School have reason to be grateful to those who selected so beautiful a location. Every room in the School has a pleasing outlook.

The principal buildings are arrayed in orderly fashion about a large campus, with the book school-house as the central attraction. This fine school building is very satisfactory, in fact as up to the needs as the industrial school building is behind the needs of the institution. The large hospital and small contagious hospital are both pleasant, substantial buildings, well equipped and convenient. The chapel-gymnasium and the Administration Building, which was opened in 1887, complete the list of large structures. The cottages, built of brick in plain Dutch style, numbering fourteen and each named for some one of historical interest, are complete homes for families of girls. Every person at the School has her own room. There are no roommates. Each cottage has accommodations for twenty-two to thirty-four girls and three to five officers. They are lighted, heated and furnished with hot water from the School's power plant. Fresh vegetables in summer and winter and most of the canned and dried vegetables come from the School's gardens.

The School has rooms for three hundred and sixty-six pupils. We should like to have capacity for five hundred at the most, with enough provision for good officers so that in general no pupil would remain longer than two and one-half years at the school.

The good results of the probation system of the State, the increase in preventive work by communities, churches and organizations of various kinds, are nowhere more evident than in an institution where only those whom the world has neither understood nor provided for are received. The school is receiving an increasingly less intelligent group of girls, but from the same sort of homes as in previous years. The combination of home, school and community have been such that the girls have lacked opportunity for a "fair chance." We hope that another turn of the tide will send us the girls whom we are best fitted to train to help themselves, while those similar to very many of our present group will be recognized sooner as custodial cases and be sent directly to the State schools for mental defectives.

Because we believe that no one should be maintained at State expense who is physically and mentally capable of self support and in order to arouse and foster a sense of self reliance and a desire to contribute to the general good, we retain a girl as short a time as possible, usually two and one-half years, at the School, then parole her under careful supervision to some home where she can continue her development and training and take such schooling as is best suited to her mentality. As we think the State's plan in organizing and supporting this school is to prevent the pupils, its wards, from again being a charge upon the taxpayers, we endeavor to give the pupils of the school what will be of most benefit to them, of most lasting good to themselves, to the communities in which they may live and to posterity. Trades are temporarily useful, good in this locality, useless in that. Given motor control, concentration, persistence, attention, fair sight and health, some intelligence, any one can learn some trade that is established in the vicinity in which she happens to live. Most of the world has been learning trades and very few of the world are paid for by the State in twenty-four hour a day institutions. We know we are training for the most permanent good when we set the goal where there is the greatest as well as an eternal demand, the demand for good home-makers. Every spiritual, mental, and physical test, care and training which we now give, or can hope to give, or is known to science, can help but little enough in fitting a girl for that profession which almost every pupil chooses for herself, that "Ancient and Honorable Profession of Motherhood." The predestined failures of the school are the psychopathic and very deficient type by whom the school is advertised. The many successes cannot be published until society is sufficiently educated to regard them as what they are, not as their environment was, nor as they may have appeared to be at some one time in their lives. The successes who keep in touch with the school, although discharged, are grateful for their home training and wish they had appreciated better what was being offered to them.

The board respectfully urges the appropriation by this Legislature of sums sufficient to cover the following items:

APPROPRIATIONS DESIRED AT THE 1920 SESSION OF THE LEGISLATURE BY THE NEW YORK STATE TRAINING SCHOOL FOR GIRLS, HUDSON, N. Y.

For Personal Service	$ 95,240 00
For Maintenance and Operation
Food	40,800 00
Fuel, light, power and water.....	20,600 00
Clothing	12,500 00

Furniture, furnishings and household supplies	$13,300 00
Medical and surgical care, supplies and equipment	1,900 00
Farm and garden	3,500 00
Roads, grounds and walks.....	300 00
General administration	7,575 00
Office expenses	2,000 00
Traveling expenses	10,000 00
Fixed charges and contributions	14,000 00
Repairs and alterations to buildings, repairs and replacements of mechanical equipment	9,900 00

Total Maintenance and Operation (other than Personal Service)	$136,375 00
---	--------------

Total Personal Service and Maintenance and Operation	$231,615 00
--	--------------

Average inmate population for the year ending June 30, 1919	368.47
Per capita cost for year ending June 30, 1919....	$ 516 84
Population estimated for year beginning July 1, 1920	400

The sum for special repairs included in the last item under Maintenance and Operation is made up as follows:

For repairs and alterations to "Glenwood," McIntyre property	$3,000 00
--	------------

To preserve a valuable building from further deterioration; to make it available as a residence for one of the men employees, who will then be able to protect that part of the institution property; and to make the rest of the house available for important institution needs. Owing to lack of repairs and equipment, it has been impossible to use this house since the property was purchased, which means it is deteriorating from dampness, seasonal changes in temperature and the general decay of a building out of use.

Painting	$1,000 00
----------------	------------

For labor and materials as needed for both outside and inside painting of all buildings, to preserve iron work, roofs, woodwork and plaster walls — a constant need for upkeep.

Sewer alterations	100 00
-------------------------	--------

Installation of cesspool, recommended by State Department of Health, for cottage on Seventh street, which is not connected with city sewer system.

New floors in cottages and basement of administration building	2,700 00
--	----------

To continue work in cottage No. 3, begun under Chapter 151, Laws of 1918, and to replace badly-worn and unsanitary floors in basement of administration building.

Repairs to switch to coal pockets, to roofs, gutters, leaders, chimneys, chapel windows and farm buildings, based on yearly requirements.....	1,500 00
---	----------

For New Construction or Permanent Betterments

For starting work of fencing.....	$1,500 00
-----------------------------------	------------

Fencing of some kind must be started to replace the old fence which has largely fallen down. The property has no protection from stray cattle and horses nor from trespassers.

For construction of additional accommodations...	75,000 00

To increase capacity and to provide rooms for some of the fourteen officers who now reside in an old frame building known as the old hospital. For more than two years the institution has had to maintain a waiting list, as girls are committed more rapidly than vacancies are made by parole and discharge. The building in which the fourteen officers are housed has twice been abandoned for institution use, but has been reopened as a residence for officers in order not to reduce the cottage capacity for girls by using girls' rooms for officers. This old hospital building is regarded by the management and by inspectors as wholly unsuited for the purpose of a residence and is approaching a condition when it can no longer be used as such. The time to begin to increase the capacity for both girls and officers has surely arrived.

For outside connections..... $30,000 00

The building contemplated by the preceding item will start a new group of cottages and this item is intended to provide money for the necessary heating, lighting, water supply and sewage disposal.

For storehouse and refrigerating plant, equipment and outside connections..... 75,000 00

Chapter 790, Laws of 1913, appropriated $30,000 for a storehouse and refrigerating plant and equipment. Plans and specifications were prepared and the work advertised twice. All proposals exceeded amount of appropriation, as did the proposals for a hospital and for a contagious hospital. The Legislature, thereupon, reappropriated this sum together with those for the other two buildings mentioned, under chapter 334, Laws of 1915, for construction and equipment of hospital building and contagious hospital, conduits and outside connections and changes and repairs to administration building. No appropriation has since been made to replace buildings which were inadequate in 1913. The cold-storage plant contemplated has a floor area of approximately 2,850 square feet; the rest of the building contains approximately 5,700 square feet. It contains two stories and basement and some twenty rooms for storage of all kinds of food supplies and stores received and issued for the institution, besides a refrigerating plant and distributing rooms. The capacity of the present icehouse is sufficient for only part of the summer.

For additional appropriation for replacing underground steam and water mains and heating equipment	$6,000 00
--	------------

To complete work for which preceding appropriations have been inadequate, owing to present prices of materials and cost of labor. The Legislature of 1918 appropriated $11,000 for repairs to boiler settings and replacing underground steam and water mains and heating equipment. The Legislature of 1919 appropriated $7,000 for replacing underground steam and water mains and heating equipment. Under the first appropriation, repairs were made to the boiler settings of one unit. Plans and specifications for replacing part of the underground work were made and the work advertised this summer. The one proposal received exceeded the appropriation. It is hoped that, with the additional appropriation, the whole of this old portion of the heating and water systems may be replaced.

For poultry house.....	1,500 00
------------------------	----------

This request slightly increased in amount owing to advance in price of lumber, is renewed, although disallowed last year. With makeshift quarters, the present stock can be taken care of this winter. The instructor from Cornell is satisfied with the present showing and believes that poultry raising will prove to be a profitable industry at this institution.

Electric annunciator system in cottages.....	5,500 00
--	----------

Appropriation for electric annunciator system in cottages is requested in order to do away with the necessity for locking each girl's room door at night. The last four cottages and the hospital were equipped with this system when constructed. There are ten cottages without it. It is desired as a means of protection of life, in case of fire.

APPENDIX

STATE CHARITIES LAW

§ 204. Commitments; papers furnished by committing magistrates. 1. Whenever any female not over the age of sixteen years shall be brought before any court or committing magistrate, and it shall appear to the satisfaction of such court or magistrate by the confession of such female, or by competent testimony, that such female frequents reputed houses of prostitution or assignation, or frequents the company of thieves or prostitutes, or is found associating with vicious and dissolute persons or is wilfully disobedient to parent or guardian, and is in danger of becoming morally depraved; or is of intemperate habits, or is a vagrant or is guilty of any criminal offense, and who is not insane nor mentally or physically incapable of being substantially benefited by the training and discipline of such institution, she may be sentenced and committed to the New York State Training School for Girls, or placed in charge of the board of managers thereof, to be there confined under the provisions of law relating to such institution, but no person under the age of twelve years shall be committed to such institution for any crime or offense less than a felony, and no commitment made under this section which shall recite the facts upon which it is based, shall be deemed or held to be invalid by reason of any imperfection or defect in form. No person shall be committed to such institution nor placed in the charge of the board of managers thereof for a definite term, but any such person may be paroled or discharged at any time after her commitment, by the board of managers of such institution. Any such female under the age of fifteen years when so committed or placed in charge of the board of managers of said school, shall not be retained therein for a longer period than until she becomes of the age of eighteen; and such females, fifteen years of age or over, when so committed, shall not be detained for a period longer than three years from the time of such commitment. Every such female shall continue to be a ward of such institution until she becomes of the age of twenty-one years, notwithstanding her parole or discharge therefrom, and it shall be the duty of said board of managers to continue to exercise over her such control as may be necessary for her welfare during her said minority as a ward of said institution; and if deemed by said board of managers necessary for her welfare or for her protection from evil associations or companionship, said board may return her temporarily to said institution at any time during her said minority. If any such female shall marry during her said minority such wardship shall thereupon terminate.

2. The board of managers of such institution shall furnish the several county clerks of the state with suitable blanks for the commitment of females thereto. Such county clerks shall immediately notify the magistrates of their respective counties of the reception of such blanks and that upon application they will be furnished to them.

3. The magistrate committing a female, pursuant to this section, shall immediately notify the superintendent of the institution to which the commitment is made of the conviction of such female, and shall cause a record to be kept of the name, age, birthplace, occupation, previous commitments, if any, and for what offenses; the last place of residence of such female, and the particulars of the offense for which she is committed. The magistrate shall also execute a warrant of commitment, which shall recite the facts upon which it is based, and the name, age, birthplace, occupation, previous commitments, if any, and for what offenses, and the last place of residence of such female. This warrant of commitment shall be delivered to a person authorized by law to accompany such female to the institution, and shall be delivered by such person to the superintendent of such institution, who shall cause the facts stated therein, and such other facts as may be directed by the board of managers, to be entered in a book of record. This warrant of commitment shall constitute the only paper requisite to a commitment to this institution.

4. Such magistrate shall, before committing any such female, inquire into and determine the age of such female at the time of commitment, and her age as so determined shall be stated in the warrant. The statement of the age of such female in such warrant shall be conclusive evidence as to such age, in any action to recover damages for her detention or imprisonment under such warrant, and shall be presumptive evidence thereof in any other inquiry, action or proceeding relating to such detention or imprisonment. If the court or magistrate shall omit to insert in the warrant of commitment the age of any delinquent committed to such school, the managers shall, as soon as may be after such delinquent shall be received by them, ascertain her age by the best means in their power, and cause the same to be entered in a book to be designated by them for that purpose, and the age of such delinquent thus ascertained shall be deemed and taken to be the true age of such delinquent. (As amended by chapter 340 of the Laws of 1909, and chapter 449 of the Laws of 1910, and chapter 486 of the Laws of 1911.)

§ 205. Return of females improperly committed. Whenever it shall appear to the satisfaction of the board of managers of such institution, that any person committed thereto is not of proper age to be so committed or is not properly committed, or is insane or mentally incapable of being materially benefited by the discipline of such institution, such board of managers shall cause the return of such female to the county from which she was so committed. Such female shall be so returned in the custody of one of the persons employed by such board of managers to convey to such institution females committed thereto, who shall deliver her into the custody of the sheriff of the county from which she was committed. Such sheriff shall take such female before the magistrate making the commitment, or some other magistrate having equal jurisdiction in such county, to be by such magistrate resentenced for the offense for which she was committed to such institution and dealt with in all respects as though she had not been so committed. The cost and expenses of the return of such female necessarily incurred and paid by such board of managers, shall be a charge against the county from which such female was committed, to be paid by such county to such board of managers in the same manner as other county charges are collected.

§ 206. Disposition of children of females so committed and of the mothers of such children. If any female committed to such institution, at the time of such commitment, is a mother of a nursing child in her care under one year of age, or is pregnant with child which shall be born after such commitment, such child may accompany its mother to and remain in such institution until it is two years of age and must then be removed therefrom. The board of managers of such institution may cause such child to be placed in any asylum for children in this state, or may place such child under the care and custody of a proper person willing to assume such care, and pay for the care and maintenance of such child at a reasonable rate, until the mother of such child shall have been discharged from the institution, and may make such change from time to time in the care and custody of such child as the board may deem advisable. If such female, at the time of such commitment, shall be the mother of and have under her exclusive care a child more than one year of age, which might otherwise be left without proper care or guardianship, the magistrate committing such female shall cause such child to be committed to such asylum as may be provided by the law for such purposes, or to the care and custody of some relative or proper person willing to assume such care. If a female, when committed, is pregnant with child, the board of managers may, at any time after commitment, place such female in any maternity hospital, or with any proper person or family in this state, and pay at a reasonable rate for the care and maintenance of such female and such child, if any, until such child becomes two years of age, when the mother must be returned to such institution and the child disposed of as hereinabove provided in the case of a child who remains in the institution until it is two years of age. If a female, when committed, is the mother of a nursing child in her care under one year of age, the board of managers may also cause such mother and child to be placed in the care and custody of a proper person willing to assume such care, and pay therefor a reasonable rate for maintenance and care until the child becomes two years of age, when the mother must be returned to such institution and the child disposed of as hereinabove provided, in the case of a child who remains in the institution until it is two years of age. Said board shall cause the return to the institution of said mother, in either case hereinbefore provided for, before the child becomes two years of age, whenever, in the opinion of said board, the best interests of said mother and child will justify the separation. (As amended by chapter 555 of the Laws of 1911, and chapter 158 of the Laws of 1915.)

§ 208. Conveyance of females committed. The board of managers of such institution shall employ suitable female persons to be known as marshals, to convey from the place of conviction to such institution all females legally committed thereto, and such marshals shall have the power and authority of deputy sheriffs in respect thereto. All expenses necessarily incurred in making such conveyance shall be paid by the treasurer of the board of managers.

§ 209. Detentions and rearrests in cases of escape. The board of managers of such institution may detain therein, under the rules and regulations adopted by them, any female legally committed thereto, according to the terms of the sentence and commitment, and conditionally discharge such female at any time prior to the expiration of the term of commitment. If an inmate escape or be conditionally discharged from such institution, the board of managers may cause her to be rearrested and returned to such institution, to be detained therein for the unexpired portion of her term, dating from the time of her escape or conditional discharge. A person employed by the board of managers of such institution to convey to such institution females committed thereto, may arrest, without a warrant, an escaped inmate in any county in this state, and shall forthwith convey her to the institution from which she escaped; and a magistrate may cause an escaped inmate to be arrested and held in custody, until she can be removed to such institution, as in the case of her first commitment thereto. A person conditionally discharged from such institution may be arrested and returned thereto, upon a warrant issued by its president and secretary. Such warrant shall briefly state the reason for such arrest and return, and shall be directed and delivered to a person employed by such board of managers to convey to such institution females committed thereto, and may be executed by such person in any county of this state.

§ 210. Employment of inmates. The board of managers of such institution shall determine the kind of employment for females committed thereto and shall provide for the necessary custody and superintendence. The provisions for the safe keeping and employment of such females shall be made for the purpose of teaching such females a useful trade or profession and improving their mental and moral condition. Such board of managers may credit such females with a reasonable compensation for the labor performed by them, and may charge them with the necessary expenses of their maintenance and discipline, not exceeding the sum of two dollars per week. If any balance shall be found to be due such females at the expiration of their terms of commitment, such balance may be paid to them at the time of their discharge. To secure the safe keeping, obedience and good order of the females committed to such institution, the superintendent thereof has the same powers as to such females as keepers of jails and penitentiaries possess as to persons committed to their custody.

§ 211. Clothing and money to be furnished discharged inmates.

The board of managers of such institution may, in their discretion, furnish to each inmate of such institution who shall be discharged therefrom, necessary clothing not exceeding twelve dollars in value, or if discharged between the first day of November and the first day of April to the value of not exceeding eighteen dollars, and ten dollars in money, and a ticket for the transportation of one person from such institution to the place of conviction of such inmate, or to such other place as such inmate may designate, at no greater distance from such institution than the place of conviction.

§ 212. Freedom of worship. Nothing herein contained shall interfere with the right of freedom of worship of any inmate confined within said institution, as provided by the constitution of the state of New York.

§ 213. Confinement of female juvenile delinquents under sentences by the courts of the United States. The superintendent of the New York State Training School for Girls, at Hudson, shall receive and safely keep in such institution, subject to the regulations and discipline thereof, and the provisions of this article, any female not over the age of sixteen years convicted of any offense against the United States, and sentenced to imprisonment by any court of the United States, sitting within this state, until such sentences be executed, or until such delinquent shall be discharged by due course of law, conditioned upon the United States supporting such delinquent and paying the expenses attendant upon the execution of such sentence. (As amended by chapter 449 of the Laws of 1910.)

PENAL LAW

§ 2184. Sentence to * * * New York State Training School for Girls.

* * * * *

Where a female person not over the age of twelve years is convicted of a crime amounting to felony, or where a female person of the age of twelve years and not over the age of sixteen years is convicted of a crime, the trial court may, instead of sentencing her to imprisonment in a state prison or in a penitentiary, direct her to be confined in the New York State Training School for Girls, under the provisions of the statute relating thereto, but nothing in this section shall affect any of the provisions contained in section twenty-one hundred and ninety-four. (As amended by chapter 607 of the Laws of 1913.)

* * * * *

§ 2186. Sentence of minors to imprisonment. * * * A child of more than seven and less than sixteen years of age, who shall commit any act or omission which, if committed by an adult, would be a crime not punishable by death or life imprisonment, shall not be deemed guilty of any crime, but of juvenile delinquency only, but any other person concerned therein, whether as principal or accessory, who otherwise would be punishable as a principal or accessory shall be punishable as a principal or accessory in the same manner as if such child were over sixteen years of age at the time the crime was committed. Any child charged with any act or omission which may render him guilty of juvenile delinquency shall be dealt with in the same manner as now is or may hereafter be provided in the case of adults charged with the same act or omission except as specially provided heretofore in the case of children under the age of sixteen years. (As amended by chapter 478 of the Laws of 1909.)

§ 2194. Sentence of minor under sixteen years of age. When a person under the age of sixteen is convicted of a crime, he may, in the discretion of the court, instead of being sentenced to fine or imprisonment, be placed in charge of any suitable person or institution willing to receive him, and be thereafter, until majority or for a shorter term, subjected to such discipline and control of the person or institution receiving him as a parent or guardian may lawfully exercise over a minor. A child under sixteen years of age committed for misdemeanor, under any provision of this chapter, must be committed to some reformatory, charitable or other institution authorized by law to receive and take charge of minors. And when any such child is committed to an institution it shall when practicable, be committed to an institution governed by persons of the same religious faith as the parents of such child.
